The Glasgow Poisoning Case.

Future volumes of Causes Célebres will despite considerable space to the trial of Miss Madeleine Smith, a young woman of Glasgow, of respectable connections, for the murder of Emile L'Angelier. The English papers brought by the last steamer are filled with the reports of this trial, which had been going on for a week, and causing more excitement than any other that had ever taken place in Glasgow. The case is a curious one, and although the detailed reports might not interest many readers in this country, a sketch of it will not be amiss.

Madeleine Smith is the daughter of an architect of Glasgow, and is twenty-one years of age. She is an attractive girl, well educated, and interesting in her manners. Early in the year 1855 she became acquainted with a young Frenchman named Emile L'Angelier, who came to Glasgow and was employed as a clerk in a mercantile establishment at a moderate salary. The acquaintance ripened into intimacy, but the girl's parents discouraged it, thinking L'Angelier's position and fortune not equal to their own.—But in spite of this, the intimacy went on, was kept up by continual correspondence, and by frequent clandestine interviews, which finally led to criminal intercourse. A couple of hundred letters from Miss Smith to L'Angelier were found among his effects, all of the most amorous character. In some of them she speaks of her self as his wife and declares that she can never be the wife of another. But in February, 1857, the lady seems to have grown weary of this amour, which had now continued for nearly two years. She had another suitor, one Mr. Minnoch, a merchant of Glasgow, who offered himself to her in marriage and she had accepted him on the 28th of January, the 18th of June being fixed for the wedding. In the beginning of February just after this engagement was made she wrote to L'Angelier, informing him that she has ceased to love him. Several letters followed, in which she repeated this, amid rhapsodical expressions of disappointment and regret. She appointed a time for meeting him, and the day before this meeting she bought arsenic. He was ill after this interview, but recovered. Again she bought arsenic, again they had a secret interview, and again L'Angelier was ill. He had mentioned these facts to a friend of his, named Miss Perry, and also started that he had on the one occasion got coffee from Miss Smith, and on the other chocolate. She wrote afterwards, regretting his illness, telling him it must have been from fatigue and want of food, and that she would give him some bread at their next meeting She afterwards left town for the Bridge of Allan, and after her return she appointed to meet him on the 19th of March. She bought arsenic again on the 19th of March. On the 20th of March he was again ill, and he died in agony on the 23d, with every symptom of arsenical poisoning, which was afterwards fully proved to have caused his death. Madeline Smith was then arrested on suspicion of having administered the poison.

This is the substance of the case, as made out by the prosecution. The evidence is entirely circumstantial, there having been no witnesses to the interviews between the prisoner and the deceased. But the presumption is urged that the prisoner, having made this engagement with a man in such good circumstances as Mr. Minnoch, and knowing that she was in L'Angelier's power, was determined to get rid of him. On the other hand, it is contended for the defence that, knowing of the existence of proofs of her criminality in the hands of L'Angelier, she could have found no surer way of proclaiming her shame and defeating her matrimonial project with Minnoch than by destroying the possessor of her guilty letters. It is contended, too, that the prisoner was in the habit of using arsenic as a cosmetic, and also of taking it in minute quantities, because she had read that it caused plumpness and fine color. It was proved that the deceased was also in the habit of using it in the same way and for like purposes; that he took opium and other drugs at times to relive pain; that he talked frequently of suicide as an easy remedy for the ills of life, and it was contended that he died by his own hand and not that of Madeline Smith.

This is the substance of the case, which, however, is spread out through many broad columns of the Scotch and English papers. The circumstantial evidence, it will be observed, is very strong; but there is no positive proof against the prisoner. Her own letters, revealing how totally she had lost all sense of virtue, tell strongly against her, and prepare the mind to believe her capable of any kind of crime. The heartlessness with which she dismissess L'Angelier immediately after accepting the advantageous marriage offer from Minnoch, shows her totally lost to all sense of moral obligation. The excuse made for the frequent purchase of arsenic are weak and frivolus, as are the pretences that the deceased used it in the same way. There is no sounding the depth of a woman's infamy when she has once begun a downward career and undertaken to lead a life of deception. It is extremely doubtful whether Madeleine Smith can be legally declared guilty of the murder of Emile L'Angelier. But it is scarcely probable that the public mind can ever be persuaded that she is innocent.—Phil. Bulletin.

