Hews of the Week

Our information from Harrisburg is neither fall nor satisfactory Acorrespondent writes us under date of the 23d that the bill repealing the charter of the Eric and North East road, reported the next day; and he hoped to be able to report its passage next week. It is not to be disguised though, he says, that its friends will have to meet a formidable opposition. Though not legitimate in this connection we cannot refrain from giving a passage from our correspondent, personal to our self, showing as it does that an article for which we have been denounced as a "Shanghai" by the hot headed and the ultraat home, is looked upon by our mends at Harrisburg as having proved eminently beneficial to the success of our cause.

Says he, "Your well considered, well timed. and excellent article in relation to the unfortunate occurrence at Eric on the 5th inst , rendered our cause here a caluable service. Prejudice ran for a time fearfully high, after the ill-advised and unfortunate transaction of he 8th. The odium and prejudice cast upon our cause was not only severe but for a time threatening. Fortunately, your conservative article came to hand. and with it the proceedings of the meeting held by the citizens at Erie, disavowing the acts and occurrences of the 8th. This enabled us to explain and give assurance of what the true state public sentiment was at Erie, and in some degree quieted and lulled the techng of dissatisfaction. affairs.

If he chooes to come, he can, and if he doesn't, he need not If he does come, however, the judge takes him, and the opposite party, into a private room, where they can say what they please, because the bill makes the communications strictly confidentitid. No lawyers are allowed to be present, and no witness, the idea of Mr CLAPP being, that the less the judge knows about the matter, the better. The feature of dispensing with lawyers and witnesses, seems to be copied from the Spanish Inquisition. While the idea of drawing admissions and confessions out of an offending party, comes with a bad grace from a member of that great society, that has risen to its present For the life of us, we cannot see what would be the difference, supposing Mr. CLAPP's courts to to be organized, between the functions of a judge of conciliation and those of a confessor, except that the judge would have the right to make out a decree on the admission of the defendant, and send it to another tribunal to be carried into effect Know Nothingism has certainly found an able advocate in the Divine turned politician.
