

Tariff party; and you will see that he is now not only a Bank rag Democrat, out and out; because the time has gone by when their humbug cry of Bank rags will avail anything; but you will find him a pretended advocate of the Tariff—pretended only. But pretending for fear the wants of the people will overturn the cries of party, and they must be in such a position that they can exclaim "I was always for the Tariff!" although if you look back you will find that they never vote for a man to go to Congress who is a supporter of the Tariff.

The truth is that the chameleon character of that party has tended as much as any other thing to prostrate the country. They always change their war cry as soon as they find the people suspect it is not all right. "Down with the monster and give us gold State Banks!" was soon succeeded by "down with all Banks!" and that as soon gave place to "no shimpsters!" and with that cry they are now trying again to gull the people. Do you not remember the fiat sent forth by Porter's Atty. Gen. to prosecute all boroughs and individuals who dared to issue and circulate them; and as lately as this last session another law has been passed against them. Yet under his own nose at Harrisburg they are circulated by every body—and none of the King's Counsellors prosecute the offenders. To sum up all in one fact,—THAT PARTY HAVE NEVER CARRIED OUT THE DOCTRINES THEY ADVOCATE! and their false cries are made the rallying cry for party action! Reader are not these the facts.

Lines addressed to a bereaved Mother.

BY A FRIEND.

Lady, and does the fondest tie,
That bound thy love to earth's drear shore;
That gild the brightest in thine eye,
Thy little Willy! breathe no more?

Pain would I cheer thy drooping heart,
But how forbid that look forlorn?
The opening flower must feel the smart,
When from its stalk the bud is torn.

Nature impell'd, must breathe her sighs,
As memory, faithful to the past,
Enriches his form before thine eyes,
His smiles—his looks, and ah! the last!

But does there not a charm prevail,
That wings and guides thy clust'ring thoughts
To where, "within the Heavenly veil,"
Thy lov'd one rests, and grief's forgot?

The Saviour was his early choice,
And when keen anguish smote his head,
That Shepherd heard his bleating voice,
The lamb was in his bosom laid!

Oh! let this solace be thy shield,
Thy tears may still thy vision blight;
Soon as with life, their way must yield,
And sainted Willy bless thy sight!

Till that bless'd hour be thine the grace,
And wisdom pledg'd in Holy writ,
To run with joy the Christian race,
To oft in Heavenly places sit.

And when all Nature's beauteous dress,
Invites the heart to cheerful strains;
The birds in songs the seasons bless,
And charms untold spread o'er the plains:

And thou unmov'd, with vacant eye
Survey'st the scene, uncheer'd, unblest,
Still let thy spirit soar on high,
And feast it where sweet Willy rests!

A Dreadful Steamboat Disaster.

SIXTY THREE PERSONS WOUNDED.—We are indebted to the St. Louis Republic of the 3rd inst. for an extra, containing the following melancholy particulars:

"The steamboat Edna collapsed both bows of her boiler, at a quarter past 4 o'clock, this evening at the Mouth of the Missouri river.

"The Edna landed at the mouth about 1 o'clock this morning. The Itan was lying there, and the Edna landed on the outside of her, and lay in such a position that it was difficult for the Itan to get away from the shore. However, after a little trouble, the Itan got under way, and had run three or four hundred yards, when the Edna shoved out from the shore. Her bow could not have been more than one hundred feet from the shore when she collapsed her flues. Her engine had been working out of gear full half an hour, and had not been stopped more than ten minutes at the very outside.

"I was looking at the Edna when the casualty happened, and had observed her sometime before the accident, and did not think she had unusually high steam. I am of the opinion that some obstruction existed either in the supply-pipe, or in the force pump, which prevented the usual quantity of water from going into the boilers.

"The number of wounded is sixty-three, mostly Germans. Some two or three were blown into the river and saved, and it is supposed that two or three others were lost. The Edna and Itan are filled with the wounded, and they are receiving every attention from the passengers and others, that can be bestowed upon them.

"As soon as the accident happened, the Itan dropped alongside the Edna, and towed her to the Illinois shore, when the Annawan took her in tow, and the Itan proceeded to St. Louis with the wounded. "N. J. EATON, Master of the S. B. Itan.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

We learn that of the persons killed and wounded on board the Edna, 38 were Germans, 12 Americans, 1 French, 1 Mexican, 1 English, and 2 colored people. Up to Tuesday night 28 had died, and it was reported that several others would die during the night. The dead rooms at the hospital were full, and it was almost impossible for friends and relatives to distinguish some of the corpses. Among the badly wounded was Charles Coaner, of Louisville, second engineer of the boat. The Germans were chiefly from near Dusseldorf, on the Rhine, Prussia. A public meeting was to be held in St. Louis, for the relief of the surviving sufferers.

We learn by the Missouri Reporter of the 5th inst., that on the 4th forty of the unfortunate victims were followed to the grave by a large number of the citizens of St. Louis. There was but one additional death on the 4th, though it is the opinion of the physician in attendance, that eight or ten of those who have thus far survived the effects of this terrible disaster, cannot recover.

THE ONLY WAY to account for the Brandreth Pills being so eminently successful in curing every variety of disease, is, that they assist nature in expelling from the body all those impure humors, which not only cause but produce disease.

To those of a costive habit, this medicine is invaluable, being the mildest and most effectual cathartic that can possibly be administered, and can never injure, though taken for any length of time.

Be careful to get the genuine. No druggist has them for sale.

"When I've money I am merry,
When I've none I'm sad."
"Old song."

The above old song expresses my sentiments to a fraction, and to my old patrons I say "I'm merry sad." money is a cash article. These times, of Porter currency, have a tendency to give any man's Pocket Book the sweetest. Mine is as empty as a beggar's Walle, and I not only must "stop payment," but must stop eating, both me and mine, unless some of you who are in arrears, relieve our necessities by handing over a few relief notes. August Court will be a very convenient time to make us merry.
