

be, we regard it as consonant to that harmony and personal kindness that has ever existed between us, to express our earnest desire that your political relation to us may not be at present interrupted. The judicial administration of justice is entirely independent of your views of national policy. The civil tribunal is upon neutral ground—a retired spot—where all parties stand in relation to each other that are and ought to be entirely unaffected by difference of political opinion. Your retirement from among us on account of the position given you by political friends would be as unnecessary as it would be regretted by ourselves.

We do therefore, without distinction of party, cordially and sincerely request you to retain the judicial station you now occupy, until an election by the people shall have transferred you to the Executive Chair to which you have been nominated, or permit you to continue the exercise of the duties of your present office as their pleasure may be.

Accept the assurance of our kindest regards.

GENERAL HARRISON, in his last outdoor exercise, was engaged in assisting the gardener in adjusting some grape vines. The gardener remarked that there would be but little use in trailing the vines so far as any fruit was concerned, as the boys would come on Sunday, while the family was at church, and steal all the grapes; and suggested to the General, as a guard against such a loss, that he should purchase an active watch-dog. "Better," said the General, "to employ an active Sabbath school teacher, a dog may take care of the grapes, but a good Sabbath school teacher will take care of the grapes and the boys too."

Harrison's Last Letter.

The following article and letter are from the New York Commercial Advertiser, and afford another proof of the excellence of Harrison's heart, and the republican simplicity of his character:

On Saturday, a hardy, weather-beaten, but very respectable looking seaman presented himself to the Collector at the Custom House, and inquired for Mr. Curtis, said, "Gen. Harrison told me to give this letter into your hand. He told me to give his kind respects to Mr. Curtis and said Mr. Curtis was his friend, and would be my friend." Mr. Curtis opened the letter, and found it to be, from its date, one of the last, if not the very last letter written by Gen. Harrison. It bears the date of the day when his illness commenced. The reader will see, from a perusal of it, that amidst all the cares and troubles of his high position, he was true to the humblest of his old friends. Tucker says the General made him come to the dinner table with the great folks, and when he hesitated and intimated that he had better go below for his dinner, the General said, "Tucker, you and I have been shipmates, and a long time together. You are an honest man, come and eat your dinner with me, and come here again to-morrow morning and get your breakfast with me."

Tucker says the General invited him to stay at Washington, and told him he would take care of him, but his wife and children being in New York, Tucker preferred to return. He says General Harrison followed him into the grounds on the east side of the White House, and then walked with him arm-in-arm—that the General had no hat on, and when Tucker adverted to his liability to take cold, he waved the remark by saying he was already unwell. Having received the letter from the General, Tucker says he followed him to the door and shook him by the hand, saying, "go to my friend Mr. Curtis, and after you have been to him don't forget to write to me that you and your wife and children are happy again."

Tucker says he had no money to come home by land, but he did not let the General know that, for he knew he would give it to him in a minute, and he did not wish to take any money from the good old man who had been so kind to him.—And so Tucker went on board the schooner L. L. Sturgis and Alexandria, and worked his passage home to New York. When he came to the custom house he had not been ashore thirty minutes, and having first heard the sad news of the death of his kind benefactor as he passed up the Old Slip dock, the abundant tears that fell down his hardy cheek testified that his is no ungrateful heart.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Curtis immediately appointed Mr. Tucker an inspector of the customs.

WASHINGTON, 26th March, 1841.

"Dear Sir:—The bearer hereof, Mr. Thomas Tucker, a veteran seaman, came with me from Carthage, as the mate of the brig Montida, in the year 1829. In an association of several weeks I imbibed a high opinion of his character—so much so that (expressing a desire to leave the sea) I invited him to come to North Bend and spend the remainder of his days with me. Subsequent misfortunes prevented his doing so, as he was desirous to bring some money with him to commence farming operations. His bad fortune still continues, having been several times shipwrecked within a few years. He says that himself and family are now in such a situation that the humblest employment would be acceptable to him, and I write this to recommend him to your favorable notice. I am persuaded that no one possesses, in a higher degree, the virtues of fidelity, honesty and indefatigable industry; and, I might add, of indomitable bravery, if that was a quality necessary for the kind of employment he seeks.

"Yours very truly,
W. H. HARRISON.
"EDWARD CURTIS, Esq.
"Collector, &c., New York."

THE FIRE AT NORTH BEND.—The Cincinnati Republican of the 13th inst. confirms the report of the fire at General Harrison's residence, but we are glad to hear that the disaster was not extensive, as at first supposed. The house caught in the western wing, and baffled all exertions to subdue it. It was only by pulling down the conducting hall with the main building that that was saved. The western wing is now a heap of ashes, and the hall entirely demolished.

