MR. CLAY'S OPINIONS.—In the debates in the

the Senate, at the session of 1850, Mr. Clay said:

"Sir, while I was engaged in anxious consideration upon this subject, the idea of the Missouri Compromise, as it has been termed, came under my review, was considered by me, and finally rejected, as in my judgement less worthy of the acceptance of both parties of this Union, than the project which I offer to your considera...tion."

And upon the policy which should be pursued, and which was in fact acted upon in the organization of New Mexico and Utah, he said:

"The true principle which ought to regulate the action of Congress in forming territorial Governments, is to refrain from all legislation on the subject so long as it is in the Territorial form, leaving the people of such Territory, when they have attained to a condition as a State, to decide for themselves the question of the allowance or prohibition of slavery."
