The French loss is 80 killed and 186 wounds Accounts have also been received of an attack made by the Russian troops, numbering, it is estimated about 30,000 upon the forta in the vicinity of Balaklava, a town in the rear of the allied position. On the evening of the 26th, the Russians, 8000 strong, made a sortie from the town, as well as from the direction of Balakava, but were repulsed with great slaughter-3000 men being left deed on the field

THE LATEST .- Later advices say the bombardment from the heights was still vigorously carried on, and Quaranuhe Fort and Fort Constantine had been raised. The southern tower and other forts had been demolished. The town it is also stated was on fire in three different plaees. It was evident that Sevan opol could not hold out much longer. According to one account the assault was to be made on Nov. 2d.

A telegraphic despatch was received in Liverpool from a Greek house that the place had been positively captured, but it requires confirmation.

nearly one per cent. As such a tendency was particularly dangerous at this time, when the Emperor is in want of money, and the news from Sevastopol so gloomy that the festivities at Gampiegne are a second time postponed, he had no time for hestistion or dignity. His note to tone then the Constitutionnel, was therefore comnunicated in substance to the Paris Bourse, some hours before it was delivered formally to the Logation, in order to stop the alarming decline of lunds. The note withdraws all objections to Mr. Soule's free passage trough France. Louis Napoleon moreover invites Mr. Soule to proceed through the Empire on his way to Madrid.

It is certain that the whole influence of the British Ministry has been exerted through Lord, the Washington Union for certain articles in re-Clarendon, to produce the result that has been attained. The French governement did not an ticipate so decided a stand as that taken by Mr. Mason ; it thought that he would refer the matter to the governement at Washington, which was considered too feeble to do anything.

It is said that Louis Napoleon has been the wild Yankee nation, that he has resigned until Sevastopol is really en prise.