WHAT BRINGS MORMONS TO AMERICA.—A correspondent of the Episcopal Recorder, writing from Des Moines, Iowa, fell in with a large company of Mormons:—"They comprised representatives from England, Wales, Ireland, France, Germany and Denmark. The majority of them were women. Among them were to be found men evidently of respectability, who bro't their families with them. Among the women, the characters were various. There were some whose appearance was any thing but reputable. There were others who, from their sober demeanor, their neat, peasant like attire, their ingenuous countenance, their accent and conversation I could at once determine to be respectable English and Welsh girls, belonging to the humbler classes, it is true, but at the same time instinct with that homely honesty and straightforwardness by which the English agricultural interests are so often distinguished. What the temptation was which drew them to this country was soon determined. The Mormon missionaries, who are scattered over the continent of Europe, sink the religious in the economical. It is not 'What a divine faith!' but "What a splendid home!' The charms of Western life are unfolded to the cramped manufacturing town. The cheapness of prairie farms is expatiated on to the impoverished tenant of a rack rent field. Free institutions are dwelt upon to the Chartist, a pure religion to those who are faint at heart with the corruptions, or the supposed corruptions, of the church to which they belong. Out of the thousand who come over, I believe that there are very few who do not believe that they are coming to a Christian agricultural community in which the discipline and purity of the early church is to be united with the soil and climate of the most fertile region of the globe."

