The Down-Town Beggar Girl,

It was two full hours after the carriage had left the up-town palace, when a little forlorn creature held out her bony hand-in front of the large white building cornering on Broadway and Chambers street-to solicit a meagre penny of Chambers street-to solicit a meagre penny of CROW Hars, Diri Picks, Mauoch, Mboveis, &c., at REED'S the passers-by. The little girl was so thinly Oct 7. elad you could see the outline of her half starved little frame. The day was blustering, and the wind seemed to penetrate to her very heart, as she stood there holding out that miserable mite of a hand, more like a bird's claw than a human hand.

An gelaborately dreased lady, blazing in satin and jewelery, came out of the building. "Please, lady, one penny"---spoke the little weak, timid voice.

But the lady merely glanced at the shivering little morsel of humanity, remarking to her companion that she wondered what the "authorities" permitted such objects to block up the way for; for streets ought to be cleared of such nuisances."

Just then a dirty rag picker, who had been Just then a dirty rag picker, who had been busily engaged in picking over some offal in the gutter, approached. The enterprising searcher after bits of linen, stopped and hestiated; it was, however, but for a moment He fumbled in his dirty, ragged pockets, brought forth a coin, and dropped it into the little girl's hand.

Loss and Gain.

We learn that A. J. Wenham lost several hundred dollars in bank bills at the late fire, the safe in which they were deposited not resisting the action of the flames. Of course every such poor man's loss is some rich banker's gain. Every bank bill burned, drouched, destroyed in any way, is so much gained to the bank which issued it These institutions have a direct interest in every block Atlantic now on the bottom of Lake Erie con-tains several thousand dollars of these "promises to pay," when the same shall be presented for payment The captain of a sail vessel in Ashta-bula drew $500 from the Ashtabula Bank in its own bills, went on board of his vessel and went down with her in a gale Bis body nor his money were never recovered His widow asked relief from the bank, but no relief was given on the special nlee that the " that burns, boat that blows up, and vessel that special plea that the decased might have chanspecial plea that the decased might have chan-ged said money between the Bank and the vessel. So we go. The world is full of "loss and gain," and the great question seems to be who shall be the losers and who the gainers?— "Heads I win, tails you lose," say the banks.—Cleveland Plain tails you lose," say the banks. - Cleveland Plain Dealer

HORSE SENSE -Mr Allen, a passenger on the ill-fated steamer Princess, had on board a fine horse which he was carrying down to New Orleans, which acted in a manner truly philisophical. The horse was tied on deck, and whilst the flames were raging around him so near as to burn him quite severely, he remained per-fectly passive until the halter by which he was n/y, and warranted to be as represented. He died in twenty. four hours from the effects of the bite.

An old gentleman in Bond street, is such a stickler for independence, that he wont the other day and bought 150 three shilling chairs, so that when his funeral takes place he won't be 'beholden to his merit door neighbors' for the loan of any-thing. The very next day he aligned on anon. thing. The very next day he slipped on an-orange peel, and had to be borne home on a shutter, by three hod carriers and a dirty faced youth, with 'windows in his trowsers' This being 'in-dependent of your neighbors' won't work. Even Astor een't bring it about. He is as much dependent on the world as the poor devil who carries in coals.- Dutchman.
