

THE JOURNAL.

One country, one constitution, one destiny.

Huntingdon Oct. 31 1838.

Democratic Antimasonic CANDIDATES.

FOR PRESIDENT,

William H. Harrison

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Francis Granger,
OF NEW YORK.

In to-day's paper, will be found the official returns of the votes for Governor, and the Amendments to the Constitution—with the exception of one county.

Mr. Bond, the author of the celebrated speech which has gone the rounds in the Whig papers of the Union; has been re-elected to Congress from the Chillicothe district in Ohio.

DIED.—On the day of the Loco Foco jubilee, the Bank of the U. S. consequence of a wee dose of Epeacuanilla, given by a young man of Lock Haven.

Go it ye Loco Foco cripples—the man with the p-o-k-e-r is after you!

"Kensington" is gone to New York. It is said he is after "Miss Nancy."

We wonder if it is one of the "Miss Nancy's," that composed the "important" party the Editor of the Advocate attended one night in Marietta. If it is; we hope our Editor will capture her—She would unfold a nasty tale.

The Edi tor is still absent, and we must again say to our courteous readers "bear with us"—he however left us the gentle hint given below. Its none of our business, but we hope you will not forget to stick to one, who has stuck to you "through good and through evil report."

"A Friend in Need &c."

We trust our patrons will bear in mind that Court Week will soon be here; and as we like to give them a gentle hint, that it is a very convenient time to contribute their mite into the charity box of the poor printer—we have taken this opportunity to say, we very much need a little of the nreful. Our expenses during the late campaign, have been enormous, and we were bound, not to spare them while there was hope for the success of our cause.

To our friends and patrons then we say, we must appeal for succour; but not forget to return our thanks, to those who have not forgotten us heretofore; in the hour of our need. They have proved themselves both.

FOR THE JOURNAL.

Mr. Editor:

Now that the long agony is over, and that the friends of Gen. Porter have succeeded in electing a candidate of their choice; the old and warm friends of Ritner, not willing that he should in the vigour of his intellect, retire to his farm, are saying that he is destined for a higher & wider sphere of action. Ritner's name is so closely identified with the prosperity and greatness of Pennsylvania, that long after his enemies shall have sunk into utter oblivion, while he be ranked among Pennsylvania's gifted sons. His administration, which has been a popular and good one, during which every important interest has been carefully guarded, and every resource fully developed, will be turned to as an epoch in Pennsylvania's history; an administration during which new life has been infused into the body politic, and a powerful impulse given to the public mind; an administration during which Pennsylvania has been raised out of the mire, into which she had been plunged by the corruption, and extravagance of Wolf; and placed on her present high eminence. Ritner found the ship of state almost wrecked; he grasped the helm, and with an eye single to its preservation, brought it almost into port, when he was supplanted by an unskillful pilot. Now that it is fully, and clearly established, that the old Farmer had not fair play, and that his opponent will in all probability, reap the reward of foul dealing. Now that we have a majority, a large majority in both houses of the Legislature, which will secure the election of a U. S. Senator; the question being agitated; to whom should the representatives of the people commit that important trust? We have a Biddle, a Sergeant, a Binney, and a Stevens, and many other good men, whose commanding talents and thrilling eloquence, would enable them to take their stand with the giants in the United S. Senate. But there is another man who, has been mentioned as a candidate for the U. S. Senate—it is JOSEPH RITNER, and his election would be a proud triumph for the democracy of Pennsylvania—No man could go into the Senate, with a higher character, for soundness of heart, and clearness of head, for stern republican virtue, and independence of action, for correct and enlarged views of State, and national politics, and above all for deep, sound, and general information.

MARRIED.
On Tuesday evening, the 16th inst., by the Rev. G. L. Brown, Mr. JOHN P. BLACK, of this County; to Miss SARAH ROSE of Lycoming County.

From the Knickerbocker.
A "HIGH FLOWN" NEGRO.
I was joined by George Edward Fitz-Augustus Seaton; a colored man, who discharges the functions of waiter at the City Hotel. He informed me that he was going to market, "for de special object," as he declared, of purchasing vegetables and other animal matter, for de immediate consumption of de establishment. Having nothing better to do, I agreed to accompany George Edward Fitz-Augustus, and we accordingly set off for Catherine Market. When he arrived at that depot of natural animate and inanimate productions, my companion walked up to the wagon of a fat countryman, and after peering for some time at his stock, inquired, "if dose were good taters?"

