

blown," first and last in the thickest strife—where hand to hand they met the foe—where steel met steel—where the blood of friends and foes mingled in one common stream. Aye, there they saw him, when his cunning opponent was pronouncing THAT WAR UNJUST—which secured the final and lasting triumph of American freedom.

To the Farmers & Mechanics—No. 1

If there be any portion of citizens of a republican government, who are mainly interested in the preservation of its free institutions, and its equalizing laws, that portion is composed of those whose means of support are their daily toil—those who live not upon the earnings of others, but who dig on the farm—work at the anvil—push the jack-plane, or delve any where among the wood and metals of our country. Take from them their powers and rights, and they at once become the menials—the hewers of wood and the drawers of water, for those who live upon the gains of usury; or the more popular, yet not less guilty system of speculating upon the wants of the poor and the necessities of the suffering mechanic, and needy and indigent farmer. "We hold these truths as self evident;" and we purpose devoting a portion of our paper to give our views, as to what is the duty of this most useful class of our citizens, in order to preserve, unshaken, the "blessings and benefits" which were the rich legacy of their revolutionary sires. We ask all to read them. We seek no other goal than, if possible, to benefit those classes who have the greatest stake in the prosperity of our country.

The man of wealth, and power, and influence, can live under any government—under any laws; but the daily laborer in the field and the workshop, must look upon the destruction of our institutions, as the downfall of his hopes, his rights, and his liberties.

To them, then, we intend to address ourselves, in the plain language of honesty and truth. They shall be the honest sentiments of that Yankee Benedict; he writes as he thinks, and he appeals in all candor, to every working man to say if he does not speak truly, if not learnedly, or wisely?

We are but a common man like the rest of you; we earn to-day what feeds the wife and children to-morrow, we are one of you; and we feel that your interest are one and the same as ours. Undoubtedly you may be told that we are just trying to deceive and delude you, into some political opinion or notion. Let not such silly charges keep you from reading, and making yourselves acquainted with the condition of your country. If such hollow hearted exclamations can shut your eyes from the truth now, be assured that some day when the hand of the spoiler is ready to crush you, the same song may make you hesitate until the last "link is broken" which connects your destiny with the institutions of Freedom.

We shall pursue a series of articles through several weeks of our paper; comparing the past and present condition of our country—the past and present condition of farmers and mechanics, and endeavor to show what have been the causes which brought about certain results. We shall endeavor to use no language which shall be offensive to any; unless it should offend, and excite the malice of politicians and office hunters, and the whole horde of those worthless worthies who are so anxious to take care of the country—but are much more anxious that the country should take care of them—gentlemen paupers, who bask in the sunshine of official power, and wax fat upon their share of the spoils of the people's money. If we offend them, we shall be rejoiced, believing that they fancy that we teach the industrious poor that their love of country, and their love of the dear people meant nothing, only love of self, love of power, and love of the money they wring in taxes from you and yourself.

We shall endeavor still farther to show that in the present day, patriotism means inventing some new scheme of securing success of party, no matter how much the people may suffer, no matter how much their rights may be outraged; and we shall go still farther, and try to show, that when a set of men have held power for many years they forget the duty they owe to the interest of the farmer and mechanic, and think only of their hopes of office, and their share of the people's money.

The press should be the palladium of a free people. A press unshackled and uncontrolled by power, should at all times devote its every power for the good of the people. In monarchies, the freedom of the press is chained down by the edicts of Royalty. Kings nor tyrants cannot breathe that atmosphere which fosters a free press. In a free government like ours the conductor of every press claims to be the especial friend and guardian of the people's right. Whether all who claim to be, are such, should be a subject of strict inquiry with the only sovereigns of the soil—an industrious and honest people. If we among the others claim too much, we should be taught to perform all that we claim.

Let, then, our brother mechanics, and every worthy and industrious farmer examine our professions and practice, and if they do not agree, they can at once pronounce us a wolf in sheep's clothing.

We call upon any man who differs with our views, as they may be expressed in these essays, to enter the field of argument against us, they shall have a free use of our columns; and their articles shall be printed with as much care as our own. They must, however, write as we do, over their own name, and let their arguments be gentlemanly and courteous; and we promise the artisan and laborer, that if we are not their champion, we will be a faithful soldier in their cause. If argument instead of sophistry be used, we will answer. If none take up the gauntlet, we shall be vain enough to say, and to say plainly, that they fear the contest would result in no honor.

We have done for this week. And we not only ask that every mechanic will read our views, but, that he will give them to his neighbor.

Mr. Hurd's Address.

Upon our first page will be found the remarks of S. T. Hurd, Esq. made at a meeting held in our borough, two weeks since. Mr. Hurd was a delegate from the State of Ohio to the Baltimore Convention. On his return, he spent a few days in our town, and a meeting of the friends of General Harrison was called by the citizens, to request Mr. Hurd to make some remarks upon the prospects of our cause in the country; and to let the people know the feelings of that mighty concourse of people, upon the engrossing topic of the Presidency. The meeting met and was organized; when Mr. Hurd took the stand, and made a very able and eloquent examination of the present Administration. The meeting was large and enthusiastic, frequently stopping the speaker with cheers of applause.

