He accomplished his purpose in about twelve days, dying on Thursday night of last week.

Lola Montes is determined to keep up the character which she has so well carned. She rides about with a whip, as a fashionable lady, more feminine in her feelings, would with her pet dog. Recently, on her way from Niagara to Buffalo, the conductor remonstrated against her sitting in the beggage car amoking. She significantly replied that she had travelled over the world, rode where she pleased, and had horse whipped bigger men than the conductor. The conductor, after this hint, did not insist on her removal, but, like a prudent man, thought it best to let all the baggage remain together in
