

Huntingdon and Hollidaysburg Rail-Road.

The Bill authorizing the incorporation of a company to make this rail road having become a law, it is hoped the subject will receive that attention from the public, which its great importance imperiously requires. In coming to a conclusion in relation to this matter, one consideration should ever be borne in mind;—it stands in bold relief, and ought, and it is trusted will have its due weight with all persons well disposed to the prosperity of our State, in forming their several opinions.—It is this. The necessities of trade, and the force of public opinion, already clearly developed, are such, that there must and will be a continuous Rail Road from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, by some route. Such being the case, the questions at once present themselves, by what route and in what manner shall this Rail Road be made? Shall it be in part through the state of Virginia and Maryland, by using a portion of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, so far as the town of Hancock in Maryland, or shall it be by some route or routes through the centre of our own state? Without in the slightest manner desiring to attempt detracting from the merits and advantages of that route, which would propose to adopt the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, for a considerable portion of the distance, or of any other route, it is suggested for reflection, that this proposed road being made, the distance from Pittsburgh by the way of the mouth of Turtle Creek and Greensburg, to the town of Ligonier, in Westmoreland county, over favourable ground, already surveyed, is but sixty miles. The distance from Ligonier to Johnstown, the Western termination of the Portage Rail Road—over the Laurel Hill, by a Turnpike Road, located at a grade of five degrees, is but eleven miles,—passing by the course of the Connomough through Laurel Hill, instead of crossing it, by a level route, the distance from Ligonier to Johnstown is but from seventeen to nineteen miles, making a distance from Pittsburgh to Johnstown over the Laurel Hill of seventy one miles, and by the level route of from seventy seven to seventy nine miles. It is believed not to be presumptuous to say, that by whatever route a continuous Rail Road may be made, a Rail Road between these last mentioned points will be made,—made before many years, and at a comparatively small expense. If this State, or some other company, do not make that part from Pittsburgh to the mouth of Turtle Creek, the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company, must, and will make it. This would reduce the distance of the road to be made, to connect with Johnstown, twelve miles. A Rail Road from Pittsburgh to Johnstown, being thus made, and the present proposed Rail Road to Huntingdon being completed, we have a continuous Rail Road to the east of the Allegheny Mountains, and within a distance from Harrisburg, by the valley of the Juniata, of about one hundred miles, and from Chambersburg, over favourable ground, of but about sixty five miles. And this being done, can any one doubt but that there will be sufficient public spirit in the state, and that the necessities of the public interests will not compel the doing of what is necessary to effect a continuous Rail Road, by the construction of that part between the points last alluded to, by the one or the other of these routes. It is also to be borne in mind that whatever other route their may be for a continuous Rail Road between our eastern and western emporiums, none other than that now proposed, except by the way of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, through Virginia and Maryland can be completed in a shorter period than from twelve to twenty years, nor at an expense less than from fifteen to twenty millions of dollars. By the route now advocated and submitted to public opinion and of which "the Huntingdon and Hollidaysburg Rail Road" will form an important link, a continuous Rail Road from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh can be had in from five or six years, at an expense not exceeding in the whole, for what is yet to be done, of from four to five millions. Other and better routes may, and possibly will, in the course of time, be discovered, but in the mean time the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, will have been completed to Wheeling, the vast and increasing trade of the Mississippi will have taken the course of that road to Baltimore—will have set thitherto in a current so strong to be counteracted, and then our state may make a continuous Rail Road bringing and accommodate a trade within its own limits which might have been. It is plainly believed by many who are best acquainted with this subject, that on the making or not making, of the Huntingdon and Hollidaysburg Rail Road, depends the decision of this question. What say you Pennsylvanians? shall the current of trade from east to west, and the continuous Rail Road (for all practical purposes,) be from Wheeling, through the state of Virginia and Maryland? or shall it be through the centre of your own state? How shall it be? On yourselves it depends.

trade and the interests of the state, suffered to an amount greater than sufficient to make this Road. And it is well known that the local transportation, necessarily occurring along the route of this Road, will be nearly equal to the whole amount of trade, for the accommodation of which similar works have been constructed.

It is therefore expected that every Pennsylvanian, if he cannot assist towards the construction of this Road to the extent that he would wish to do, will yet do what he can.