A resolution was adopted, requesting Mr. Hurd to furnish a complete, or an abstract copy of his remarks, for our paper. The abstract on the first page, was handed in, but by an accident beyond our control, we were unable to present it to our readers until this week. We did not publish the minutes of the meeting for the same reason; and as there was nothing of any particular importance, we have concluded that, at this late day, they can be of no importance. We commend the remarks of Mr. Hurd to the attentive perusal of our readers.

Legislature.

The following are the provisions of the bill which passed the House of Representatives on Tuesday:

To complete the railway to avoid the inclined plane at Columbia. $58,000

To purchase new locomotives and ropes on the Columbia and Portage railroads, 30,000

To renew the North track of the Columbia and Philadelphia railroad from the 22nd milestone to Whitehall, 100,000

(This sum to be taken out of the sum appropriated for repairs.)

To pay debts due on the Sinenemahoning extension, W. Branch, 34,000

To pay debts due on the Gettysburg railroad, 150,000

To pay debts due on the Allegheny feeder, 1,100

To pay for dubling locks on the Eastern division, Pa. canal, 7,402

For repairs and payment of debts on different lines of canal and railroads— 6000,000

To pay for new work on finished lines pay of canal commissioners, &c. 30,000

Damages, 30,000

To the Erie extension, 600,000

To North Branch, 600,000

Wisconsin canal, 60,000

To the stock of the Monongahela navigation company, 100,000

$2,400,502

The third and fourth sections are as follows.—They will explain themselves.

Sec 3. For the payment of the interest upon the public debt, falling due on the first of July next, such sum as shall be required for the payment thereof, be and is hereby specifically appropriated.

Sec 4. That the President, directors, and company of the Bank of the U. States are hereby required to advance on permanent loan, at an interest of four per cent, the amount appropriated by this act the certificate of stock to be issued and made payable in the manner prescribed by the 6th section of the act passed the 18th day of February 1836, entitled "an act to repeal the State tax on real and personal property and to continue the improvements of the state by railroads and canals and to charter a state bank to be called the United States Bank," said amount to be paid in gold and silver, or its equivalent, and in case the same is not advanced in accordance with the provisions of the act aforesaid and this act, the charter of the said bank shall be forfeited, and the Governor is hereby authorized to issue his proclamation declaring the same null and void.

They have done nothing else, and it is quite problematical whether this bill will be passed by the senate.

Our readers will perceive that the Democratic anti-bank legislature have agreed to legalize the charter of the monster, by calling on her for money, as provided under that charter. O consistency! what a jewel.

NOTICE.—Bishop UNDERDUNK, of the Episcopal Church, will preach and administer the Sacrament on Friday the 12th inst. in Huntingdon.

CAUTION.

All persons are cautioned against purchasing or receiving a promissory note for fourteen dollars, drawn by Wm. Cummins in favor of John Gall, as the undersigned never received value therefor and is determined not to pay it. The note was given some time in October, and became due on the 1st of last January.

		LIVER COMPLAINT.
Huntingdon Township.	8	This disease is discovered by a fixed obtuse pain and weight in the right side under the short ribs; attended with heat, uneasiness about the pit of the stomach;—there is in the right side also a distension—the patient loses his appetite and becomes sick and trouble with vomiting. The tongue becomes rough and black, countenance changes to a pale or citron color or yellow, like those afflicted with jaundice—difficulty of breathing, disturbed rest, attended with dry cough, difficulty of laying on the left side—the body becomes weak, and finally the disease terminates into another of a more serious nature, which in all probability is far beyond the power of human skill. Dr. Harlich's compound tonic strengthening and German aperient pills, if taken at the commencement of this disease, will check it, and by continuing the use of the medicine a few weeks, a perfect cure will be performed. Thousands can testify to this fact.
		Certificates of many persons may daily be seen of the efficacy of this invaluable medicine, by applying at the Medical Office, No. 19 North Eighth street, Philadelphia.
		Also, at the Store of Jacob Miller, who is agent for Huntingdon county.

TREATMENT.
The principal objects to be kept in view are 1st, to free the stomach and intestines from offending materials. 2d, to improve the tone of the digestive organs, and energy of the system in removing noxious matters from the stomach, and obviating costiveness. Violent drastic purgatives should be avoided and those aperients should be used which act gently, and rather by soliciting the peristaltic motions of the intestines to their regularity of health, than by irritating them to a laborious excitement. There is no medicine better adapted to the completion of this than DR. O. P. HARLICH'S GERMAN APERIENT PILLS. To improve the functions of the debilitated organs and invigorate the system generally, no medicine has ever been so prominently efficacious as Dr. Harlich's Compound Tonic Strengthening Pills, whose salutary influence in restoring the digestive organs to a healthy action, and re-establishing health and vigor in enfeebled and dyspeptic constitutions; have gained the implicit confidence of the most eminent physicians, and unprecedented public testimony. Remember Dr. Harlich's Compound Tonic Strengthening Pills, they are put up in small packets with full directions.
Principal office for the United States, is No. 19 North Eighth street Philadelphia, where all communications must be addressed.
Also for sale at the store of Jacob Miller, who is agent for Huntingdon County.