Physicians and their Modes of Treatment of Diseases.
There is no subject on which the public mind is more discovery among its practitioners and pro[illegible] PRACTICE OF MEDICINE. One school of [illegible] well known, administer calomel and kindred [illegible] of their patient under their weight, and [illegible] these [illegible] will tell you that the patient's constitution [illegible] bear treatment, when the facts were the treatment was not to be blame from by one in perfect health. How then could nature appeal one in imperfect health?
Another school of practitioners without you that water alone will cure all the complaints of man. Still another administers herbs, roots, and do on to the end of the chapter. The different schools being as numerous as their theories.
When Franklin, by the simple means of his kite, brought the electricity from the Heavens, the world wondered what use he could make of it. What did he do? He, the first thing, as the benefactor of Mankind, applied it to the saving of human life from destruction by that subtle fluid electricity. And in this there is a remarkable similarity between the experiments and results of the Great Master of Lightning and those of that GREAT PHYSICIAN, DR. DE GRATH, the discoverer and author of the great ELECTRIC OIL. Prof. De Grath's experiments commenced with simple means years ago and have gone on until with years of toil and unremitted exertion he has produced, at Philadelphia, the arcana of Franklin's success is a wonder second only to that of his great here tofore.
That this astonishing Annihilator of the ills and pains of Man, there does not exist a more meritorious medicine, nor one which used drug, stands as universal and undivided testimonials in its favor from all who have given it a simple trial as Clergymen, Physicians, Editors, Congressmen, Mayors of cities, Hotel proprietors and Business Merchants, in the cure of such diseases and affections as the following—not to mention Rheumatism, Fever and Ague, Deafness, Gout, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica, Spinal and Bronchial complaints, Tic Doloureux, Headache, Cramps, Croup, Piles, Poisons, Specialties and Bruises, Cuts and Wounds, Sore Throats, Felon, Diseases of Scrofula, Erysipelas, Sore Nipples, Scalded Breast, Worms (pinworms, Salt Rheum, Canker in the mouth and stomach, Palpitation, Spasms, Cubed Breast, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Palsy, Flooring, Clots, Lock Jaw, Heart Burn, Tooth and Ear Ache, Rheumatism, Costiveness, Burns, Sore Gums of teething infants, &c.
As an example of the estimation in which it is held by one of the ablest jurists and writers on law, &c., in this country, we will give a letter received by Prof. De Grath, from John Gillespie, Esq., Editor of the well known Monthly Law Magazine, 197 Broadway, New York:—A friend of mine, Mr. Livingston, of this city, was cured of a severe cold, and bronchial affection of long standing by your Electric Oil, after all the other remedies of the first chemists of the country, than volumes from numerous sources:
GERARD HOGGE, Philadelphia,
Prof. Charles DeGrath—I freely give it as my opinion that your Electric Oil" is among the most wonderful remedies of modern times. All the eminent remedies of Clady are eclipsed. She has been relieved of a most painful affection of the eyes, I prescribed in by trying a bottle, though at the time of purchasing, I fully believed it to be a quack medicine, and a catch penny humbug. Such a trial convinces me that it does possess a magic power, and its use will prove a blessing to suffering humanity.
I recently took a cold from sleeping in damp sheets, and my neck became so much swollen and painful, that I could not turn my head. After using, without success, everything prescribed by my physician, I last evening tried your Electric Oil. The effect was almost magical, the relief having been as complete as it was instantaneous.
Yours very truly,
JOHN LIVINGSTON,
Editor Monthly Law Magazine,
157 Broadway & 120 West Fourteenth st., N. Y.
Mr. Livingston belongs to the 400 who compose the "upper ten" families of the first settlers of New York. Any one can address him on the subject of the above letter, which will be answered with pleasure.
The Medical Faculty have also spoken in unmistakeable terms of this remedy. See this LETTER FROM DR. KEYSER.
PHILADELPHIA,
May 23, 1856.
PROF. DE GRATH, 39 South 8th street, Philadelphia.
I have a remarkable case, Stephen Harris Esq., of Pittsburgh, is a very swollen and painful hand. Throughout the city personally, which gave instant relief. He has recommended the oil to others afflicted with rheumatism, in which the results were most satisfactory
Yours, very truly,
GEORGE H. KEYSER, M. D.
Dr. Keyser stands in the first ranks of his profession in Pittsburgh.
The Clergy having themselves and some of their families been healed almost as miraculously as the miracles of Scripture, speak of complaints that made life a burden and impaired their usefulness in their calling, have not been backward in recommending this alleviator of suffering to their people. The Reverend gentleman, whose letter we publish below, has been a sufferer for years of Prof. DeGrath's cards and pamphlets and handing them personally to members of his church and of the late Conference of the M. E. Church in Philadelphia.
PHILADELPHIA,
June 9th, 1856.