THE SOCIAL AFFECTIONS.—The affections are only immortal, when they are left as a preparation for higher modes of existence; the germ will increase and fructify, only when it receives the influences of the most elevated motives; and otherwise it will wither. This germ, whose buds are sympathy, and whose flower is benevolence, is generosity; a true vital element, an expansive power, which breaking the narrow barriers of self-love, first teaches man that there is an end without himself.

The article published below, concerning the new and popular doctrine advanced by the illustrious Goelicke of Germany, cannot fail of exciting a deep and thrilling interest throughout our country.

[Translated from the German.]

LOUIS OFFON GOELICKE, OF GERMANY, THE GREATEST OF HUMAN BENEFACTORS.

Citizens of North and South America.

To LOUIS OFFON GOELICKE, M. D. of Germany, [Europe] the imperishable honor of adding a new and precious doctrine to the Sciences of Medicine—a doctrine which, though vehemently opposed by many of the faculty, (of which he is a valuable member,) he proves to be as well founded in truth as any doctrine of Holy Writ—a doctrine upon the variety of which are suspended the lives of millions of our race, and which he boldly challenges his opposers to refute, viz: Consumption is a disease always occasioned by a disordered state of Vis Vitæ (or life principle) of the human body: often secretly lurking in the system for years before there is the least complaint of the Lungs—and which may be as certainly though not so quickly, cured as a common cold or a simple headache. An invaluable precious doctrine this, as it imparts an important lesson to the apparently health of both sexes, teaching them that this insidious foe may be an unobserved inmate of their "clayey houses" even while they imagine themselves secure from its attacks, teaching them that the great secret in the art of preserving health is to pluck out the disease while in the blade, and not wate till the full grown ear.

This illustrious benefactor of man is also entitled to your unfeigned gratitude, and the gratitude of a world, for the invention of his matchless sanative,—whose healing fait may justly claim for it such a title, since it has so signally triumphed over our great common enemy consumption, both in the first and last stages,—a medicine which has thoroughly filled the vacuum in the Meteria Medica, and thereby proved itself the Conqueror of Physicians—a medicine, for which all mankind will have abundant cause to bless the beneficent hand of a kind Providence,—a medicine, whose wondrous virtues have been so glowingly portrayed even by some of our clergy, in their pastoral visits to the sick chamber; by which means they often become the happy instruments of changing despondency into hope, sickness into health, and sadness of friends into joyfulness.

GOELICKE'S MATCHLESS SANATIVE, medicine of more value to man than the vast mines of Austria, or even the united treasures of our globe,—a medicine, which is obtained equally from the vegetable, animal and mineral kingdoms, and thus possesses a three-fold power,—a medicine, which though designed as a remedy for consumption solely, is possessed of a mysterious influence over many diseases of the human system,—a medicine, which is daily witnessing its astonishing cures of many whom they had resigned to the grasp of the Insatiable Grave.

Dose of the Sanative, for adults, or drop; for children a half drop; and for infants, a quarter drop; the directions explaining the manner of taking a half or a quarter drop.

Price—Three and one third six dollars* ($2,50) per HALF OUNCE.

*A German coin, value 75 cents.

A certificate from three members of the MEDICAL PROFESSION in Germany, in Europe.

We the undersigned, practitioners of medicine in Germany are well aware that, by our course, we may forfeit the friendship of some of the faculty, but not of its benevolent members, who are uninfluenced by selfish motives. Though we shall refrain from an expression of our opinion, either of the soundness or unsoundness of Dr. Goelicke's new doctrine, we are happy to say that we deem his Sanative too valuable not to be generally known—for what our eyes behold and our ears hear, we must believe.

We hereby state, that when Dr. Louis Offon Goelicke first came before the German public, as the pretended discoverer of a new doctrine and a new medicine, we held him in the highest contempt, believing and openly pronouncing him to be a base impostor and the prince of quacks. But, on hearing so much said about the Sanative, against it and for it, we were induced, from motives of curiosity merely, to make trial of its reputed virtues, upon a number of our most hopeless patients; and we now deem it our bounden duty (even at the expense of our self-interest) publicly to acknowledge its efficacy in curing not only consumption, but other fearful maladies, which we have heretofore believed to be incurable. Our contempt for the discoverer of this medicine was at once swallowed up in our utter astonishment at these unexpected results; and, as amends for our abuse of him, we do frankly confess to the world, that we believe him a philanthropist who does honor to the profession, and to our country, which gave him birth.

The recent adoption of this medicine into some of our European hospitals is a sufficient guaranty that it performs all its promises: It need not our testimony, for wherever it is used it is its own best witness.
