NEW YORK.

[Correspondence of the Erie Observer.]

New York, June 5, 1856.

The "music of the Union" is sadly discordant at present, and persons find it a difficult task to keep time to the old familiar steps of their fathers, marred as they have been by foreign interpolations and the discords introduced by demagogues. That accommodating class, the professional politicians are in an especial quandary, like a regiment with bands in front and rear, each playing in different time — Willing souls, they would gladly keep step with all, but cannot tell which to choose Sumner and Kansas, the South the north, and the sweets of Government patronage all beckon them, and for a month, until the dust of the Presidential contest has all cleared away, they must wait without laboring.

The honest patriotism of the country is equally confounded by the clear and clear survey of the whole field, we may hope that the quiet conservatives of all sections will speak and that their voice of reason will be heard by the country. That the integrity of the republic is endangered is evident, and, as in all quarrels, that neither side is wholly right is equally clear. Our people have become too fond of the habit of political racing, and, in their excitement, forgetting how far they can force their horses without bursting. The extra pressure put on, just now, by all parties for the sake of political effect, is dangerous. The South is in a "peculiarly perplexing predicament," in view of our delicate relations with Great Britain. The British Lion may take it into his head to use the advantage of our internal dissensions, and spring upon us in all his wrath. In that case, cotton would feel the first weight of his paw, and a wholesale emancipation of slaves might be the immediate result. The value of the north would then be felt, but with the remembrance of a brother's blow tingling his ears it may be questioned whether Jonathan would give a very zealous aid to the Southern plantations.

New York is to send abroad, in connection with our other great cities, her mighty voice in condemnation of the outrages which struck at the right of free speech, in the attack on Senator Sumner. A mountain wave of public opinion will soon roll on Washington! Let those who have braved it, be swept from the decks.

The large manufactories of fire arms, in this city and other portions of the country, are overwhelmed with the demand for rifles and revolvers. In this a consequence of the pugnacious disposition so remarkably prevalent in all quarters. The statistics of gutta percha cane sales will doubtless be equally interesting.

Our sport lovers and artists are in despair. The ten thousand organ grinders of New York have well nigh done for them, by the sources of furlsit which they have given the public in their everlasting, day and night grinding through the streets of the gem of song, Sonambula, Norma, Trovatore, &c., till the air from the Five Points to Gramercy Park. The latest airs from Europe can scarcely be rehearsed before they are on the town, ground out free, and floating promiscuously away on the bosom of every zephyr that blows. The prima donnas have stopped singing, the little boys have given up whistling, and have to be content with the organ wonders of the barrelled music.

The city interest is now forcefully directed upon the ancient Brick church, whose lofty spire has borne the storms of nearly a century, and is now about to departure dust — with the men and mementoes of our revolutionary era. It was the first building dedicated to Presbyterian worship in this city. During the occupation of New York by the British, it was used as a military hospital.

The large subterranean vaults have been opened, and the remains of the dead are being removed to the rural cemeteries where Mamon in will possibly, not violate again the seal of the tomb. We observed a skull thrown up by the workmen, with the leaden ball, which had been the messenger of death, found rattling within it. A startling comment upon the vanity of earthly things is taught in the fact, that many of the loved and cherished, who were here but a few years since, ambient and full of life and hope, have long since found death and time done their work of oblivion. And of these, who, decay has partially spared, there is few with a remembering friend to follow them to their wooded burial.

Mr. Fillmore is to have a thousand dollar reception when he arrives in New York in June. These ovations to our Know Nothing politicians, Buchanan and Fillmore, remind one of the return of Napoleon's remains. It may be that they may find a tomb in the political Invalides. ERIE.

We erred last week in stating that Dr. G New was "late of New Castle, Pa." He was formerly of above place and late of Meadville. The following testimonial of the President of the Bank and other gentlemen of high standing in New Castle show that he was highly esteemed, both as a successful practicioner and a citizen, during his residence in that place:

The undersigned were intimately acquainted with Dr. Newmeyer during his residence in New Castle, some years, and regard him as a highly respectable and intelligent man of judgement and skill in his profession.