PROF. DE GRATH—My dear sir—I must inform you of the beneficial effects I have experienced from your Electric Oil. I have been terribly afflicted for thirteen years past with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, which has at times been so severe that I have been unable to walk two squares or attend to my ministerial duties, and for five years I have not had a good night's rest, being unable to sleep from pain. About the 20 of this month I commenced using your Electric Oil, taking about two drops internally and applying externally to the most painful parts. On the first night I slept better than I had done for many years, and now, at the end one week, I am like a new man, can sleep well, walk any distance and attend to my duties. Your Oil having done for me in this short time what the entire Medical Faculties of the New York Colleges of Medicine and those of about two thousand Physicians of Philadelphia have failed to do in 13 years.
Most truly yours,
Rev. JAS. TEMPLE,
310 South street, Philadelphia.
Any party can have further information if wanted by addressing the Rev. Gentleman.
We will give the following also, from a Merchant of New Haven, Connecticut:
3 YEAR'S DEAFNESS CURED.
NEW HAVEN,
May 7th, 1857.
Prof. DeGrath—My brother has been deaf three years. After buying many things, he used your Oil a few times, and it cured him entirely.
CLIFFORD B. STRATTON.
From a Merchant in Alexandria, Va.—by taken off his crutches in 20 minutes:
ALEXANDRIA,
July 11th, 1856.
Prof. DeGrath,—Dear Sir.—My son struck a nail in his foot and was unable to walk without the use of a crutch, when by the application of Prof. Chas. DeGrath's Electric Oil, he was immediately relieved of pain and could walk without the use of the crutch. I believe he was saved from becoming permanently lame thereby, I would therefore, recommend it to all whose cases of complaint it professes to cure.
JOHN ARNOLD, Hatter.
We might go on adinfinitum with these letters of testimony, but our space will not permit, and the above will convince all who have any doubts, and those who have none will try it for themselves.
The sale of this Great Remedy has been enormous the past year alone, over $150,000 worth was sold, and wherever it is known, there it is used. Persons, Lord & Co., of Richmond, Va., brought last year over $1,200 worth: Bacon & Park of New York $2,000 worth Seth S. Hanon, of Baltimore, over $4,000; J. D. Park, of Cincinnati, $1,000 worth, and other large Druggists all over the United States.
At the late Railroad accident on the North Pennsylvania Railroad near Philadelphia, when so many were hopelessly mangled, Prof. DeGrath offered his services and many were saved from having them limbs amputated and being cripples for life, by the timely application of his great Electric Oil.
It is needless to say their thanks were overwhelming, and the Oil can scarce be manufactured fast enough to meet the present demand.
This Electric Oil takes the pain from a burn instantly minutes and leave no scar. Dont use any thing else for the Wallace Fillers, Esq., Washington, Jefferson Township, says your Oil cured a gentleman of Rheumatism of long standing. Mr. Wm. Reed, Artist, No. 4 Fayette street, Philadelphia, published the card of Wm. P. Beers, Esq., of a frightfully swollen hand. Mrs. Wood, of Wood's Philadelphia Museum, cured of Neuralgia. Gen. Wunderlich, Artist, No. 4 Fayette street, Philadelphia, cured in one day, Charles Greenough's two children, (and 300 others,) Mrs. Gen. of Nurse, Broad and Cuthert streets—his wife of Neuralgia—Jones Off, Esq., Hotel, between 6th and 7th sts., Rheumatism cured in two days; Jacob Hatzell, Diamond street Germantown road, cured not Gen. W. Ward, Esq., large Furnishing Store, Chestnut street, Philadelphia. Mr. Hoffnagle, Keys in hand Music charm with him, and many Physicians use it, and many editorial notices have been voluntarily given this meritorious remedy, among them the "Washington Star," "Washington Express." Philadelphia, New York and Boston papers, although we have preferred not to use such notices, relying on the medicine itself, because we believe that when it has no merit, the newspapers, if it would go down sooner by having it noticed beyond its merits. This is an expensive preparation to combine and put up, and we cannot afford to pay for puffs, like those Doctors whose medicines are mostly composed of water. This Oil must be understood with any thing that would rub in, without spoiling it. Capt. Jas. M. Turner of N. York city fell and hurt his back, could not walk—wrote us one effectual rubbing with this Oil cured him.
CAUTION FOR SAFETY.
As there have lately sprung up many base imitations of my article, which the makers dare call Electric Oil, I deem it well to put the public on their guard. DeGrath's Electric Oil is harmless, sweet as cologne, and always leaves you better than it found you. The bottle always produces an effect, often a complete cure. You must be sure therefore, that you ask for and get the name is blown in every bottle—thus, Prof. DeGrath's Electric Oil Philadelphia.
DeGRATH'S ELECTRIC OIL.

COME TO THE RESCUE EVERY BODY!!
COME!!
IT is earnestly necessary to say that our entire stock of Goods must be closed out soon, caused by the late fire in this city, and we were almost discouraged from attempting business again; but through the encouragement given by kind friends, and the establishment of our many old customers, we have been induced to try once more, buying for better luck next time. We would therefore say to the public that we have just opened at No. 2, Reed House, an entire
New and Fresh Stock of Groceries,
Just from New York, supporting every thing in our line which we will sell cheap for ready pay, and respectfully solicit the sympathies of a generous public in extending to us a share of their patronage with a view in that way of recovering a portion of our late and heavy loss.
