Precocious Piety.

A Michigan lawyer tells the following story: "Several years ago I was practicing law in one of the many beautiful towns in Wisconsin. One very warm day, while seated in my office at work, I was interrupted by the entrance of a boy, the son of one of my clients, who had walked into town six miles, in a blazing sun, for the purpose of procuring a bible. He had been told, he said, there was a place where they gave them away to people who had no money, and he said he was very anxious to get one of the books, and asked me to go to the place where they were kept. Anxious to encourage him in his early piety, I left the brief on which I was and went with him over the stand of a Presbyterian deacon who had the much coveted books in charge. I introduced him to the deacon, telling him the circumstances. He praised the boy very highly; was delighted to see the young man so early seeking after the truth, ect.; and presented him with the best bound bible in his collection. Bubby put it in his pocket, and was starting off, when the deacon said;

"Now, my son, that you possess what you desired, I suppose you will feel happy?"

"Well, I do, old hoss; for between you and I, I know where I can trade it for a plaguey good fiddle!"
