On Winter Management of Sheep.

Mr. Edfor: I think so far as I have observed, with regard to the management of sheep during the winter season by many farmers, that there is room for some little improvement as to the manner in which they are protected from storms and also the manner in which they are protected from storms and also the manner in which they are fed. Perhaps I cannot better give my views of the treatment of sheep in winter, than by sending you a short statement of my own practice upon this subject for a number of years past. My custom has been to provide comfortable shelter for them where they can be well protected from storms, separating the lambs and weaker sheep from the older and stronger ones, and putting them finto a yard by themselves provided with feeding troughs, in which they are feed half a gill of corn or peas per sheep daily, and with hay once a day but no more than they will eat clean; and then they are fed on straw during the day. The old sheep are fed one gill of corn or peas for sheep daily, and with hay once a day but no more than they will eat clean; and then they are fed on straw during the day. The old sheep are fed one gill of corn or peas daily without any hay, giving what straw they can eat. I have generally commenced feeding grain by the middle of December and continued to feed until about the first of April. I am satisfied by comparing my sheep with other flocks of about equal number in the spring, that it is not only better for the sheep to winter on hay without grain, but much cheaper. It will be perceived that the amount of grain consumed by each sheep, if fed one hundred and twenty days, would be less than half a bushel; for straw which bro't into the shape of manure by sheep, I consider worth more than in any other state, as there is no other that mix it so fine and evenly with animal manure, to be applied to lend in a long and unfermented state.

Salt should be given regularly once a week, which conduces much to the health of them after

I seldom lose a sheep from my flock during the winter, which I attribute to good sheltering and regular feeding. It some farmers should not like to be to the trouble of feeding threshed gran to their sheep, I would recommend feeding peas in the vine as I have seen it practised with good success.

The merciful man will be merciful to his beasts. Yours, &c. M. N.

Gentle Means the Best.

Gentle Means the Best.

The best tamer of coalts that ever was known in Massachusetts never allowed the whip or spar to be used; and the horses he tamed never needed the whip. Their spirits were unbroken by severity, and they obeyed the slightest impulse of the voice or rein, with the most animated promptitude. He said it was with horses as with children—if accustomed to beating they would not obey without it. But if managed with untiring gentleness, united with constant and very equable firmness, the victory once gained over them was complete.

To Remove Ink Spots.

Wet the place immediately with sorrel or lemmon juice, and rub on it hard white soap. Ink or iron mould may be removed by holding over a vessel of boiling water, and squeezing on the spot juice of sorrel then rubbing with dry salt.

To Bemove Mildew From Linen.

Moisten a piece of soap and rub it thick-ly into the part affected; then scrape fine whitening and rud that in also. Lay the linnen on the grass, and from time to time as it becomes dry, wet it a little. If the spots are not quite removed repeat the

To Preserve Bread and keep it from Moulding.

Bread that is kept in a damp place or not used, soon after a heavy rain, is apt to collect a kind of moss or mould. This can be easily prevented by mixing a small quantity of compti or arrow root with wheaten flour before the dough is ready for the oven. It is also useful in preparing sea biscut for long voyages.

The above is doubtless a very good mode—but most house-keepers, and ourselves among the number, are flurnished with a better, in the shape of several hearty girls and boys, who vie with each other in the very commendable task of preventing bread and other wholesome articles of food, from becoming spoiled by age.—Bost. CURE OF A GANCEROUS SORE.

Benjamin Brandretti:

Honored Sir,—

Owing to you a debt of gratitude that money cannot pay. I am induced to make a public acknowledgment of the benefit my wife has derived from your invaluable Pills. About three years this winter she was taken with a pain in her acle; which soon became very much inflamed, and swollen, so much that we became much alarmed, and sent for the doctor. During his atterfidance the pain and swelling increased to an alarming degree, and in three weeks from its first commencing it became a running sore. She could get no rest at night the pain was so great. Our first doctor attended her for sizmonths, and she received no benefit whatever, the pain growing worse and the sore larger all the time. He said if it was healed up it would be her death, but he appeared to be at a loss how to proceed, and my poor wife still continued to suffer the most terrible tortures. We therefore sought other aid, in a Botannical doctor, who said when he first saw it that he could soon cure the sore and give her ease at once. To our surprise he gave her no relief, and acknowledged that it quite baffled all his skill.

Thus we felt atter having tried during one whole y ear the experience of two celebrated physicions in vain, in absolute despair. My poor wife's constitution rapidly failing in the prime of her years from her continued suffering. Under these circumstances we concluded that we would try your Universal Vegetable Pills, determined to fairly test their curative effects. To my wife's great comfort the first few doses afforded great relief of the pain. Within one week to the astonishment of ourselves and every one who knew the case, the swelling and the inflamation began to cease so that she felt quite easy, and would sleep comfortable, and sir, after six weeks' use she was able to go thro'the house and again attend to the management of her family, which she had not done for nearly fourteen months. In all title over two months from the time she first commenced the use of your i

PS—The Botanical Doctor pronounced the sore cancerous, and finally said no good could be done, unless the whole of the fiesh was cut off and the bone scraped. Thank a kind Providence, this made us resort to your Pills, which saved us from all further misery, and for which we hope to be thankful.