Capt. John Stewart, says the Buff. Com., a very worthy sailor and master, died near his residence at Point au Clair Co., Mich on Wednesday. He was found in a small building used as a schoolhouse, and coming out, search was made, and was found dead (a suicide).

Captain Stewart was about fifty five years of age. He entered life as a sailor on Lake Erie, in 1819; and has almost constantly employed in one capacity or another on the Western Lakes since that time. He was an experienced and skillful sailor a man of the most unblemished character and of habits of life entirely exemplary and temperate.

He was in command of the steamer Michigan during the last season, and he has necessarily commanded a number of lake craft and other steamers. As a sailor he was a good sailor, an honest man, and a most kindhearted of human beings.

The Germans are seldom affected with consumption, the reason of this is said to be that their lungs receive strength by exercise in vocal music which constitutes an essential part of their education.—Ex

To this should be added (says a cotemporary) much other exercise and frequency in the open air. It is a religious duty with the German to spend a portion of his time in the gymnasium. The volume and strength of lungs are attributable quite as much to his muscular physical exercise. Whoever has large and strong lungs is safe from consumption, whether he be German or Yankee. There is no, however, to be learnt from the German as a physical point of view. They are a sociable fellow-creature and yet are substantial and thoughtful.

Lieut. Wm. Lynch, U. S. N., who is now on the Lake Expedition, under the command of Lieut. Morris Berrien Davis, (now,) Lieut Robert McArran and Passed Midshipman Forbes, with a party of seamen, left Norfolk last month for Buffalo, on Lake Erie. They transported two steamboats, one named the Lawrence and the Welland Canal propeller, a double wheel steamship of 220 tons burden, built by Messrs. W. Merrick & Sons, Philadelphia, under the immediate supervision of Temporary Assistant Engineers, detailed for the survey of the Lakes.

ARRIVAL OF THE NIAGARA.

HALIFAX, June 5

The steamer Niagara arrived at this port at 5 o'clock this morning, but it was impossible to telegraph the news last night for this morning.

The Niagara brings 130 passengers for Boston and her dates are to Saturday noon, 24th ult.

Arabia arrived in Liverpool the 18th ult.

North Star arrived at Cowes the 23d ult.

Persia is in New York on the 20th, had not telegraphed at Liverpool when the Niagara sailed.

Washington sailed from Southampton for New York on the 24th.

Ocean Queen from New York, 14th, arrived at Liverpool but not up to the 23d, but did not go up the river till 24th, or Saturday morning.

Passage to the bar was made in 9 days 14 hours.

Little news of importance had transpired in parliament on the Italian question as well as the Neutral Powers had transmitted documents to the Congress.

Nothing decisive had transpired touching the Vienna conferences.

Another car has gone to Warsaw.

The first English steamer bound to Constantinople, the Smyrna, has been lost with all her crew, off the Island Arell in the Gulf of Finland.

The evacuation of the Crimea by the French was rapidly progressing.

Letters to May 12th, state that the Russians had captured several Turcos for assisting the allies, and had been sent to Siberia, and others condemned to work on the roads for life.

Many had appeared in the English regiments.

A banquet had been given to Sir Collin Campbell.

Peace had been proclaimed at Tiflis.

The capture of a Circassian village of Suurch with 500 cattle by the Russians is confirmed.

ARRIVAL OF THE INDIA.

QUEBEC, June 3.

The steamer India, from Liverpool, May 21st arrived during the night.

Political news unimportant.

In the House of Lords on Monday, the Earl of Clarendon, in reply to a question by Earl Elgin, said the letter signed E. Hammond was a genuine document.

The Agents of Costa Rica, and some South American states had, since the attack of Walker, appealed to England for assistance to defend themselves. A great variety of projects had been laid before the government for acceptance.

All those requests Her Majesty's government has refused, declaring they would have nothing to do with Central America, at the same time deploring consequences of Walker's attack on Nicaragua in which property had been sacrificed, and be glad if his enterprise had been carried further—that their action would be limited to their sending naval forces to that coast, sufficient for the protection of British property. The War Department in compliance with the requests of of Costa Rica, had consented to loan arms, but the arms had never been taken by the agent of Costa Rica.

