

In the House numerous petitions from domestic creditors were presented, praying for relief; and also sundry petitions of a private character.

The bill to erect a new county out of parts of Allegheny, Westmoreland, Washington and Fayette, came up on second reading and was negatived by the following vote—yeas 26, nays 53.

Tuesday, June 14.

After passing through the preliminaries, the Senate resumed the consideration of the bill to prevent the further issue of relief notes, and providing for the cancelling of those already issued.

In the House the Chairman of the Joint Committee of Investigation made report that Daniel M. Brodhead had disobeyed the subpoena of the Committee, and offered a resolution to issue an attachment to compel his attendance.

Nearly the whole of the session to-day was taken up by the discussion of the bill providing for the redemption of the relief notes, which has not been finally disposed of yet.

Correspondence of the Huntingdon Journal. Harrisburg, June 16, 1842.

MR. CREMER: In the Senate, yesterday, the bill compelling the Banks to redeem their relief notes, and preventing them from issuing more, and for cancelling those already issued was passed and sent to the House.

Several private and local bills were passed during the afternoon session.

The House was engaged principally on the bill from the Senate, relative to the redemption &c. of the relief notes. It was passed through Committee of the Whole, after the adoption of some amendments, and was still under consideration when the House adjourned.

An effort is being made to abolish the Court of Criminal Sessions of Philadelphia; but as that would throw out of office several good and obedient servants of the Loco Foco party, I think it will not succeed.

In the Senate, to-day, the bill providing for the disposal of the Public Improvements between Philadelphia and Pittsburg, which had been under consideration at the regular session, was passed with several amendments, and sent to the House.

The Senate bill relative to relief notes was again taken up in the House. Various amendments were proposed and discussed, one of which was adopted, requiring the Treasurer to cancel one quarter of the notes in the Treasury thirty days after the passage of the bill, and one fourth thereof as they come into the Treasury afterwards.

Yours, &c. H. H.

Editorial "Clippings."

MR. CREMER: I observe in the "United States Gazette," of June 12th, "A Fragment" FROM the North American, of New York.

It is indeed a beautiful fragment, and I notice it simply because I abominate such thievery of a writer's jewels. It is emphatically a fragment, being a fragment (verbatim) of that thrilling and eloquent description of the "vicissitudes of joys and sorrows" of the drunkard's wife, by Elihu Burnet, the learned Blacksmith.

considered as proverbial,) did not discover the error in crediting it to the "American." I trust that you, Mr. Editor, will insert this notice, in order that so bright a gem in the casket of such a writer shall not be used to grace the brow of any other.

"Will you have me, Sarah?" said a young man to a modest girl. "No John," said she, "but you may have me if you will." Dear innocent creature! This reminds us of a girl whose sweetheart stole a kiss from her. "Now, Henry, do give that back, for mother always told me not to give any one a kiss!" Of course, if Henry was a printer, he give back that buss!

STILL ANOTHER VETO.—The Governor has vetoed a bill providing to prevent the further issue of Relief Notes—thus falsifying all his protestations against flooding the State with an irredeemable shinplaster currency!—Pa. Telegraph.

MORAL OBLIGATION OF BANKRUPTS.—We heard it stated, not long since that a bankrupt went into the shop of a creditor, to whom he ought to have felt under great obligations for assistance rendered, and with a swaggering air said, he had paid all his debts—and did not owe a cent—he had taken the benefit of the bankrupt law.—If this remark was made seriously, it indicates a loose morality, in reference to the obligation to pay debts contracted in good faith, which, it is to be feared, is but too common.

A bankrupt, or insolvent law discharges a man from the payment of his debts legally, but not morally. It relieves him from the vexations of sheriffs and suits in Court, but it does not relieve him of the duty to pay his debts if ever he is able.—The design of a bankrupt law is good, benign. It is designed to relieve those who are irretrievably involved in debt—whose hands are tied so that they cannot help themselves; who, the moment they accumulate a little property to enable them to transact business, are liable to have it snatched from them by their creditors.—To relieve such persons bankrupt laws are intended, but they are not designed to remove, to wipe out the just claim which every creditor has to honest dues. No man can quiet his conscience with the belief that bankrupt laws remove all obligations to pay his debts, if prosperity enables him to do it.—Northern Cour.

TENNESSEE.—Our readers will recollect that the Loco Foco Senators of Tennessee refused at the late session of the legislature of that State to go into an election for United States Senators, and that the State is now unrepresented in the U. S. Senate. The Senate of the State is composed of thirteen locos and twelve whigs, and in the House there is a whig majority. To prevent the election of Whigs to the United States Senate, the Locos refused to go into joint meeting with the House.

The Loco Senators have lately issued an address to the people, in which they profess a desire to do their will and submit to their decision, on which the Whigs promptly gave notice that they were all ready to resign their seats in the Senate, provided the Locos will also resign, and come before the people for re-election.

MONSIEUR VETO COME AGAIN.—On the second day of the session, the Governor sent in a Veto to a very important bill to prevent persons from travelling free on the railroads and canals of the Commonwealth. Several miserable objections are made, but Kickapoo keeps silent on the real one, that the Columbia railroad is wanted next fall to transport voters for the purpose of carrying the Senatorial District, composed of Montgomery, Chester and Delaware!—Pa. Telegraph.

It would be preposterous in a writer for the readers of such a journal as the Courier, to address their prejudices, passions or superstitions. Good common sense should at least be possessed by the readers of this paper, and those possessed of such, and those only, do we care to attract. We will now assert, in the most unqualified terms, that an innocent remedy has been found, that will absolutely cure Rheumatism and stiffness of joints, if of twenty years' standing. The assertion is so broad, that it will hardly obtain credence, we are aware, unless supported by uncommon testimony. Now the testimony given to so many worthless quackeries is so abundant, that to discriminate between such, and real matter of fact testimony, is very difficult.

To come at once at a point that can be at once appreciated, the proprietors have resolved to give this remedy to the poor, and to cure those able to pay for it, before they ask pay, and then leave it to the sufferer to pay what he chooses. We entrust, therefore, sufferers to call at 71 Maiden Lane, for some drops (Indian Elixer) to be taken, and a Nerve and Bone Liniment to use outwardly; and if they will not, by one week's use, become more surprised and delighted than they ever expected, we will never again make such an assertion. Will invalids now suffer for the want of this mild, innocent, and all potent remedy? If they refuse it, we pity them indeed.—N. Y. Cour. & Eng. Feb. 1842.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING.—A positive stay for the hair falling out, or to restore it bald places. A certain cure for all Rheumatism and swelled Limbs; no exceptions. A certain and positive cure for the Piles in all cases. A warranted cure for all Bruises, Scalds and other sores, and sore eyes. A positive cure for the Salt Rheum. A beautiful Dye for the hair; will not color the skin. Warranted. A certain cure for corns. Each of these to be had at 71 Maiden Lane and such proof of these facts as will convince all who will call or send for them, gratis. The public may rest assured there is no fancy in these assertions.

IN ORDER TO RESTORE the sick to health, their blood must be purified—and all medicines which do not possess the power of stimulating the blood to purify itself, by discharging its impurities into the bowels, are, to say the least, useless. Dr. Brandreth's Vegetable Pills possess this power in an eminent degree, and being mild and gentle in their operation, may always be taken with safety. With a certainty of good results. Office No. 8 North 8th st. Philadelphia.

The genuine Pills with no Druggists are found. Though many counterfeits with them abound. Purchase them in Huntingdon of WM. STEWART, and only of Agents published in another part of this paper.
