ever yet has been, and where no man ever will be, [great merriment,] and there planted the flag of his country—which never was there. [Renewed laughter.] In addition to that, the historian gives a most interesting account of the father and mother of this distinguished candidate for the republican party, giving the number of children the old man and the old lady had, together with the number they didn't have.—[Laughter and cheers.] At that point of the history, the bell rung, and I had not time to read the rest. I commend it to you all.

This is the man, in the present crisis of our country, to place at the head of the government! You are told by all, that the constitution is in danger; that the Union is in peril; and now, in the midst of this crisis, the American people—intelligent, thinking men—are called upon to place in the presidential chair of the Union a man who has no political past, no political present, and no political future! [Loud cheers] I will not speak to you in a mere partisan spirit, but as Americans, as patriots, as constitution-abiding, Union loving men, who desire to preserve peace abroad and prosperity at home, who wish to look to the future, and see our great country continue to develop its resources, receiving new States into the Union, and prosperity marking its onward progress, at each step that it takes in the future I ask you, democrats, whigs, Americans, republicans, I care not by what name you call yourselves, if the altar of patriotism is erected in your hearts, I call upon you this day to breathe over it one prayer for your country, and then on the day of election to give to that country your vote. [Loud cheers.]

Who is the man presented to you by the democracy! Is he unknown? His name appears upon every page of your political history for twenty five years. Traduce him as you will, abuse him as you may, denounce him in Maine as a pro slavery man, denounce him in Georgia as an abolitionist—call him every opprobrious epithet that passion suggests—but there stands his record—the record of an honest man, a pure patriot. [Loud cheers.] For thirteen years it has been my pride to serve in the public councils, though not in the same house or department, with our distinguished candidate for the presidency I have read the record of his life I have read the votes which he has from time to time given as the representative of the people.—There they stand! Patriotism may look upon the whole record without a sigh! Fellow citizens, if there be one man with a brighter record than another, in connexion with all that has rendered your government illustrious for the last quarter of a century, both in reference to our foreign and our domestic affairs, that man is James Buchanan [Prolonged cheering.] I advocate his election not because he is a Pennsylvanian, not because he is a son of the North, but because he is a son of the Union. [Cheers]—Every drop of blood that flows in his veins is true to the constitution of his country [Renewed cheers] I know him; I know the principles that actuate him I know that, when placed in the presidential chair, as he will be, he will be true to the whole country, no sectional lines will be drawn across his heart [Three cheers for James Buchanan]

Fellow citizens, I have done I have spoken to you plainly, honestly, frankly It was not the lips merely, but the heart that spoke, [cheers;] and if the heart responds to the heart, then Maine and Georgia, the North and the South, will stand together in one solid phalanx for the maintenance and defence of that constitution which is as dear to me as to you, and for which your hearts' blood and mine stand pledged here to-day to mingle in one common stream.—[The honorable gentleman took his seat, amid tumultuous cheering, long continued. Three cheers were given for Louisiana and Georgia, three for Maine, and three times three for Buchanan and Breckinridge]

Mr. Sumner in the Pennsylvania Mountains.

This martyr to free Kansas, free speech, and free niggers, as we stated in our last, is, or lately has been, rusticating at the house of Dr Jackson, of Cresson Since his arrival, what little sympathy was manifested for him in this neighborhood has entirely given way to feelings of deep disgust. There is nothing whatever the matter with him He is hale and hearty, has a good appetite, and talks politics with all the bitter vindictiveness that a Yankee fanatic can command

One day last week, Col. D. H. P. Hofius, an old line Whig, and J Blair Moore, Democrat, of this place, and Col J. J. Patterson, Republican, one of the editors of the Harrisburgh Herald, visited Cresson In company with a man named Gemmil, at the invitation of Dr. Jackson, they called upon Mr. Sumner, who received them very cordially. He soon asked Mr. Hofius how Mr Ford had succeeded here. The Colonel told him frankly that he did not succeed very well—that his meeting was composed of Democrats and Fillmore men—that very few Fremont men were present, in consequence of there being but few in the place.

This frank avowal irritated the gentleman with the soft brain, and he poured forth a perfect torrent of invectives against Pennsylvanians.—While emptying his vials of Black Republican wrath, he declared that the Whigs and Democrats of Pennsylvania were white slaves, and that he should glory in seeing them brought to the block, and disposed of under the auctioneer's hammer.