The Government had consequently communicated to the United States in the matter, and Marcy replied to Crampton on the 5th of March, saying he disapproved of the existing state of affairs in Nicaragua, and thought it would cast a shade upon the reputation of the United States, and tho't of no better plan of proceeding than for the U S. and British governments to combine for the protection of their subjects.

Despatches from Vienna state that a convention had been concluded between the Porte and western towns, and that the evacuation of the British territory by the allied troops would be completed in six months.

The weather in England has been boisterous and several vessels had been ashore on the coast.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS, May 20.—Breadstuffs: Wheat has considerably declined, being fully 3d @6d below quotations of the previous week.—Canadian white 10s 6d@10s 8d Red mixed 9s 6d@10s.

Reports of the Russian success in the new campaign against the Circassians are confirmed.

The Bank of England on the 22d. reduced its rate of discount on bills of more than 50 days from 7 to 6 per cent, short bills remain at 6 per cent.

Mr. Crampton's Dismissal.

WASHINGTON, May 30

The following is the letter of dismissal to Mr Crampton:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, May 28, 1856

SIR:—The President of the United States has directed me to communicate to you his determination to discontinue further intercourse with you as her Majesty's diplomatic representative to the government of the United States. The reasons which have compelled him to take this step, at this time, have been communicated to your government.

I avail myself of this occasion to add, that due attention will be cheerfully given to any communications addressed to this department, from her Majesty's government, affecting the relations between Great Britain and the United States, which may be forwarded to this government through any other channel. Should it be your pleasure to retire from the United States, the President directs me to furnish you with the usual facilities for that purpose. I consequently enclose herewith the passport in such cases. I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to you, Sir, the assurance of my respectful consideration. W. L. MARCY.

JOHN F. CRAMPTON, Esq., &c., &c.

THE SUMNER AFFAIR.

As often as a personal difficulty happens at Washington, there is an effort made by our opponents here at the north, to make all possible political capital out of the event. The parties to the quarrel are at once treated as being the true representatives of the sections of country or political parties to which they respectively belong, and the occurence of a knock down, which would be treated elsewhere as a matter of trifling consequence, is invested with a degree of importance, equal to that of a convention of the delegates of the people. We must enter our humble protest against this method of deciding the political issues of the present day. The time was when opposing armies stood as silent spectators of a single combat between two champions, and allowed the fate of the day to be decided by the result of their struggle; but in this advanced age, when one man is nearly as good as another, it is not exactly in accordance with our notions of propriety, that any single man should be invested with so great a responsibility or importance. We beg leave therefore to differ from those of our contemporaries who have endeavored to narrow down the great question before the people into a simple inquiry whether Brooks was right in his attack on Sumner. We were no parties to the understanding that the fate of our cause was committed to such hands. He had no part in the selection of the champions, and no previous intimation that with them rested the final settlement of the destinies of the Republic. In common with ordinary mortals we profess some personal interest in the conflict of opinion, and object to the jurisdiction which would decide against us on an ordeal not of our choosing. That Mr Brooks happens to be a Democrat, and Mr. Sumner a Massachusetts Black Republican, by no means invests those gentlemen with the prerogative of settling the various political questions of the day in a hand to hand encounter. We cannot permit our opponents to claim the fight for a foul blow, and ask an unconditional surrender of all our forces. We had not entered into any such covenant.

