new offices-calling extra Sessionsfinally increasing the state debt; all of which wicked deeds, he has done himself; and others, that they may show him that is they be not Governors, they are as good men as he ever was, and perhaps, indulge in a curse or two, by way of illustrating his sycophancy and hypocrisy.

It is all vanity! He is a politician! In that significant title, it is all told. At first a politician from necessity; next a politician for the spoils; and lastly a politician for power. Practice has made him a pro-ficient in the science; the science of decieving your friends: cheating your enes the joint exertions of both; for this is the science of politics. Find me a politician, and we miss our guess if he is not ready

On Tuesday, the Senate appointed a science of politics. Find me a politician, and we miss our guess if he is not ready to overeach his dearest bosom friend; cologue with his bitterest foe; and decieve, them both, provided, it facilitates his rise in the scale of patronage or power. Such are politicians of all parties. Governor Porter is a politician! and [though he meets you with "isit well with thee to-day my brother;" 'tis but the "goll leaf and gilding" of politics, and every honest man must admitit.

Let the honest of all parties remember what we say, and mark in the progress of their life, if what we say is not true. We do not wish to exculpate our own party. There are politicians among it—and they are no more honest than others. They are all alike. How many talked of oar course last fall, as all electioneeing trash! Folitical falsehoods!! And why is it that truth is not known from falsehood, because rel last fall, as all electioneering trash! Political falsehoods!! And why is it that truth is not known from falsehood, because politicians will pronounce, (as in our case) the plainest facts, the vilest falsehoods; and vilest falsehoods the plainest facts. Our motto has been, he that is honest Belcher. In the House, Mr. Allen of in morals, is honest in politics. He that Bangor, offered the vote of thanks to the is dishonest in politics, is dishonest in Speaker.

Bangor, offered the vote of thanks to the Speaker.

So far as political parties are concerned, our Legislature has separated in very good humor. The loco tocos have carried home considerable bitterness of feed home considerable bitte plunder needed to carry on elections; and then call for the whole. Thus it is said that Porter's officers on the Columbia then call for the whole. Thus it is said that Porter's officers on the Columbia Rail Road say there is twenty thousand old debts, while in fact there are but two or three. We hesitate not in saying the oid debts, while in fact there are but two or three. We hesitate not in saying the same plan is pursued everywhere, in order to make up the demand for the TWO MILLIONS. They will then scatter their plunder with prodigal hands. Not there a little and there and there are little"—but here a great deal and there more. Let the people look to it! There is no honest reason why Gov. Porter's officers should need six times as much money to carry on the public works, as did their predecessors. They say the works are out of reweare no longer able to supply orders for complete sets of the old.

FINAL DISPOSITION OF THE MURDEBERS.—Mrs. Doyle, the woman engaged in the infamous murder of a sailor in New Content, and you will see as many and as heavy loaded boats passing as ever. The truth is the canals and rail roads are now in as good repair it not better than they have ever been since erected. Let the people watch the movements of these bawlers for reform, and they will find that they are the plunderers, who like the pickpocket joins the hue and cry, and halloes "stop thief!"

In the Senate on Saturday, the day was again spent in discussing the pay of the troops. Mr. Penrose it is said, made one of the most eloquent speeches ever listen-ed to in that Hall. It was in reply to the new Loco Foco, but old Federal senator from Lycoming.

In the House, after the loss of the six million bill, they tried to get up another smaller one, which was forced through its various readings and sent to the Senate.

In the Senate on Monday, they passed a bill to incorporate the Huntingdo reased officers, and deserved the curses of every honest man. Now they have more than doubled the number latterly under Ritner, and they call this Reform. This is the boasted Reform! Thoest farmers how do you like it?

But the plunder fund! we had almost forgotten that part of our story. They want money for electioneering purposes! They must and will have it! They always had! & cannot now do without it; and the plan they propose is this:—They charge the officers under Ritner, with leaving IMMENSE Debts unpaid, no matter whether there be an ounce of truth to a pound of falsehood! If they find any debts due, they say the amount is as large as they think will cover the amount of plunder needed to carry on elections; and then call for the whole. Thus it is said -
