

THE JOURNAL.

One country, one constitution, one destiny.

Huntingdon Dec. 5. 1838.

Democratic Antislavery CANDIDATES.

FOR PRESIDENT,
GEN. WM. H. HARRISON
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
DANIEL WEBSTER.

FLAG OF THE PEOPLE!

A single term for the Presidency, and the office administered for the whole PEOPLE, and not for a PARTY.
A sound, uniform and convenient National CURRENCY, adapted to the wants of the whole COUNTRY, instead of the SHIN PLASTERS brought about by our present RULERS.
ECONOMY, RETRENCHMENT, and REFORM in the administration of public affairs.
Tired of Experiments and Experimenters, Republican gratitude will reward unobtrusive merit, by elevating the substance of WASHINGTON and the disciple of JEFFERSON, and thus resuming the safe and beaten track of our Fathers.—L. Gazette.

THE TICKET.

As soon as we learned the nominations made by the Convention, which met in Philadelphia, we run up our flag, with the names of HARRISON & WEBSTER inscribed in bold relief thereon. At that time we had not room to call the attention of our readers to it. We purpose doing so now.
If there is any peculiar trait in the character of the American people, it is their veneration for those who have been instrumental in securing the blessings they now enjoy. They have clearly proven that "Republics, are not ungrateful." The history of the past proves clearly that fact.

The ticket which is now presented to them, will wake up every feeling of patriotism in the bosom of every American. Who is Wm. Henry Harrison? Go ask the frontier settlers, who was foremost in that field, and boldest in that fight which saved them from the scalping knife, and their dwellings from the torch of the bloody minded savage. Will they not answer William Henry Harrison! Ask them who "fought the battles for the free" against an enemy possessing all the cunning of the fox, with the ferocity of the panther? Ask them who fought and conquered? Will they not answer "OLD TIPPECANOE." Ask them whose name stands highest, among the bravest of the brave; and they will shout forth the name of that scar marked warrior. Ask them whose counsels guided them when the "red field was won"—will they not tell you the statesman, soldier and patriot, HARRISON? His history and his deeds are written upon every page of our national glory, and

—Wither'd be the hands that dare
One laurel from his noble brow to tear."
Every child should be taught to lip forth a name which adds new lustre to our national honor. Shall political or personal favoritism urge any American citizen, whether by birth or adoption, to pluck from the grey haired brows of our veteran soldiers, the honor earned in the hard fought field, where their rights, the rights of their children, "their altar and their firsid homes" were pending upon the issue, and were only secured by their glorious triumph.

"Old Tip" cannot ever be beaten again; once driven from the field by the factious strides of parties, and partizans. Like "Old Hickory," the people will claim him as their candidate, and they will elect him. He is a candidate, like the "General" on the one term principle, but his pledges will be redeemed—the history of his administration will not be written in two words—"violated faith."

We have run up to our mast head, the flag bearing the name of him who never lost a battle—and of him who has proven himself the defender of the constitution, against the assaults of knavery, and tyranny, DANIEL WEBSTER. They shall stay there, until they are borne in tatters to the ground, or they float in triumph over corruption's grave. It is truly the flag of the brave—and through, all the ruses and contentions of factions, or fractions, of parties,

"Its folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph high."
We cannot let the present opportunity pass, without letting some who we believe are friends, know what is the feeling of the people in old Huntingdon. They all with one consent say—HARRISON! give us the old veteran of North Bend, and all must be secure. Let there be a unity of feeling and action, throughout the union, that the people may see, that all desire a victory, and we will insure old Huntingdon for 1500 majority for "Old Tip." We say this, that there may be no misapprehensions—and such a result cannot be either anticipated or hoped for with any other man in the field. With Harrison, success is sure; without him, defeat.

Crain vs. Porter.

Our readers will recollect that a suit was instituted, by the heirs of Even Crain against D. R. Porter, as the surviving partner of Patton and Porter. The suit was arbitrated last week, and we are not a little surprised to see the apparent exultation with which our neighbor of the "Gazette" publishes the award, as well as the political character of two of the arbitrators.

Our intention was to have referred to the matter in no way, but to leave it until its final adjudication. No possible good can come from any attempt to mislead the public mind, or to prejudice public opinion, for or against either of the litigants. We wonder, therefore, not a little, to see an effort thus made, to induce the people to believe that the Messrs. Crain's were actuated by any other, than correct motives, when they laid in their demand.

We shall, then in order that the people can understand the matter, give in as few words as possible, the history. The arbitration was conducted fairly on both sides. The defendant alleged that the other partner, previous to his decease had paid the demand, and the Books of the Firm, and the Books used by Patton after the dissolution were produced. The impression, that all present received, upon seeing the entries in those books, was that the demand had been so paid; for there were several entries of cash paid, with no evidence of any other indebtedness, and consequently the award could be in no other way, than "no case of action." It was soon discovered that there were other books which might lead to an exposition of the affairs; and immediately, a request was made by the counsel of the Crains to have the award opened, and to allow the whole testimony to be introduced, in order that the claim might be finally settled. This we are told the Counsel of Mr. Porter, under his advise refused to do, and the result, that the Messrs. Crain's have, or will appeal, being now more than ever convinced of the justice of their claim. We do not pretend to know, or say any thing about the equity of the demand: But we do know, that if Mr. Porter, is not indebted to the Estate of Mr. Crain, we will be among the first who will give publicity to the fact when legally decided.

