

LOOK AT THIS.

Communicated.
Mr. Error:—It seems Mr. 'Watchman' is not willing to bring his proof that his story was true about the $1252 13; for he said I owed that much, and now, he fetches, what he says, I swore before the Venango Treasurer, and proves that it was only $1000. So that his own testimony shows that he lied $252 worth; but that does not amount to much, I suppose, he thinks. Now, I want to tell you and the people that this fellow who wants to be so very honest, has not published my testimony true—he did not tell all that I swore. I did say that "I received $1000 of the Canal Commissioners," but I told Espy at the same time, I had paid it nearly all out; but this honest fellow is so willing to make an impression that his neighbors are rascals, he does not tell the whole truth. If he wants to be considered a gentleman he would not pick out a little piece of my oath, and make that tell what it was never intended to mean. I deny now, and always did deny that the oath, published by the defaulting Treasurer of Venango county, was the same as I gave; and every man that heard my oath knew it; and if that is all he has got to prove his story he may at once make up his mind that the people of Huntingdon county are not going to believe any and every thing such a man as Geo. R. Espy may say is sworn before him. In fact, my notion is, that there is not many would believe him if he should swear that his report of the testimony was as given in.
To satisfy the people, I will just publish my statement as certified under the seal of the Auditor General's Office, long after I was superseded by the appointment by Porter.

Washington Correspondence.

Washington, City July 27th 1841.
MR. A. B. BENEDICT, in great haste I seize the last moment before the closing of the mail—for the Senate has but just adjourned—to tell you that the most intense anxiety, was exhibited throughout the city, and in the senate this day which could be imagined. It was an interesting day, and several able and spirited speeches were made on the Bank question. Clay of Ky. his colleague Gov. Moorehead, Mr. Preston of S. C. contended for the Bill—Rives, Calhoun, Benton, Buchanan and Walker against it. It was a day of deep interest; but the long agony is over, the Bill passed a 2d reading—engrossed, and will pass finally in the morning. Henderson of Mi's. and Clayton of Del. not voting—Rives and Archer opposing to the last. Merrick and Freston came up to the work like men good and true. All goes to show that the interest of the people will be guarded—the enterprise of the American people cannot long lie dormant—our course is onward to wealth, to glory and national independence. Respectfully your friend.
CRISIS.

SHINPLASTERS.

The Locofocos have kept up a loud cry against SHINPLASTERS. This has been the burden of their song for two or three years. They were the hard money boys, the whigs were for dirty greasy rags! This was a fine tale to tell the people—they were for gold and the whigs for rags! There is an old adage, however, that "actions speak plainer than words." We all know very well the nature of the professions of the Locofocos; but let us look at their actions.
The locofoco borough of Harrisburg, and the city of Lancaster, the only deocratic city in the Union, have issued upwards of $50,000 in shinplasters, of various denominations, from $3 to twelve and a half cents!

Now these are actions which afford a striking commentary upon locofoco professions. They illustrate the charming consistency which that party so much boasts of! No one can doubt the fact of these issues, nor the 'democracy' of these corporations. We leave it for the high minded, honorable and candid opponents of shinplasters, to say whether the locofoco party have not most contemptuously deluded them. They profess opposition to small notes; and such are the favours.

But it may be said that Governor Porter is not responsible for the conduct of Harrisburg and Lancaster. Is he not the guardian of the people—bound to execute the laws, and to punish them who violate them? The Governor is aware of these violations—he has been warned by the press—why has he not punished? The people, and especially the partisans of the Governor, ought to press this matter: they have a right to know why a beneficial public law is thus infringed, and why he hesitates to perform his sworn duty. There can be no plea of necessity for these illegal issues. The banks have been authorized to issue, and the people have a legal small note issue.

It must now be clear to every candid man that the professions of the locofocos are not agreeable to their conduct. We have proved they are patrons of shinplasters; and we doubt not, they will assert their hostility as roundly as ever! We shall hear them writing and declaiming against shinplasters. Their orators will jingle a few silver dollars, and tell their followers—'See, this is locofoco money—this is the money we go for—this is Porter money!' and those who are wilfully blind, and go only for men or party, will shout 'huzza, huzza—amen!'—but those who go for principle, will hang their heads with shame, or nobly step out of their ranks, and frown upon such hypocrisy.—