"Yes, Sir," responded the countryman. "A tater," resumed George Edward Fitz-Augustus, "is inevitably bad unless it is invariably good. Dere is no medecinity in de combination of a tater.—De exterior may appear remarkably exemplary and beautiful; while de interior is totally negative.—But Sir, if you vend de article upon your own recommendation, knowing you to be a man of probability in your transactions, I without any further circumspection takes a bushel!"

George Edward now passed to the stall of a dealer in eggs and butter, and taking a quarter of a dollar from his vest pocket, commenced an inspection of the latter commodity. "You call dat good butter?" demanded he, with a disagreeable expression upon his countenance, as if an ill flavor suddenly inhaled.

"Yes, Sir, I do—as good butter as comes to this or any other place."

"What you tink 'bout axing for dat butter?"

"Twenty-five cents."

"Twenty-five cents! And do you suppose, for de moment, dat your butter exceeds in value to such extreme valuation?—nasty, rancid stuff, churned over for de 'casion!—old butter renovated!"—said the indignant George Edward, moving off; but dat's de kind of negotiation I frequently meet with in dis market!"

CEDRON.
A gentleman recently arrived from Bogota, has handed us a sample of the cedron nut, which grows plentifully there and which he says has been proved with in a few years past, to be an infallible remedy for the bite of all poisonous vipers and other reptiles; not excepting the most malignant. Immediately after the bite is received, a little of the nut is scraped in some liquid. He says the natives penetrate the woods and bushes without the least apprehension from bites, which otherwise would produce death in three hours, accompanied with vomiting of blood, bleeding at the nose, and indeed the oozing of blood from all the pores of the skin. Such terrific dangers from reptiles, deemed far more deadly than rattle snakes, the people encounter under the protection of cedron with as little concern as we do the bite of a musquito. The taste is very pungent bitter. The hydrophobia is not a very common disease in New Grenada, but the cedron has been used in repeated instances as an antidote to the bite of rabid animals, and the opinion there is, that it is an infallible protection. The individuals who give us these details, is a gentleman of high respectability, and we have no doubt that all he says may be relied upon.

[Jour. of Com.]

A very late absence of mind case.—A gentleman while out shooting in Tennessee, put the wadding in his pocket, and rammed himself down his rifle instead. Having, however, fortunately left his cap on, he was instantly shot to the top of a pine tree, into the society of a racoon, who explained to him his mistake.

AN AGED MURDERER.

HORRIBLE RESULT OF INTEMPERANCE.
—A slip from a correspondent of the Mobile Examiner, under the date of the 5d inst, says, that the Coroner of that city was called on the Sunday previous to hold an Inquest upon the body of Thomas Hamilton, a young man of 23 or 24 years of age, who was stabbed on the 24 of Sept. at Spring Hill. It appeared, in evidence, that the deceased had been in the city drinking, and returned home late at night, when he met his grandfather, who was also inebriated. A trifling altercation ensued between them, and the latter struck the young man and stabbed him in the body, of which wound he died in nine or ten hours afterward. The murderer is about 90 years of age, and is named Benjamin Alexander. He was fully committed. The Examiner justly observes, that, if there be any thing which more than another should give an impulse to the temperance cause, it is such an occurrence as this. Even when prompted by the warmth of young blood and inexperienced passion, such an event calculated to make the moral shudder, but what can be their feelings when the silver head of age conceives such a crime, and the palsied hand executes it?