This unqualified assertion of the Yankee fanatic did not fail to arouse the indignation of the Pennsylvanians, and Col. Hofius made some tart reply, which only aggravated the martyr the more, and he showered abuse of the foulest kind upon Pennsylvanians indiscriminately, and when the party attempted to vindicate their State, the dignified Yankee Abolitionist coolly opened a Boston paper, and commenced reading. The party came away completely disgusted, and Col. Hofius, who previously felt great sympathy for the man before he uttered such atrocious sentiments, declares openly that his Honor earned a great many more canings than he has ever received.

TERRIBLE STORM AND INUNDATION.—A terrible storm of wind and rain occurred in the vicinity of New Orleans on Sunday, the 10th inst., which destroyed a great many lives, and a vast amount of property. It continued over 48 hours, and by accurate measurement, not less than fourteen inches of rain fell. It extended up the Mississippi as far as heard from. At Last Island, a great summer resort, which was full of company at the time, its effects were particularly disastrous. Every building on the island is said to have been swept away, and no less than two hundred lives are reported to have been lost!—182 bodies had been found. Many of the survivors are badly wounded. The dead bodies were plundered of $10,000 in money, by wreckers, and $5000 worth of baggage belonging to the survivors was mostly stolen. The buildings destroyed on the Island were valued at $100,000. At Caillan Island the buildings destroyed were valued at $50,000, and thirty dead bodies were found on one end of the island. The damage to the crops is incalculable. At Bayou Sara, the flood made a crevasse, in the levee, inundating the country in all directions. Three thousand dwellings have been swept away or damaged. In the neighborhood of the Balize a number of vessels were blown ashore.

The steamer Star, Capt. Smith, which left New Orleans on the 9th (Saturday,) with a large number of passengers, encounted the storm before reaching Last Island, and became perfectly unmanageable; she soon after became a complete wreck. The scene among the passengers was terrible, there being no less than two hundred and fifty passengers clinging to the wrecked fragments of the vessel, each anxiously waiting the arrival of some vessel to take them off. It is believed that all were saved, as a steamer was sent to their relief.

"Yes don't think I'm a female boy dare you."

The President's Message.

The following message was sent to the two Houses of Congress by President Pierce, on the occasion of their assembling in Extra session.—It is in the highest degree creditable to the President as a State paper, and presents in a forcible light the situation of the country, and the factious nature of the proceedings of the majority in the House:—

Fellow Citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives:

In consequence of the failure of Congress, in its recent session, to make provision for the support of the Army, it became imperatively incumbent on me to exercise the power with the Constitution confers on the Executive for extraordinary occasions, and promptly to convene the two Houses, in order to afford them an opportunity of reconsidering a subject of such vital interest to the peace and welfare of the nation. With the exception of a partial authority, vested by law in the Secretary of War, to contract for the supply of clothing and subsistence, the army is wholly dependent on the appropriations annually made by Congress. The omission of Congress to act in this respect before the termination of the fiscal year, had already caused embarrassments to the service which were overcome only in the expectation of appropriations before the close of the present month If the requisite funds be not speedily provided, the Executive will no longer be able to furnish the transportation, equipments, and munitions which are essential to the effectiveness of a millitary force in the field.—With no provision for the pay of troops, the contracts of enlistment would be broken, and the army must, in effect, be disbanded, the consequences of which would be so disastrous as to demand all possible efforts to avert the calamity

It is not merely that the officers and enlisted men of the army are to be thus deprived of the pay and emoluments to which they are entitled by the standing laws, but the construction of arms at the public armories, the repair and construction of ordnance at the arsenals, and the manufacture of military clothing and camp equipage must be discontinued, and the persons connected with this branch of the public service, thus be deprived, suddenly, of the employment essential to their subsistence Nor is it merely the waste consequent on the forced abandonment of the seaboard fortifications and of the interior millitary posts and other establishments, and the enormous expense of recruiting and re organizing the army, and again disturbing it over the vast regions which it now occupies These are evils which may, it is true, be repaired hereafter by taxes imposed on the country. But other evils are involved, which no expenditures, however lavish, could remedy, and in comparison with which local and personal injuries or interests sink into insignificance.

A great part of the army is situated on a remote frontier, or in the deserts and mountains of the interior. To discharge large bodies of men in such places, without the means of regaining their homes, and where few, if any, could obtain subsistence by honest industry, would be to subject them to suffering and temptation, with a disregard of justice and right most derogatory to government.

