We notice that most of the opposition presset are jubilant over the result of the recent Election in Connecticut. We always knew our political opponents were thankful for small favors, but we really had no idea that they would set up such an uncarled for shout over a result which, if not a total route, has demonstrated most conclusively that upon another trial defeat is inevitable. In truth, the result is most gratifying to the Democracy, and demonstrates what we have always contended, that the principles of the Nebraska Bill were only to be investigated to meet with the approbiation of the masses. And in proof "lys Connecticut in a most opertune example In that State, notwithstanding an unprecedentedly heavy vote, notwithstanding there were three distinct opposition tickets in the field, not withs anding the State (to use the language of another) "was shingled over with inflammatory its every sity, town, and village was filled with political emmissaries from abroad, and notwithstanding abolitionists, know-nothings, tectotall.
