Select Beetry. I CANNOT GALL HER MOTHER.

BY BARAN T. BOLTON The marriage rite is over, And though I turned aside The best the guests from seeing The sears I could not hide; I oreached my hoe in smilling. And led my little brother To greet my father's chosen, But I could not call her mother

She is a fair young creature, With a meak and gentle air, With bine eyes soft and loving, And silken sunny hair-I know my father gives her, The love ine bors another, But if she were an angei I could not call her mother.

To-aight I heard her singing A song I used to love, When its sweet notes were atta By her who sings above; t pained my heart to hear it, And my tears I could not smoth For every word was hallowed By the dear voice of my mother

My father, in the sumshine Of happy days to come, May half forget the shadow That dariesed our old home His heart no more is lonely, But I and little brother, Must still be orphan children... God can give us bet one mothe They've borne my mother's pistur

They've borne my mother's pistur From its accustomed place, And set beside my father's A younger, fairer face; They've made her dear old chamb The boudoir of another, But I will not forget thee, My own, my angel mother