In the Territories of Washington and Oregon, numerous bands of Indians are in arms, and are waging a war of extermination against the white inhabitants, and although our troops are actively carrying on the campaign, we have no intelligence of a successful result. On the western plains notwithstanding the imposing display of military force recently made there, and the chastisement inflicted on the rebellious tribes, others far from being dismayed, have manifested hostile intentions and been guilty of outrages which if not designed to prove a conflict, serve to show that the apprehension of it is insufficient wholly to restrain their vicious propensities A strong force in the State of Texas has produced a temporary suspension of hostilities there, but in New Mexico incessant activity on the part of the troops is required to keep in check the marauding tribes which infest that Territory. The hostile Indians have not been removed from the State of Florida, and the withdrawal of the troops therefrom, leaving that object unaccomplished, would be most injurious to the inhabitants, and a breach of the positive engagements of the general government. To refuse supplies to the army, therefore, is to compel the complete cessation of all its operations, and its practical disbandment, and thus to invite the hordes of predatory savages from the Western plains and the Rocky Mountains, to spread devastation along a frontier of more than four thousand miles in extent, and to deliver up the sparse population of a vast tract of country to rapine and murder.

Such, in substance, would be the direct and immediate effects of the refusal of Congress for the first time in the history of the Government, to grant supplies for the maintenance of the army; the inevitable waste of millions of public treasure; the infliction of extreme wrong upon all persons connected with the military establishment, by service, employment or contracts; the recall of our forces from the field; the fearful sacrifice of life and incalculable destruction of property on the remote frontiers; the striking of our national flag on the battlements of the fortresses which defend our maritime cities against foreign invasion; the violation of the public honor and good faith, and the discredit of the United States in the eyes of the civilized world.

I confidently trust that these considerations and others, appertaining to the domestic peace of the country, which cannot fail to suggest themselves to every patriotic mind, will, on reflection, be duly appreciated by both Houses of Congress, and induce the enactment of the requisite provisions of law for the support of the army of the United States.

FRANKLIN PIERCE

WASHINGTON, August 21, 1856.

SINGULAR PHENOMENON.—We translate from the Hamburg Schnellpost, the following particulars of a singular case of partial trance, which the editor says he has from a correspondent in whose word the fullest reliance can be placed:

"In Greenwich township, Berks county, lives a respectable family by the name of B——, of which two members, girls, one about 19 and the other 14 years old, are subject to intermittent attacks of a singular character. The fits come upon the girls regularly every night at a fixed hour, and they always have premonitory symptoms of their approach; when they lie down upon a bed, close their eyes, and apparently fall into a trance. As soon as they fall into this state, they commence singing in a sweet and clear voice, and continue to sing various songs. A friend of the writer was present on one of these occasions, and made the remark that they really sang beautifully. They also, when in this condition, play upon the Accordeon, and keep admirable time together fingering the keys. What is most remarkable, in connection with this circumstance, is the fact that one of the girls, when awake, in her usual state, knows nothing about playing the Accordeon. There is only one person with whom they will converse, when these spells are on them, and this is the oldest son of the family. To him they converse freely and intelligibly. When the girls are in this singular trance, they have all the appearances of persons in a magnetic sleep. Their case has thus far defied the skill of the best physicians. In the neighborhood where the family lives, this strange affair has, of course, created considerable excitement. Those who believe in witches and similar supernatural influences, are confident in the belief that the girls are tormented with an evil spirit. What transparent nonsense!"

☞ The St. Louis Democrat, with indignation to the claim set up by the Black "Republicans" as by the Hon. F. P. Blair, Jr. M. C. elect from Missouri, says:

Mr. [illegible] is a representative of the political principles of the Democratic party. He was elected to Congress as a Democrat, and we venture to say that [illegible] of the Democratic party will be found [illegible] in any section of the country, but a disciple of Mr. Jefferson and Andrew Jackson school of Democracy.

Cleveland Female Seminary.

SAMUEL ST. JOHN, LL. D. PRINCIPAL.
MRS. F. C. HOSMER, VICE PRINCIPAL.
MISS L. T. GUILFORD, PRINCIPAL.

THIS INSTITUTION is pleasantly located in the city of Cleveland Ohio, and is well and healthy situated. The building, which is new, is designed to accommodate one hundred pupils, and is surrounded by grounds comprising 7 acres, shaded by shrubbery and native trees, making the spot one of rare attractions. The rooms are large, well lighted, and ventilated, fitted with new and convenient furniture, and every way adapted to the comfort and happiness of their occupants.

The design of the school is to furnish at moderate expense, facilities for the thorough discipline and symmetrical development of the mental faculties. Particular attention is given to the primary and solid branches of study, while the best teachers have been engaged in the higher and ornamental departments.