HORRIBLE DEATH.—On Saturday week, an adjourned Inquest was held at the Champton, Princes street, Lisson Grove, on the body of John M'ellan whose death occurred under the following circumstances:—The jury first proceeded to view the body of the unfortunate man, which presented a spectacle too horrible to describe, the face being entirely eaten away, and the whole body being one mass of sores from top to toe. From the depositions, it appeared that the deceased, was a driver of a cab horse, the property of Mr. W. Johnson, a cab owner, at the west end of the town. On the evening of Friday week, deceased came home, and complained of having a cold. He took some gruel, and went to bed. On the following day, large lumps or swellings began to make their appearance under the jaw and on the nose, which, as well as the eyes, emitted a great deal of running. The eyes gradually became worse, and full of holes, and the nose and jaw broke out into dreadful sores. Medical aid was called in, but the gentleman who attended was unable to tell the nature of the disease. On Wednesday week deceased was conveyed in a cab to Sir Astley Cooper, who examined him and pronounced it to be the glanders, caught from a horse. The deceased's medical attendance subsequently fell in with his opinion; but all remedies were found of no avail. The unfortunate man gradually became worse, and entirely insensible. In the space of two days his nose fell from his face, and his eyes became like a colander, both emitting a thick mucous running. He, however, about a quarter of an hour before his death, which took place on Thursday evening, recovered his senses, and stated that he had got his death, by wiping the horse, which was glandered, with his pocket handkerchief, and then incautiously using the same to wipe his nose. He expired in the most excruciating agony. The jury returned a verdict "That the deceased died from glanders, accidentally caught from a horse, of which he was the driver."—London paper.

A Hint.—There are scores of persons who would never dream of walking into a tailor's shop and asking for the gift of a waistcoat, or into a hatter's begging to be favoured free gratis with a hat yet can see no impropriety in calling upon the publisher of a newspaper for the gratuitous announcement of a course of lectures, or a patent flytrap, or any other notion, in the bringing of which before the public they happen to have an interest.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT CINCINNATI.—On the 3d inst, a fire occurred at Cincinnati, which destroyed all the houses fronting on the west side of walnut street, extending nearly a square south of the corporation line. They are principally owned and occupied by Germans, who have been thrown destitute upon the community.

The fire originated by depositing hot ashes in a box or barrel in a cellar.

THE HUMAN HEART.—It appears from the researches of an English physician of eminence, Dr. Genderwing, published in the Medical Gazette, the medium weight of the heart is nine ounces in man and eight ounces in woman. A remarkable fact, and one hitherto unknown, is, that the heart of a man becomes heavier as old age approaches, while that of woman diminishes in weight, after the thirtieth year.

RESUMPTION OF SPECIE PAYMENTS.—The Bank in this city yesterday (says the Savannah Georgian, the 2d inst.) resumed specie payments. Every thing has passed off quietly. So far from runs being made on the Banks, deposits of specie have been made—a fact illustrative of the abundance of the precious article, and the confidence of the people in the Banks.

THE GREAT WARRIOR DEAD AT LAST. The celebrated Indian warrior, Black Hawk, died at his camp on the river Des Moines, on the 3d inst.

INTERESTING CASE CURED.
By Dr. Wm. October 17, 1838.

DR. Wm. EVANS' CAMOMILE PILLS.

Happy would it have been for many persons, of both sexes, who are now in the silent grave, if they had learned to check the morbid tendencies of their stomachs and bowels, by these pure Tonic and Aperient Pills, manufactured by Dr. Wm. Evans, of New York, without resorting to such pernicious remedies, the names of which are concealed and of which they know nothing. That dreadful scourge, CONSUMPTION, might have been checked in its commencement, and disappointed of its usual success, if the la. d, if the first symptoms of nervous Debility, had been counteracted by CAMOMILE, chemically prepared, and those bowels complaints, which lead to a host of fatal maladies, might have been avoided by that fine alkaline extract of Rhubarb, which is a leading ingredient in the Aperient Pills. Before both of those medicines, which are adapted to a majority of the purposes for which a hundred others are unnecessarily used; fevers, agues, bilious disorders, Gravidæ, female debility, male decline, flatulencies, and liver complaint, would have entirely disappeared, where many of them have proved fatal.

FEMALES.

Who are troubled with sick headache, faintings, or giddiness, palpitation of the heart, lowness of spirits, loss of appetite, pain in the side, general debility, or bodily weakness, rejections of food, &c., may be effectually restored to health by using Dr. EVANS' CAMOMILE TONIC and FAMILY APERIENT PILLS, which are invariably recommended by all those that have used the invaluable medicine. Perseverance in the use of this invaluable medicine, will undoubtedly effect a cure even in the most acute or obstinate cases, even in such cases the dose may be augmented according to the inveteracy of the disease; these Pills being so admirably adapted to the constitution, that they may be taken at all times and under any circumstances.