Col. Taylor writes: "We are indebted to the noble and active exertions of Irishmen for the preservation of the house. They not only gave the alarm, but worked as I never saw men work before. They deserve the highest praise, as they have the warmest gratitude of the family and myself for their generous aid. Only a few articles were lost—a trunk of Mrs. Harrison's clothing, a great coat, two silver urns, &c."

FROM MATANZAS.—The schooner Byron arrived at New Orleans on the 11th inst., with Matanzas dates to the 31st ult.

The Anchor expresses much satisfaction at the improving state of trade and commerce in that port.

The Central government have forbidden the introduction of goods in Mexico through the states of Yucatan and Tabasco.

By a decree of the Mexican government, dated 1st of March, it is made known, for the pacification of public sentiment, that the contract entered into between Gen. Arista and certain commercial houses for the introduction through Matamoras of prohibited merchandise, is unconditionally annulled and forbidden to be carried into effect; and it is further made known that no claim for damages from any quarter on account of this annulment, will be acknowledged or allowed.

POLITICAL HONORS DECLINED.—Mr. Farnsworth was nominated as a candidate for an office by the working men's party at St. Louis. The candidate, in his card to the voters, declines the political honor, and says he only desires to be a candidate for their favors at the old established stand No. 50 Main street, nearly opposite the auction houses, where he continues in the copper, tin and sheet iron line, and the manufacture of "Matchless Paste Blacking."—Ledger.

SINGULAR SUIT.—A suit has been before one of the Boston Courts, brought by a mother to obtain possession of a watch and portrait formerly belonging to her dead son. The defendant was a young lady to whom the son was betrothed, and it was clearly proved that the watch and picture had been given to her by the deceased just before embarking for the voyage on which he was lost. The verdict was in favor of the betrothed.—Ib.

OBITUARY RECORD.

"In the midst of life we are in death."

DIED.—On Sunday, April 18th, ROBERT LOWRY, Sen. aged 45 years.

Seldom are we called upon to chronicle the death of a citizen, whose loss is so deeply felt, so universally regretted, as his who is the subject of this brief notice.

Exemplary in all the relations of life, performing its various duties with fidelity, few men have passed through its chequered scenes, as free from reproach, securing so large a share of the good will, so little of the ill will of their fellow men.

Removed in the prime of life and the vigor of manhood from the scenes of his usefulness, his death has left a void; not alone in the family circle, but in the community in which he so lately moved.

"An honest man, the noblest work of God," which will long remain unfilled.

"Green be the turf above thee,
Friend of our early days;
None knew thee but to love thee,
None named thee but to praise."

His remains were escorted to the tomb by the Washington Grays, of which he was, in the formation of the corps, a useful member, and by a large concourse of relatives and friends.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

At Burlington, Iowa Territory, March 15, 1841, Mr. THOMAS McELROY, formerly of Alexandria, Huntingdon county, Pa., aged 27 years.

A CURE AND PREVENTIVE OF DISEASE.—Brandreth's Universal Vegetable Pills are no less a cure than a preventive of diseases. When we feel dull, pain in the head, back, or side, weary on the least exertion, it is then we ought to take a dose of these Pills. This will always have a good effect because it is impossible for pain to be in the body without the presence of those humors which produce it—it is only by their being forced out by purging that health can be restored.

It is at all times easier to prevent than to cure disease—because by taking a preventative course we do not debilitate the natural faculties of the body, but rather assist and strengthen them. The peculiar action of Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills is to cleanse the blood from all impurities, remove every cause of pain or weakness, and restore the constitution to perfect health and vigor.

Two Story Frame Building

with a convenient kitchen attached to it. Upon the first floor are two rooms, and on the second floor three good sized bed rooms; and over these a large garret room. under cover also lately built. A well has been dug near the back door, but never been used.

The clouds of war are still accumulating in the North and East. British Soldiers are now encamped on American ground. Volunteers are required to have their accoutrements in complete order. No excuse will be taken for rusty arms. Militia Captains will be required to have their roles particularly correct, so that drafts can be made on the shortest notice. The right of every citizen to keep and bear arms is a constitutional privilege we enjoy, and one of the inherent rights of freemen which is generally denied to the subjects of Monarchical governments; it is therefore hoped that no citizen soldier will be permitted to disgrace the ranks of his company by appearing without sufficient fire arms. The penalties of the law must be enforced against all delinquents.