Vocal Music is taught under the direction of Miss K. C. HALCHEN, a lady for some time connected with the Springfield Institute, New York, and eminently fitted for her profession by experience and talent. She will be assisted by Prof. Lorin, well known as an organist and composer, who will give instruction on the Piano, Melodeon and organ.

Cheering News for Parents And Children!

WM. NICKS'S GERMAN WORM CANDY!!

PLEASANT, safe and certain WORM DESTROYER. This Candy has been tried by thousands in Europe and the United States and found to be beyond all doubt one of the most certain and effectual Medicines ever yet discovered for the complete destruction and expulsion of WORMS from the human body—its action is certain; no matter how deep they may be imbedded in the system. This Natural Antidote, when dissolved in the stomach, is sure to come in contact with them and drive them from their lodgements, causing them to take the downward track to escape the action of this their mortal foe. Worms will not remain in the system that contains this Antidote. They cannot endure its effects. As it not only expels them, but dissolves the slime in which they breed and are nourished, and thus strikes at the source of the evil, by taking away their means of existence and propagation. But though searching in its operations and destructive in its effects on Worms it is yet mild and gentle in its action on the Human System; correcting and regulating the Stomach and Bowels, and leaving them in a natural and healthy condition. And further it is.

EXCEEDINGLY PLEASANT TO THE TASTE.

Melting in the Mouth as quickly as Sugar, and as readily taken by Children as any other Candy.

Read what is said of it by those that have tried it:

MESSRS. CARTER & BROTHERS:

Gents:—A child of mine, nine years of age, parted with sixty worms in the course of two days from the contents of that box of Nick's German Worm Candy which you sent me a short time ago. She suffered neither pain nor sickness from the operation of the Candy. A medicine so effectual as that has proved to be in my family and at the same time so pleasant and easy to take, ought to be generally known, and that is just the reason and the only one I have for sending you this testimonial. Your's truly,

DR. G. NEWCOMER,
Practising Physician and Psychologist,

MAY be consulted at his room No. 76 Reed House. Dr. N. will attend to OBSTETRICAL cases, and all curable affections of the other sex. From the Dr.'s extensive and long experience in the different systems of practice, he has been able to cure the most difficult diseases, even after others have failed, and life has been despaired of. The Dr. claims that in diseases there is an action either too Positive or too Negative in the vital powers, upon the organisms. The action again equalized, health must follow. Hence the wonderful results, from his Positive and Negative system, which so admirably equalize this Positive and Negative vital action. In Chills and Fever, Neuralgia, Toothache, and Headache, he warrants almost an instant relief, and never fails of making the patient from pain when present. To this all his patients for three years past can testify

The Dr. gives particular attention to all Female Difficulties—bearing down, &c., Debility, Sick Headache, Cough-worms, Piles, Ruptures, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Weakness in the Limbs and Back, Diseases of the Throat, Tonsilitis, Bronchitis, Liver, Heart, and Kidney Affections.

AND DISEASES OF THE UNFORTUNATE.

Those living at a distance can consult by letter, and have medicines sent by mail.

The Dr. will visit Westfield every two weeks Call and see him after 10 A. M., till 2 P. M.

The Dr. has specific medicines for Cough-worms, Toothache, Neuralgia and Fistula.

AYER'S [illegible]

[illegible] removes the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other [illegible] to the body, and by its wonderful tonic and purgative action on the [illegible] strengthens and purifies the whole system. In this way the [illegible] cures are made, many of which are truly astonishing, as the [illegible] testify. Dyspepsia and Indigestion are cured by it, even when [illegible] and nothing else could be found to help them. Liver Complaint, in all [illegible] from its mildest forms to the most inveterate chronic disease, as to [illegible] the most complicated cases of Liver disorder, are promptly and perfectly [illegible] by it. Many such cures are published in my American Almanac, which the agent below named are pleased to furnish free to all who call for them.

Minute directions [illegible] each quantity as to [illegible] Costiveness, and [illegible] Piles, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Ulcers, Tumors, Worms, Female Complaints, and [illegible] Complaint, Dropsy, Suppression of Urine, and [illegible] Kidneys, Bladder, and [illegible] Derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, Nervousness, Sick Headache, Impurities of the Blood, and [illegible] Disease, are fully set forth in my [illegible] Almanac, which the agent below named are pleased to furnish free to all who call for them. Here it is shown [illegible] cases of Costiveness, and [illegible] Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Jaundice, Piles, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Ulcers, Tumors, Worms, Female Complaints, and [illegible] Complaint, Dropsy, Suppression of Urine, and [illegible] Kidneys, Bladder, and [illegible] Derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, Nervousness, Sick Headache, Impurities of the Blood, and [illegible]
