Now look down on the wall again. The refugées are clambering over its summit-again a horrid ory, and another wounded man toppling down upon his dead and dying comrades!

But now look! A smoke rises there, a fire blases up around the wall—they have fired the gate. A moment, and the bolt and the lock will be burnt from their sockets—the passage will be free! Now is the flery moment of the old man's trial. While his brave daughter loads. he continues, to fire, with that deadly aim, but now-oh, horror !-- he falls, with a musket ball driven into his breast. The daughter's outstretched arms received the father, as with the blood spouting from his wound he topples back from the window.
