EXTRAORDINART CASE-TRIAL OF HAYT FOR

THE NURDER OF MISS ALLEN. This mae has excited much interest in the communit and is one of extraordinary character. As stated last weak, the trial came on at the Nov. Sessions of our Oyer and Terminer, before Hon. JOHN GALBRAITH, Prest. Judge Joseph M. Storrett and James Miles, Associates. It appear ed in evidence, on the part of the Commonwealth, that Hayt had become acquainted with Miss Calista C. Allen while living with his sister in McKean township, in this county, during the antumn of 1655. She was there in the reposity of a pervant-maid, and was at the time in the 13th year of her age. After living there some time she left and went home, when Hayt also left and engaged board with Miss A's father. During the last winter the deceased went to school, and shortly after she commenced, the prisoner also went to school, although about 42 years old, and continued going during the winter. In the Spring he reated a farm for Allen, moved him and his family on to it, and went himself to board with his step-father, a Mr. Oliver, who lived about a half a mile distant. Up to the time of the murder Hayt often visited at Allens and aided him by preserving for him a team and farming utensils, and by his own personal labor. He also purchased goods and necessaries for the family, and made many presents te deceased, to whom he became much attached. This attachment had become knewn to the family, but as she did not reciprocate it, he was much distressed and agitated when urged to give her up. This was testified to by her arents as well as other witnesses. On the Saturday precoding the murder, the prisoner, in company with her Parents, went to McKean Corners, and purchased on his crodit some store goods for them, and some $15 worth for the girl. It would seem that on the day fellowing (Sunday) some conversation took place between Hayt and Miss A. of the murder) went home, ate his breakfast, hitshed up a horse to a plow, returned to Allens, and essisted him to such as bringing water, cutting wood, &c. After dinner he took down a revolver that he had, and went away in a ness wounded by her indignant returni, threatment to in-pects of promotion unless she yielded him the little different direction from that which would have taken him Unofficient has arisen a great and minble mum. After the usual salutation, the deceased said, "Walter, I should not think you would come here if you thought I abused you." To which he replied, "Come o think, I don't know that you did abuse me, I said so, but did not mean it." He then spoke of what he had giveu her on Saturday. She said, "you know I never asked you for any thing." He replied, "I know it, but I am glad I got them for you," and then said he would get her a lists, if you don't mean to have Walter you ought to tell him ro." She replied, "I did tell him so, and I wish he public would not come here again," at the same time closing the room door anddanly. Hayt thereupon arose, stapped into the room, placed a revolver to the head of the deceased and discharged it, the ball entering through the upper A NEW LITERARY PAPER. nart of the temporal bone. The mother sprang from her gate, but she made her eccape. He then returned into the house and finding the deceased on the floor, took her up, laid her on the sofa, and putting the pistol to her ear, again shot her. He then left and taking the nearest route to the village, soon arrived there. In the mean time Allen came from the field where he was working, and found his McKean Corners and given bimself up, owning the actsaying that he "had killed her," telling the eircumstances, Send for a copy, and look at it. It should be seen to be that he intended to do so-that he loved her as he did his appreciated riving alf-offices between Erie and Barblo at 10 life-that he knew the consequences of the sot-that he

THE CAREER OF AN ERIE BOXIN SEW YORK Every body in this city recollects "little Tommy Wight," the som of that hardy old sailor, Capt Wight, deseased. Like many another of our American youths, when his father had finished his last cruise, the subject of our sketch thrown up in his own resources, turned his face towards New York as the widest field for his genius. That was several years ago-we don't recollest how many-but, at all events, his old school mates, now grown to men, have met him occusionally in the marts of business in that cityand, judging from appearances, supposed he was prospering i both in reputation and in a poonniary point of view .---Later, by the surcessful prosecution of a claim against eartain rual-octate once owned by his father in Chicago, but afterwants disposed of by the RESSULUTE of the estate, he and his brother came into the possession of a snug little fortune-some $20,000 or 30,000, if we are rightly inform.