To attempt to denounce the Democratic party for the indiscretion of one its members, is manifestly unfair. But in the scarcity of material for legitimate argument, it is not surprising that the opposition party seizes with eagerness upon a circumstance calculated to create a temporary excitement, and turn it to some account. If Horace Greely is not permitted to indulge in a malicious attack upon a member of Congress without being called upon to answer for it, the circumstance is heralded forth as one of the aggressions of the slave power. And if Mr Brooks violates all rules of propriety by seeking his revenge in the Senate Chamber the Democratic party is made answerable for the breach of order. Unjust and unreasonable as this may be, it can be made still worse by misrepresentation. The Journal of yesterday is publishing the vote on Campbell's resolution, relative to the Sumner affair, boldly proclaims the palpable untruth that all those who voted in the negative were Democrats—whereas fully one third of the member were of the opposition, and the editor of the Journal was fully aware of the fact; for he crowed lustily over their election, and announced their names with a flourish of trumpets. We object to the party being compelled to shoulder the responsibility of Mr Brook's conduct, and we object still more to the misrepresentation which places the votes of its members in Congress in an improper light before the people.—Phi. Daily Union.

Mr. Brook's Letter to the Senate.

The following is the letter from the Hon Preston S. Brooks, of South Carolina, laid before the United States Senate:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
29th May, 1856.

Sir:—I have seen in the public journals of this morning a report of the Senate Committee, to whom was referred the resolution of the Senate directing inquiry into an assault made by me on the 22d instant on a Senator from Massachusetts. It is with unfeigned regret I find in the report that what I had intended only as redress for a personal wrong, has been construed into, or must necessarily be held as a breach of the privilege of the Senate. While making a full and explicit disclaimer of any such desire or purpose, I ask leave to say that for the occasion, considering myself only as a gentleman in society, and under no official restraint as a member of the House of Representatives, I did not advert to or consider there was any alternative restraint imposed upon me by reason of the offence coming from a member of the Senate. I had read attentively and carefully the speech delivered in the Senate on the 19th and 20th instant, by the Senator from Massachusetts, and found therein language which I regarded as unjustly reflecting not only upon the history and character of South Carolina, but also upon a friend and relative. To such language I thought I had a just right to make exception under the circumstances, the Senator from South Carolina, who was affected by those remarks, being absent from the Senate and the city. I had reason to believe that the Senator from Massachusetts did not acknowledge that personal responsibility for wrongs in personal deportment, which would have saved me the painful necessity of the collision which I sought; and in my judgment, therefore, I had no alternative but to act as I did.

That the assault which was made in the Senate chamber was caused only by the fact, that after a careful search elsewhere on the previous, as well as on the same day, the offender could not be found outside the walls of the Senate Chamber, and the Senate had adjourned for more than an hour previous to the assault. I submit the foregoing statement from the high respect I have for the Senate of the United States, and ask that it may be received as a full disclaimer of any design or purpose to infract its privileges or offend its dignity. I cheerfully add that should the facts, as reported by the committee of the Senate, be deemed necessarily as a breach of privilege, as a conclusion of law, my earnest desire is to atone for it so far as may be by this unhesitating and unqualified apology—that you will oblige me by communicating this to the Senate as its presiding officer.

I have the honor to remain, with great respect, your obedient servant, P. S. BROOKS

To Hon Jesse D. Bright, President of the Senate.

Cheering News for Parents And Children!

DR. NICK'S GERMAN WORM DESTROYER!

This Candy has been tried by thousands in Europe and the United States and found to be beyond all doubt one of the most certain and effectual Medicines ever yet discovered for the complete destructive and expulsion of WORMS from the human body.—Its action is certain no matter how deep they may be imbedded in the This Natural Antidote, when dissolved in the stomach, so acts to cause a constant effort to take place in the natural action of the three material fee Worms will not remain in the system that contains this Antidote. They cannot endure its effects. As it not only expels them, but dissolves the slime in which they breed and are nourished, and thus strikes at the root and source of the evil, by starving away their means of existence and propagation. But though searching in its operations and destructive in its effects on Worms it is yet mild and gentle in its action on the Human System correcting and regulating the Stomach and Bowels, and leaving them in a natural and healthy condition. And further it is

EXCEEDINGLY PLEASANT TO THE TASTE.

