WIT AND SENTIMENT.

A Wife's Prayer.

Is there anything that comes nearer to the imploration of Naomi than the subjoined? then we have not seen it. Let every wife learn it and pray it:

"Lord bless and preserve that dear person whom thou hast chosen to be my husband; let his life be long and blessed, comfortable and holy; and let me also become a great blessing and comfort to him, a sharer in all his sorrows; a meek helper in all the accidents and changes in the world; and make me amiable forever in his eyes and forever dear to him. Unite his heart to me in the dearest love and holiness, and mine to him in all sweetness, charity and compliance-keep me from ungentleness, discontentedness and unreasonableness of passion and humor, and make me humble and obedient, useful and observant, that we may delight in each other according to Thy blessed word, and both of us may rejoice in Thee, having our portion in the love and service of God forever. Amen.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE -If there be anything in life which ought to be sacredly guarded from everything that can put it in peril, it is that which unites the members of a family. If there be a spot upon earth from which discord and strife should be banished, it is the fireside. There centre the fondest hopes and the most tender affections. How lovely the spectacle presented by that family which is governed by the spirit! Each strives to avoid giving offense, and is studiously considerate of the others' happiness. Sweet, loving dispositions are cultivated by all, and each tries to surpass the other in his efforts for the common harmony. Each heart glows with love; and the benediction of heavenly peace seems to abide upon that dwelling with such power that no black fiend of passion dare rear his head within it.

Who would not realize this lovely picture? It may be realized by all who will employ the appointed means. Let the precepts of the Gospel be applied as they are designed to be, and they will be found to shed a holy charm upon the family circie, and make it what God designed that it should be, the most heavenly like scene rious thing it is for a human heart. Those | and winter from overhanging trees. who work hard seldom yield themselves entirely up to fancied or real sorrow. When grief sits down, folds its hands, and mournfully feeds upon its own tears. weaving the dim shadows that a little exertion might sweep away into a funeral pall, the strong spirit is shorn of its might, and sorrow becomes our master. When troubles flow upon you, dark and heavy, toil not with the torrent-rather seek by occupation to divert the dark waters that threaten to overwhelm you into a thousand channels which the duties of life always waters will fertilize the present, attutionse birth to fresh flowers that they may brighten the future-flowers that will become pure and holy, in the sunshine which penctrates to the path of duty.-Grief, after all is but a selfish feeling and most selfish is he who yields himself to the indulgence of any passion that brings no joy to his fellow men.

NOT A CHRISTIAN BUT A BAGGAGE-Master.-An accident happened to a train on the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad a while ago out in Ohio. The baggage-master sat in his car reading at the time, but perceiving by the motion of the car that an accident had taken place, he attempted to jump out, but was caught between two boxes and badly jammed .-He was taken out in an insensible condition, and being laid on the ground an attempt was made to revive him, which proved successful. As he opened his eyes to a consciousness of things, a clergyman stepped out from the circle who surrounded him, to offer prayer for his complete restoration. He kneeled down by the side of the victim, but before proceeding with his work of mercy, he asked the youth, "Are you a Christian?" "No sir," as emphatically as his weak condition would allow, "I'm a baggage-masteon the Atlantic and Great Western Rail-

A DISTRACTING GAITER BOOT.-Fanny Fern must have a pretty foot, or she could not afford, or would not feel inclined to let out so much truth as she does in the following paragraph without bitterly rating those "horrid male bipeds" for their weakness in yielding to such feminine attractions:

"Show but a strip of white stocking above your boot, or a bit of embroidered skirt, or balmoral, and you may lead a man by the nose. I have positively seen gentlemen standing at the corners eagerly bobbing their heads this way and that, to catch a sight of a gaiter boot as they alight from the various omnibusses. Not all young men either—but gray-headed old codgers, who had grandpa written all

FARMER'S COLUMN.

Is Salt Necessary for Stocks.—A writer on the subject argues with considerable force and ingenuity, bringing many facts to sustain his position, that the practice of feeding stock with salt is a useless one. Another writer indorses the opinion, backing it with the following experience:

"Some eighteen years since, while living at Tangier, in the Empire of Morocco, we sent into the interior of the Empire to purchase of a tribe of Bedouins, who were famous for their choice and rare stocks of barbs, or Arab horses, one of their fine barbs for our own use, which we were so fortunate as to obtain, after not a little maneuvering and diplomacy. As a matter of course we made a great pet of him; and almost the first thing we offered him, as a condiment to his feed of barley and straw (the universal food of the horses of that country,) was a handful of salt; but to our surprise he would not touch it, but turned up his aristocratic nose at it, as if he felt a big disgust at such, to him, unsavory dose. On making further inquiry, and experimenting with several barbs that we owned subsequently, we found that neither the Moors nor Arabs ever gave salt to their horses, cattle or sheep. And yet there are no horses in the world equal in healthful vigor, in powers of endurance or elasticity of movement and robust constitution, to these same Arab horses."

WATER FOR FOWLS .- It is too much the idea that any description will do, and that provided there be some within their reach, though it may have been there a week, nothing more is required. This is a mistake. Water for fowls and chickens should be clean; the vessel containing it should be well rinsed out every morning; it is a good plan to put a little gravel at the bottom, and it should be changed twice a day. I am aware many will be disposed to think this unnecessary; but I will ask any one who has the opportunity to try, whether where there is a stream of water running through a yard, they can cause poultry to forsake it by placing water nearer to their haunts; it will always be found they prefer going to the stream to drinking out of the pan or tub.

There is little doubt many of the diseases of poultry arise from the filthy water they are obliged to drink from ponds full of decayed vegetable matter, and Occupation. - Occupation! what a glo- tainted by the fall of leaves in autumn

> KEEP CATTLE GROWING.—The growth is a constant process, and every means should be taken to aid it in the healthiest way. That this cannot be done, is obvious enough, by lessening either the quality or the quantity of its food, or by being careless as to the shelter provided for it and the healthy exercise which it is necessary it should have. There is, reasoning from analogy, some ground for the belief that there must be some system of management of young calves which affords the best practical results, and yet, amidst the direction opinion and of consequent ROCKING CHAIRS, OF EVERY SIZE one desirons to adopt the difficult for any management to know what that mode is.

Pasturage of Cows.-It is a wellknown that Cheshire, England, is a great dairy county. This lies not far from Liverpool. Chester, the market town, is perhaps a dozen or fifteen miles from that city. Most of the land has been underdrained, and top-dressed with ground bones, and such land will carry one cow fully solicits a liberal share of public patronto the acre. Where it has not been top- age. dressed and drained a cow will require | Co. Pa. two acres. They use 1,200 to 1,500 weight of bones to the acre about once in NEW FIRM. seven years. How many acres does it take to keep a cow well in this country ? Wouldn't it pay to bring up our pastures.

To Cook Codfish.-Take a piece of fish about three inches square. Freshen TOBACCO, for five minutes in boiling water. Take CIGARS, it out, and shred very fine. Add one quart of milk and two tablespoonfulls of cream. Set on the stove to boil, while CODFISH, you prepare thickening in the following GRAIN, way. Take a teaspoonfull of flour and a little butter and pepper. Mix well together, and add a very little milk or water to make a batter. This should be perfectly smooth and free from all lumps. WORK FOR WET DAYS .- Look after your implements and tools. Do not let them lie around, in out-of-the-way places, to get rusty, but have "a place for everything, and everything in its place." These are the days to attend to them, and when you are through, and have looked over your cattle and sheep, take your paper in hand, and see if you cannot get some new ideas to work upon when the rain is over.
