Whig Principles. The principal objects which, I suppose, engage the common desire and the common exertions of the Whig party, to bring about, in the Government of the United States are:

- 1. A SOUND NATIONAL CURRENCY, regulated by the will and authority of the nation.
2. AN ADEQUATE REVENUE, with fair protection to AMERICAN INDUSTRY.
3. JUST RESTRAINTS OF THE EXECUTIVE POWER, embracing further restrictions on the exercise of the veto.
4. A faithful administration of the PUBLIC DEBT, with an equitable distribution of the proceeds of sales of it among all the States.
5. AN HONEST AND ECONOMICAL ADMINISTRATION OF THE GOVERNMENT, leaving public officers perfect freedom of thought and of the right of suffrage, but with suitable restraints against improper interference in elections.
6. An amendment of the Constitution, limiting the incumbent of the Presidential office to a single term.

Flogging in the Army. Many of the leading English papers continue to take ground against the barbarous system of flogging in the Army and Navy. A shocking case was mentioned in a late number of the London Dispatch. A private named Martin Webster, received 150 lashes in the presence of 3500 men. The prisoner, after being fastened to the triangle, and upon receiving the first lash, implored for mercy, declared that if mercy were shown him he would be a good soldier in future. No regard was paid to his intercessions; and he received twenty-three lashes. It was discovered that he had gone off in a convulsive fit; his pulse ceased to beat, his face turned quite black, and he was totally senseless. He was released, and laid upon the grass; but several minutes elapsed before animation could be restored. He was then removed to the hospital in an almost hopeless condition.

Portrait Painting. Any person desirous of seeing a fine collection of paintings can be gratified by calling at the room of Mr. J. Wilson, on the second floor of the old Court House. Mr. Wilson is a young man, rising rapidly in his profession. Any one wishing a correct likeness taken can be accommodated by calling at his room. He certainly deserves encouragement as an artist. Call and see for yourselves.

One Day for Election. If we do not mistake, there is a bill now before Congress, which proposes to designate one day for the election of President and Vice President of the United States, and to have the day identical in all parts of the Union. That is to say, it proposes to fix one day, in which all the people of the Union shall assemble together in their respective States, and vote for the two highest offices in the gift of the people. Under existing laws, it is well known, that elections with reference to the offices named take place, some on the first Monday of November, some on the second Tuesday, some on the second Monday, some on the first Wednesday, &c. The result, one State as first, another as second, to influence the contest in another, and the people do not, therefore, vote with the same deliberation of judgment. The condition of affairs is especially unfortunate with regard to Pennsylvania. This year, for example, we will have two great and exciting elections—one for Governor and members of Congress, on Tuesday the 8th of October, and another Presidential election, on Friday, the 1st of November. Our election, moreover, is likely to have an important influence upon New York, for while we will vote for President on the first Friday of November, the New Yorkers will not vote for several days after. It would be far better, as it seems to us, for the election of President to take place during the same day in all parts of the Union, in conformity with the bill above referred to. We cannot imagine a solitary objection against the measure, and the wonder is, that Congress with so little to do, should not before this, have acted upon it. Under present circumstances, we not only have the excitement of our own elections, but we participate in those of our neighbors. A disposition to bet or gamble, is also provoked, the contest is kept up longer than is necessary, the public mind is on the stretch for weeks, and scenes of disorder sometimes take place, which under the single-day system, would be avoided. Perhaps we have not paid sufficient attention to the subject, but thus far we have not met with a cogent argument against the proposed reform. We trust, therefore, that the author of the Bill will make a vigorous effort to have it acted upon before the adjournment of Congress, especially as it is probable that the members are determined to leave Washington in the course of a few weeks. Thus far the session has been productive of very few salutary measures for the country, and the adoption of the One Day Election Bill would, we feel satisfied, be regarded by the people at large, with very general favor.—Saturday Inquirer.

A FRACAS AT NAUVOO. The St. Louis Republican of a late date, contains an account of a disturbance which took place at Nauvoo, on the 26th ult.:

"It seems that Joe Smith having ordered his police to arrest a man by the name of Spencer, for an assault on his brother in his own house—the residence of his mother also—the accused refused to become prisoner, alleging it was illegal to arrest without a writ from the Mayor. All the parties, however, collected round the Masonic Hall, or court-house. Joe Smith, being present, ordered the police and the people to take Spencer into custody. The constable having placed hands on him, Spencer put himself into a fighting position, and was assisted by Dr. Foster, and his brother, younger Foster, and also James Higby—who said they would not submit to the authority of the Prophet. Joe Smith put hands, to assist in taking him when the younger Foster took out a pistol, presenting it, and said he would shoot the Prophet. The Prophet held up the pistol, and held firmly round the brith, until, by the assistance of Rockwell, a second, the Prophet succeeded in getting the pistol from Foster. The Dr. and Lasner at this time took up stands, and vociferated they would kill the Prophet—said he was a villain and an impostor, and that he knew it: that they would be doing a meritorious act to rid the world of such a villain, an impostor and tyrant. Higby said he would certainly shoot him—at any rate told him he remembered by-gone times—knew of blood being shed on the island opposite; that he, the Prophet, was the right man. He (Higby) belonged to his band—had sustained him by money and force: he knew the Mormon Prophet, Joe Smith, was the author of murders, and was high time he should die, and he would kill him. The Prophet got his hand cut, and his nervous system shook. Finally, the authorities succeeded in bringing up the three traversers before the court. They were all fined, but took appeals."

Flogging in the Army. Many of the leading English papers continue to take ground against the barbarous system of flogging in the Army and Navy. A shocking case was mentioned in a late number of the London Dispatch. A private named Martin Webster, received 150 lashes in the presence of 3500 men. He was released, and laid upon the grass; but several minutes elapsed before animation could be restored. He was then removed to the hospital in an almost hopeless condition.

The editor, commenting on the above, says:—"This instance affords a grand proof of the appalling effects of corporal punishment upon the mind; because it is impossible that twenty-three strokes could have produced so great an influence upon the body. This man's mind may remain unhinged for life; or he may die speedily from the effects of his punishment. His death then will be in consequence of his turpitude—a penalty not ordained by the tribunal which tried him. Is this justice? However depraved he might be, he had done nothing worthy of death. When the account of this transaction—finds its way into the Continental journals, what opinion will foreigners form of England, Englishmen, and English institutions? Such dreadful scenes make us blush for our country; and we feel ashamed—deeply ashamed—of the men who, under the denomination of our legislators, allow so infamous, so cruel, and inhuman a statute to remain amongst our codes."
