

News of the Week.

The case of Michael Conconi, the Italian beggar, whose fourth trial has just been brought to a close at New York, is one of the most remarkable criminal trials on record.

—Last week we copied from our exchange a paragraph giving an account of one of our extraordinary cases...

—The Buffalo Commercial reports to learn of an instance of dishonesty on the part of one of the grain dealers on the dock in that city...

—The Roman Catholic Church has just sustained the loss of one of her most valued and ablest pastors—the Rev. John Larkin...

—The Washington Globe says the proposition for a slave code for the Territories, forwarded some weeks since to the Richmond Assembly...

—A correspondent of the Rochester Union writes from New York that the Connecticut Fair, which was to have been held in that city...

—Alexander Robinson, who was arrested in Philadelphia a short time ago on a charge of rape in Delaware, having had a young girl to leave his home on the pretense that his brother was sick...

—At Athens, Me., a teacher in one of the schools undertook to correct a scholar, when another scholar interfered to prevent the punishment. The master thereupon drew a knife and stabbed the boy in the neck...

—E. M. Eaton, while chopping wood near Indianapolis on Tuesday, on his foot severely. A physician was called and found him sitting in a chair dead, his foot in a basin filled with blood...

—A gentleman in Hartford has received from the Boston and Providence Railroad the sum of five dollars, out of which the writer says he should have received ten dollars...

—During a severe storm which passed over Fort Wayne, Ind., about seven o'clock last Sunday morning, a forty-year-old building was blown down, the roof uppermost falling and crushing to the earth a two-story house...

THE RIGHT SIDE.

Mr. Editor—"One of the People," who writes me his friend, appears in the last Observer on the subject of Gas-lighting. The writer does not go much into the merits of the subject, but falls into some errors which should be corrected.

—The writer seems to think the Councils, if they light at all, would not have backbone enough to stand up and do only what would be reasonable and right for the district, but in answer to a general demand for gas, which he says would follow, the Councils would be obliged to erect 250 or 300 lamps.

—It is to be presumed however that if the Councils light the streets, they would exercise a fair, proper and sound judgment, such as would do justice to the district. This they would undoubtedly do, so there can be no fear on that score.

—The Editor of the Louisville Sentinel, who every body knows is in his own opinion one of the most able men in the world, in alluding for the first time to a democratic matter of ours that took place some years since, says that our "connection with that event was never clear."

—The New York correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says the Rev. Dr. Tracy, of St. George's—one of the biggest guns of the Episcopal church—was solicited the other day to take a turn in preaching at the Academy of Music, Sunday evening.

—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser has brown overboard Mr. Crittenden and Gen. Scott, as candidates for the next Presidency, on the ground that they are both too old.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

THE RIGHT SIDE.

Mr. Editor—"One of the People," who writes me his friend, appears in the last Observer on the subject of Gas-lighting. The writer does not go much into the merits of the subject, but falls into some errors which should be corrected.

—The writer seems to think the Councils, if they light at all, would not have backbone enough to stand up and do only what would be reasonable and right for the district, but in answer to a general demand for gas, which he says would follow, the Councils would be obliged to erect 250 or 300 lamps.

—It is to be presumed however that if the Councils light the streets, they would exercise a fair, proper and sound judgment, such as would do justice to the district. This they would undoubtedly do, so there can be no fear on that score.

—The Editor of the Louisville Sentinel, who every body knows is in his own opinion one of the most able men in the world, in alluding for the first time to a democratic matter of ours that took place some years since, says that our "connection with that event was never clear."

—The New York correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says the Rev. Dr. Tracy, of St. George's—one of the biggest guns of the Episcopal church—was solicited the other day to take a turn in preaching at the Academy of Music, Sunday evening.

—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser has brown overboard Mr. Crittenden and Gen. Scott, as candidates for the next Presidency, on the ground that they are both too old.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

THE RIGHT SIDE.

Mr. Editor—"One of the People," who writes me his friend, appears in the last Observer on the subject of Gas-lighting. The writer does not go much into the merits of the subject, but falls into some errors which should be corrected.

—The writer seems to think the Councils, if they light at all, would not have backbone enough to stand up and do only what would be reasonable and right for the district, but in answer to a general demand for gas, which he says would follow, the Councils would be obliged to erect 250 or 300 lamps.