We should not have adverted to the case had not, the course pursued by our neighbor seemed to demand, that the public should be disabused.

The Legislature.

Yesterday this body assembled, and we supposed organised, unless the factious, and revolutionary spirit evinced by the Loco Foco's, has led them to the commission of some of their bloody deeds, threatened. For our part we do not imagine that their courage will be so great when they arrive at Harrisburg—for like the valorous Bob Acres, it will ooze out of their finger ends. We will keep our readers informed as to the doings of their law makers.

An important duty devolves upon this Legislature, and it becomes the people to keep a watchful eye over their doings. Upon them rest the power and responsibility of making provisional laws to meet the requirements of our new Constitution—and unless well watched, the laws may be equally aristocratic and arbitrary, as the old Constitution. We shall devote much of our space, to the doings of this body.

Some Loco Foco paper, in trying to poke fun at the Baltimore Patriot, for saying "Whigs stand fast"—says, he should have said, "Whigs lie still."
There is no occasion to say, to any of the Loco Foco Editors, either to "stand fast" or "lie still," for most of them, cannot stand fast, because troubled with the falling sickness; and all of them lie, still.

Mr. Shunk.

We had not intended to notice Mister Shunk's manifesto, until we saw it in the "Gazette" of last week. As our neighbor considered it of sufficient importance to be transferred to his columns, we must devote a little time and space, to keep our readers up to the news. We promise to be as brief as possible, for the truth is it is really a small affair; although a stranger might think on reading the letter of Francis R. Shunk, that it was from some great man; well so it is, Frank is a great man, at least 6 foot three in his stockings—there his greatness ends—that is 6 ft 3. from the sole of his feet—but we are travelling out of the record—and we hear our readers say, "what has all that to do with Mister Shunk's letter?" Well nothing then, only to prove, what he is so anxious to have known—that he, said F. R. Shunk is a great man. Now to the tale.

Mister Shunk, (we always like to write a mans title out in full) was once clerk of the House of Representative, and he hopes he shall be again, and that hope is not likely to be realised, unless the party to which he is attached, succeed in forcing some of their illegally returned members into their seats. Naturally a cunning shrewd man, [all great men are, in their own estimation] this F. R. Shunk is anxious to render himself as notorious, as he is great, and resolves that if he can get hold of the legal returns, he can make the matter work. The Law say that the returns must be sent to the Secretary of the commonwealth, Mister Shunk, goes to the Secretary and says that he wants them, for he was clerk and may act again. The Secretary laughed at him we suppose, for who could help it, at so ridiculous a demand—and then to cap the climax, Mister Shunk writes a long letter demanding, the sealed returns which were directed to the House of Representatives—and says he wants to make out tally papers,—and get seals engraved for the members, &c. Now for the soul of us we cannot see how he could discover from a sealed packet, who were the members, unless he broke it open, and we should not like to say he would break open a letter not directed to him. He admits the law does not give him any right to them: but he wants them. And what do you think reader! He says the Secretary would not answer his letter! What a fellow that T. H. Burrows, must be; not to let Frank Shunk have letters directed to the House of Representatives, so that he could break the seals. We should not wish to insinuate that he would alter them, or put others in the place, if they did not suit his notions; but he did want them, and he tacitly admits that he meant to break them open, but Tom Burrows the "good for nothing," called Mister Shunk, he won't, and Mister Shunk a great man too.

The amount of the whole of it is Mr. Shunk demanded, what he had no right to, and Mr. Burrows with becoming firmness told him, that he had no claim to them, and should not have them—that they were directed to the House, and to the House he intended to deliver them. Either knavery or folly, must have led Mr. Shunk into the unenviable position.

Canada.

Our news from Canada, seem to indicate a final cessation of the war, there has been a severe fight between the Loyalists and the Patriots in the Windmill, [as noticed last week] The entire Patriot force fell into the hands of the Queen's troops; and were nearly all massacred. none hardly escaped to tell the tale. Report says that a large number of American citizens fell among the number.

In another column will be found a statement of the Finances of Pennsylvania. It is satisfactory to learn that the canal tolls have nearly amounted to a million, notwithstanding, the tolls have been entirely taken off on goods on the Juniata Canal since the break.

Another Suit.

We have learned that a Loco Foco editor in Lehigh county instituted previous to the late election, a prosecution against the Democratic editor of the "Lehigh Journal," for charging the Loco Foco candidate for Governor, with fraudulent insolvency. The trial was to have been brought up on Monday, the 3d. We do earnestly hope the trial may be had, let it terminate as it may. We understand that witnesses, and the Records have been taken from this county.
