

LITERARY & MISCELLANEOUS. The published department of Mails from Philadelphia, it appears there are no letters for Erie. We hope the Buffalo Postmaster will be able to advise the Erie Postmaster of the Postmaster General.

The great topic of the past week has been the mysterious Sam, and the Convention of his children from all parts of the Union. It is, however, already been communicated to the swift wings of lightning, to every quarter of the country, and all the world has heard that on the slavery question a rupture took place between the Northern and Southern States.

Mountainward he is rallying cry for the fresh breezes of the upper air, for the green grass and the wild flowers, for the great oak forests, and the rippling cascades, for the rippling brooks and the sparkling pines. The last excitement of New York life is past—political and financial struggle for rest, and the matrimonial exchange is about to open its store in the green lanes, and the lovers' walks and the cool piazza of the residential mountains.