Nothing in the Month so quickly as Sugar, and no remedy taken by Children so eagerly as Candy

Read what is said of it by those that have tried it

GREENE TOWNSHIP, Erie Co., Pa.,

Messrs. CARTER & Bro. Gent.—Some months ago I got from you a box of William Nick's German Worm Candy, at which time you requested that when I came to town again I would let you know what effect they had on my children, and here it is without the least coloring or exaggeration. A child of mine of about three years of age, had been in very poor health for a long time. It was quick boned in the body and nearly starved to death, and no one who saw it supposed it could ever get well. I thought it had worms, and therefore gave it several kinds of worm medicines which did no good. I then sent for a Doctor who left some medicine which was also given with out any good result. I then bethought me of Nick's "German Worm Candy," the very first dose of which started an immense number of little worms, of all sizes from an eight of an inch to an inch in length, and the result of this application was the immediate restoration to perfect health and vigor of my child's health. But further, having for sometime before this been in poor health, troubled with a hacking cough, supposed by some to be consumptive and advised by my doctor to go to sea as the only probable means of restoring my health—after seeing the effect of the Worm Candy on my child I determined to try its efficacy upon myself, and accordingly used up the balance of the box, and the result was that I too got clear of an incredible number of little worms, and from that time I now date the entire cause of my cough and long ill health. Immediately after this my health began to improve, and without the use of any other medicines I have been restored to a degree of health to which for a long time I had been a stranger.

I think it but just to say that I had before this tried other worm medicines, some of which I suppose were about the same as Nick's but though they brought away large worms they entirely failed to get rid of the small ones as Nick's did, and therefore in my case the latter, as the small ones seem to have been the cause of our long ill health. Cheering News for Parents And Children!

WM. NICK'S GERMAN WORM CANDY!!

This Candy has been tried by thousands in Europe and the United States and found to be beyond all doubt one of the most certain and effectual Medicines ever yet discovered for the complete destructive and expulsion of WORMS from the human body.—Its action is certain no matter how deep they may be imbedded in the This Natural Antidote, when dissolved in the stomach, so acts to cause a constant effort to take place in the natural action of the three material fee Worms will not remain in the system that contains this Antidote. They cannot endure its effects. As it not only expels them, but dissolves the slime in which they breed and are nourished, and thus strikes at the root and source of the evil, by starving away their means of existence and propagation. But though searching in its operations and destructive in its effects on Worms it is yet mild and gentle in its action on the Human System correcting and regulating the Stomach and Bowels, and leaving them in a natural and healthy condition. And further it is

EXCEEDINGLY PLEASANT TO THE TASTE.

Nothing in the Month so quickly as Sugar, and no remedy taken by Children so eagerly as Candy

GREENE TOWNSHIP, Erie Co., Pa.,

Messrs. CARTER & Bro. Gent.—Some months ago I got from you a box of William Nick's German Worm Candy, at which time you requested that when I came to town again I would let you know what effect they had on my children, and here it is without the least coloring or exaggeration. A child of mine of about three years of age, had been in very poor health for a long time. It was quick boned in the body and nearly starved to death, and no one who saw it supposed it could ever get well. I thought it had worms, and therefore gave it several kinds of worm medicines which did no good. I then sent for a Doctor who left some medicine which was also given with out any good result. I then bethought me of Nick's "German Worm Candy," the very first dose of which started an immense number of little worms, of all sizes from an eight of an inch to an inch in length, and the result of this application was the immediate restoration to perfect health and vigor of my child's health. But further, having for sometime before this been in poor health, troubled with a hacking cough, supposed by some to be consumptive and advised by my doctor to go to sea as the only probable means of restoring my health—after seeing the effect of the Worm Candy on my child I determined to try its efficacy upon myself, and accordingly used up the balance of the box, and the result was that I too got clear of an incredible number of little worms, and from that time I now date the entire cause of my cough and long ill health. Immediately after this my health began to improve, and without the use of any other medicines I have been restored to a degree of health to which for a long time I had been a stranger.

I think it but just to say that I had before this tried other worm medicines, some of which I suppose were about the same as Nick's but though they brought away large worms they entirely failed to get rid of the small ones as Nick's did, and therefore in my case the latter, as the small ones seem to have been the cause of our long ill health.
