

imagining what it would result in, or the use which would eventually be made of it. And Mr. Isett has thus been made to act, (as many another honest man has been before him) by Gov. Porter, we have no doubt, as his instrument and tool to carry out his wishes and plans, without the least suspicion in his mind that he was acting, but as the instrument and tool of another. Judge Bucher and Mr. Isett called to Huntington during the first part of the first week of our last court, and Judge Bucher is known to have been in communication with Gov. Porter. On the morning after the convention at Huntington nominated our regular ticket, Mr. Isett, one of Gov. Porter's own committee for this county, puts up the notices written by himself, calling a Workingmen meeting at that same evening at the Court House, and at that meeting so called, and the meeting at Alexandria is the principal mover and director of their proceedings. Do not those facts and circumstances, which are all beyond the possibility of contradiction, conclusively show where and by whom the plan of this "Workingmen ticket" was originated? Do they not clearly show that it was not the work of John Banks who were dissatisfied with the nominations made by our delegates at that convention?

It is however said and supposed by some that the formation and advocating the election of the ticket formed at Alexandria, will not have the effect of injuring our candidate for Governor, and lessening his majority in this county; but on the contrary it will increase his majority by getting more votes out to the election. Those who so think we believe are much mistaken; and we believe they view the matter very differently from what Gov. Porter does himself, not understanding the sinuities of political management and the effect of certain causes, from want of equal practice in such matters, as well as he does. He well knows that in this county where the people know him, he has but few warm and active friends, except such as have a private interest in his election. He well knows that the moral sense of the great majority of the people of this county is decidedly against him; that hundreds in the county who voted for him at the last Governor's election, incline and are disposed to vote against him now, and with but little attention from his opponents, would be induced to come to the election and vote against him; but that persons thus feeling and thus situated, being most influenced by the circumstances which more immediately surround them, seeing those who used most actively to oppose him divided and disputing among themselves, will think it is so in other counties, that a house divided against itself must fall, and therefore will, to be in the majority, either vote for him, or not vote at all. He knows that by getting up a county ticket composed of those opposed to him, in opposition to the regular opposition county ticket, attention will be diverted to a very great degree from the question of who shall be Governor, and his opponents thus be engaged in disputing among themselves. He knows that half the time and trouble which will be expended by our friends in disputing among ourselves, would hold two or three meetings in every township in the county, and not only make votes against him, but bring out every vote in them; that this would most probably be done if he had not often us thus to dispute among ourselves, that the zeal and confidence of his opponents will be lessened and their attention otherwise directed, and the hopes and activity of his friends increased by this kind of dispute, and that on the election ground his old active opponents, instead of having their attention directed singly and alone to the votes for Governor, will, fortunately for him, but unfortunately for the cause of John Banks, be engaged in disputing among themselves about the county ticket. All this, and other consequences of a like character, Gov. Porter well knows, and we finally believe such will be the result of division among his opponents in reference to the county ticket. And as we truly and solemnly believe that the only consequence and effect of supporting the ticket nominated at Alexandria and its success, would be the disorganization and breaking up of our party in this county, and the placing the people of this county under the control and direction of Gov. Porter, and his friends, whether he is re-elected or not,—for if not re-elected he will come back to rule and manage us—we do therefore most earnestly and anxiously request and beseech every friend of John Banks to support and vote for the regular, nominated county ticket, the whole ticket, and nothing but the ticket.

The silken tie that binds two willing hearts
MARRIED—On Thursday last, 16th instant, by the Rev. John Peebles, WILLIAM PENN OLBISON, Esq., to Miss LYDIA R. daughter of the late Hon. Robert Allison, dec'd.
Same day, by the same, HUGH NELSON McALLISTER, Esq., of Bellefonte, to Miss HENRIETTA A. daughter of William Orbison, Esq., of Huntingdon.
To our friends who have here embarked upon life's troubled sea—their fortunes "linked together"—we return our heartfelt thanks for their kind recollection of the Printer, and his "toddling wee things." May their new situations in life prove to be all that their fancy painted them.
On Thursday evening, the 9th instant, by the Rev. J. Martin, Mr. JACOB MOLTZ to Miss MARGARET TRAPPEER—both of Hollidaysburg.
OBITUARY RECORD.
"In the midst of life we are in death."
DIED—In this Borough, on the 10th inst., Mrs. SUSAN GORDON, widow of Alexander Gordon, in the 40th year of her age.
At his residence in Hollidaysburg, on Sunday evening, the 12th instant, JACOB TAYLOR, aged about 35 years.
Mr. Taylor was one of the most enterprising and useful citizens of our Borough, and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens to a very great extent. His fellow members of the "Washington Grays" attended his funeral in full uniform, and paid his remains the usual marks of respect.—Register.
All citizens friendly to the formation of a Temperance Society, are requested to meet at the German Reformed Church, on Saturday evening next, at the ringing of the Court-house bell. As it is intended to establish a Society free from all sectarian or party influences, and upon the pure principles of philanthropy alone, it is hoped that every citizen having the good of society in view, will by lending his presence on that evening contribute to the success of the undertaking.
