

Democrat and Sentinel.

The Result.

The election is over, and John W. Geary is to be the future Governor of Pennsylvania. What a thrill of horror passes through the hearts of the freemen of Pennsylvania at this dreadful announcement. How the poor and needy tremble at the fate that is ere long awaiting them.

The future of our country looks dark and gloomy. A Governor without a soul—a Congress without a principle—a Legislature whose detestable acts will cast the black pall of darkness over the citizens whom they represent.

Fenianism.

Religion, secret societies, &c., have often been introduced into party politics, and in many cases proved a useful auxiliary to place in office the men who introduced them—but the late election has disclosed a new dodge which will in future be practised by Radical office hunters throughout the country.

We know that the love of country is dear to the heart of foreigners. They would sacrifice all their worldly possessions to see the shackles removed from the land of their nativity; but is D. J. Morrell in favor of removing the fetters that bind the Irish people?

Election Returns.

"Hallo Pompey, what's de nuse?" "Oh glorious nuse way down in de town, Sam; nuse has just cum in by Atlantic Telgraf dat Geary am 'lected President ob Pennsilbany by 16,000 ob a vote!"

BASE BALL.—It is almost impossible to believe that the lovers of this innocent amusement were not included in the late political campaign. They were entirely cast out of the political arena through an oversight of our future Congressman.

For Governor, Edward Roberts received 22 votes—no Republican nomination for the office.

Table of election returns for Governor, Associate Judges, Assembly, and Representatives. Lists names and vote counts for various districts.

RENEGADE DEMOCRATS.—It is a singular fact that the men who were at one time objects of charity in the Democratic party are now numbered on the list of our opponents. They are the life and soul of our adversaries.

A Disappointment.

Partisan bitterness in Tennessee is of the most malignant type, produced by the ruffianly proceedings of Brownlow, the present Governor of the State. One day last week it was reported in Knoxville, the home of Brownlow that he was dead, when there were public manifestations of rejoicing over the news.
