He died of a street debt. upon which he expended his strength every week in throwing it ahead from one day to seven

> There is a man now living near Sidney, in Shelby county, O., nearly ninety years of age, who has a bet pending with a neighbor, that he will live to be a hundred years old. The wager is a hundred bushels of corn, and in case either or both should die before the expiration of the hundred years, their heirs are obli gated to pay over the required amount. It is said that the old goutleman has adopted a system of dieting and daily exercise. He is determined to have the hundred bushels of corn.-

An Appecting Parewell.-The St. Louis Intelligencer formally takes its leave of the whig party, and announces its withdrawal in the following terms:

first emanating from the Department, which have now reached many thousand. They are beauti-On the upper corners is a blue shield with thirentitles the holder. In the centre of the warrant these same firster very much entered and also placed, while across them is written the name of the person to whom it is given, his position in the army, to what division he belonged, and in what war he served. At the right of this is a fine steel medallion portrait of U. S. Senster BROADHEAD of Pa., and on the left a similar likeness of R McClklland, Secretary of the Interior from which Department the warrants issue. -On the right hand, lower corner, is a group of soldiers amosing themselves in camp with dram and pipe, and story-telling-on the opposite side, a family resting from the labors of the barvest-field, in the heat of the day. The vignette of the whole is a battle-field with the Commander-in-Chief giving directions to his staff, in the foreground. and in the distance the smoke of the battle and the moving columns of men. It is a very beautiful design, and when filled out so as to entitle the holder to a homestead, looks still more agreeable. The one shown us was issued April 26th, and goes to a soldier of the war of 1819

We believe these are the first warrants receive ed in this city under the new act, and they show that Prestou & Co. have facilities not surpassed, for procuring them from the General Govern ment. - Detroit Tribune.