—It is to be presumed however that if the Councils light the streets, they would exercise a fair, proper and sound judgment, such as would do justice to the district. This they would undoubtedly do, so there can be no fear on that score.

—The Editor of the Louisville Sentinel, who every body knows is in his own opinion one of the most able men in the world, in alluding for the first time to a democratic matter of ours that took place some years since, says that our "connection with that event was never clear."

—The New York correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says the Rev. Dr. Tracy, of St. George's—one of the biggest guns of the Episcopal church—was solicited the other day to take a turn in preaching at the Academy of Music, Sunday evening.

—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser has brown overboard Mr. Crittenden and Gen. Scott, as candidates for the next Presidency, on the ground that they are both too old.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

THE RIGHT SIDE.

Mr. Editor—"One of the People," who writes me his friend, appears in the last Observer on the subject of Gas-lighting. The writer does not go much into the merits of the subject, but falls into some errors which should be corrected.

—The writer seems to think the Councils, if they light at all, would not have backbone enough to stand up and do only what would be reasonable and right for the district, but in answer to a general demand for gas, which he says would follow, the Councils would be obliged to erect 250 or 300 lamps.

—It is to be presumed however that if the Councils light the streets, they would exercise a fair, proper and sound judgment, such as would do justice to the district. This they would undoubtedly do, so there can be no fear on that score.

—The Editor of the Louisville Sentinel, who every body knows is in his own opinion one of the most able men in the world, in alluding for the first time to a democratic matter of ours that took place some years since, says that our "connection with that event was never clear."

—The New York correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says the Rev. Dr. Tracy, of St. George's—one of the biggest guns of the Episcopal church—was solicited the other day to take a turn in preaching at the Academy of Music, Sunday evening.

—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser has brown overboard Mr. Crittenden and Gen. Scott, as candidates for the next Presidency, on the ground that they are both too old.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

THE RIGHT SIDE.

Mr. Editor—"One of the People," who writes me his friend, appears in the last Observer on the subject of Gas-lighting. The writer does not go much into the merits of the subject, but falls into some errors which should be corrected.

—The writer seems to think the Councils, if they light at all, would not have backbone enough to stand up and do only what would be reasonable and right for the district, but in answer to a general demand for gas, which he says would follow, the Councils would be obliged to erect 250 or 300 lamps.

—It is to be presumed however that if the Councils light the streets, they would exercise a fair, proper and sound judgment, such as would do justice to the district. This they would undoubtedly do, so there can be no fear on that score.

—The Editor of the Louisville Sentinel, who every body knows is in his own opinion one of the most able men in the world, in alluding for the first time to a democratic matter of ours that took place some years since, says that our "connection with that event was never clear."

—The New York correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says the Rev. Dr. Tracy, of St. George's—one of the biggest guns of the Episcopal church—was solicited the other day to take a turn in preaching at the Academy of Music, Sunday evening.

—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser has brown overboard Mr. Crittenden and Gen. Scott, as candidates for the next Presidency, on the ground that they are both too old.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

THE RIGHT SIDE.

Mr. Editor—"One of the People," who writes me his friend, appears in the last Observer on the subject of Gas-lighting. The writer does not go much into the merits of the subject, but falls into some errors which should be corrected.

—The writer seems to think the Councils, if they light at all, would not have backbone enough to stand up and do only what would be reasonable and right for the district, but in answer to a general demand for gas, which he says would follow, the Councils would be obliged to erect 250 or 300 lamps.

—It is to be presumed however that if the Councils light the streets, they would exercise a fair, proper and sound judgment, such as would do justice to the district. This they would undoubtedly do, so there can be no fear on that score.

—The Editor of the Louisville Sentinel, who every body knows is in his own opinion one of the most able men in the world, in alluding for the first time to a democratic matter of ours that took place some years since, says that our "connection with that event was never clear."

—The New York correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says the Rev. Dr. Tracy, of St. George's—one of the biggest guns of the Episcopal church—was solicited the other day to take a turn in preaching at the Academy of Music, Sunday evening.

—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser has brown overboard Mr. Crittenden and Gen. Scott, as candidates for the next Presidency, on the ground that they are both too old.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.

—The Hon. S. Cameron is in the field as a candidate. His wonderful energy, tact, shrewdness, and experience, his great pecuniary resources, and proverbial devotion to all Pennsylvania interests, give him the Pennsylvania delegation to the National Convention.