

Whig Principles.

"The principal objects which, I suppose, engage the common desire and the common exertions of the Whig party, to bring about, in the Government of the United States are:

- 1. A SOUND NATIONAL CURRENCY, regulated by the will and authority of the nation.
2. AN ADEQUATE REVENUE, with fair protection to AMERICAN INDUSTRY.
3. JUST RESTRAINTS OF THE EXECUTIVE POWER, embracing further restrictions on the exercise of the veto.
4. A faithful administration of the PUBLIC MONETARY, with AN EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION of the proceeds of sales of it among all the states.
5. AN HONEST AND ECONOMICAL ADMINISTRATION OF THE GOVERNMENT, leaving public officers perfect freedom of thought and of the right of suffrage, but with suitable restraints against improper interference in elections.
6. An amendment of the Constitution, limiting the incumbent of the Presidential office to a SINGLE TERM.

These objects attained. I think that we should cease to be afflicted with bad administration of the Government."—Henry Clay.

WHIG COUNTY MEETING.

The Whig citizens of the county of Huntingdon—the friends of CLAY, FRELINGHUYSEN, and MARKLE—the opponents of all change in the WARE TARIFF of 1842—and the supporters of the PUBLIC FAITH of the Nation and State, are requested to meet at the Old Court House, in the borough of Huntingdon, on Tuesday evening the 18th June next, (next week) for the purpose of responding to the nominations made by the National Convention, assembled at Baltimore on the 1st inst., and to adopt such measures as may be deemed essential to the success of Whig principles.

By order of the County Committee, THEO. H. CREMER, Chairman. May 29, 1844.

We are authorized to state that the name of the Post Office at Mary Ann Furnace, in this county, has been changed to Paradise Furnace.

Also that a new Post Office has been established at the Shaversfork Bridge, in West Barree township, Huntingdon county, called "Cottage."

LOCOFOCO CONSISTENCY!—The locos abhor duellists and a Bank of the United States, yet they nominate POLK and DALLAS, the former a duellist, and the latter the very person who drafted and reported the bill to re-charter the late Bank of the United States!

COL. JOHNSON has accepted an invitation to run as Tyler's vice, so says last evening's Mercury.

The locos evidently are determined to Polk-at at the Coon, if possible this Fall.

BROTHER CHANDLER proposes a meeting of Whigs to ratify Polk's nomination—there will be a Convention on that subject next Fall.

John Jones says "Polk is the third candidate, and the responsibility of division and defeat will be with him!"

Every New England man knows what a joke is. Has not the late Convention trammelled the unruly animal, locofocism, with a Polk to prevent it from leaping fences?

The Hon. George M. Dallas, we learn accepted the nomination as a candidate for the Vice Presidency.

Mr. Tyler has formally accepted the nomination for the Presidency by the Tyler Convention. The Madisonian, of Thursday evening, contains his letter of acceptance.

The Tariff and Mr. Polk.

Mr. Polk nominated at the Baltimore Convention as the loco candidate for the Presidency, run for Governor last year in Tennessee, and canvassed the State with great industry, avowing himself every where as the unflexible opponent of the Tariff, especially of the Tariff of 1842. All of his stump speeches were marked by hostility to the protective system. That gentleman now is presented to the people of Pennsylvania as a man deserving their votes. The people of Pennsylvania, we think, know their own interests and their own principles better than to vote for any man for national office who is not a friend of home industry; and they will show their feelings and wishes in November next, in a way that will astonish those who look to see Pennsylvania again exhibiting her attachment to men rather than to principles.

We shall shortly show up Mr. Polk's anti-tariff feelings and attachments, and then those Pennsylvanians who have forgotten Mr. Polk's sentiments will be able to judge whether he is a man to be at the helm of the national administration.—U. S. Gazette.

THE CAMPAIGN COMMENCED.

Pursuant to public notice, the friends of CLAY, FRELINGHUYSEN and MARKLE, made a grand rally in front of the New Court House, on Saturday evening last, for the purpose of setting in motion that big W big ball.

"Which is destined to roll and roll on, Till Locofocism is banished and gone?"

The meeting was organized by calling Dr. W. M. SWOPE, to the Chair, ALEXANDER CARSON, WILLIAM BENNETT, Col. JOHN STEWART, Vice Presidents, John Smith and William H. Peightal, Secretaries.

After an excellent "Coon Song" had been sung by the "Clay Minstrels," A. W. Benedict, Esq., mounted the stand and addressed the meeting in an instructive, happy and forcible manner. Calling upon the gallant Whigs there present—many of whom had stood shoulder to shoulder with him in the memorable contest of '40—to again gird on their armour, unite heart and hand, and with the ardor which the name of HENRY CLAY inspires, march forth once more to battle and to certain victory. After Mr. Benedict had concluded, A. K. Cornyn, Esq., rose, evidently laboring under indisposition, and delighted the audience with a brilliant, sarcastic and argumentative speech. Both the gentlemen dwelt with eloquent indignation upon the beautiful consistency displayed by the Locofoco leaders, who perceiving that Protection to American Industry—a measure that the Whigs have always advocated—was becoming more and more popular with the people every day, are now endeavoring, with their usual duplicity, to gull the people into the belief, that they, as a party, are favorable to its provisions. Messrs. Benedict and Cornyn, proved conclusively that such was not the case, by referring to the bill introduced into the present Congress by a valid Locofoco, for the repeal of the present Tariff. After that vote, one should think, that not even Locofoco impudence could have the hard hood to proclaim themselves the friends, much less the advocates, of a PROTECTIVE TARIFF. It is their hollow-hearted pretensions, to such a claim, with infamy; and it is evidence amply sufficient to convince even incredulity itself, that if Locofoco policy is permitted to triumph, our country would be plunged into all the horrors incident to "Free Trade." The energies of her enterprising manufacturers would again be paralysed, and the hum of thriving industry, which, under the benign, and fostering influence of the Tariff, has been gradually making the air vocal with its cheering sounds, would be changed once more to the wailing cries of starving operatives,—and for what! that British manufacturers, (who pay their laborers the miserable pittance of twenty cents per day,) may find here—here in America, a ready market for their products. Out! upon such Anti-American feelings—such ruinous policy. Facts are stubborn things. Let any man who is really desirous of ascertaining which party is best entitled to the appellation of "Protection of American Industry," turn his attention to the proceedings of Congress within the last month, and he will there see that the Whigs, to a man nobly voted to sustain that Tariff, which guarantees protection to the American manufacturers against the pauper labor of Europe, whilst, on the other hand, he will discover that 103 members of that party, whose leader James Buchanan, advocated the ten cent a day system, voted against extending any protection to Home Industry. Thus proving irrefragably that the Whigs are all desirous of promoting the best interests of our country, whilst "Democracy," (so called) goeth about the land like an evil genius, and with the club of Locofocism, endeavors to thwart those salutary measures of the Whig party, which, if permitted to go into operation, would inevitably cover the whole Union with permanent benefits and blessings. Elect HENRY CLAY—let the principles he embraces be carried into effect and the results will be eminently auspicious. The gloomy clouds of doubt and despondency, occasioned by the vacillancy of Locofoco legislation, which now hangs like a pall over the energies of our country will vanish, and the bow of promise once more span the horizon of the manufacturers hopes, and cheer him onward to the haven of prosperity and happiness.

Mr. Keen having been called upon, made a few pertinent remarks, and concluded by passing a high eulogium upon the character of Theodore Frelinghuyzen;—a man, he said, whose reputation was so pure that even Locofoco mendacity dare not assail it. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed throughout the evening, and the way in which "them same old coons" gave three times three for Clay, Frelinghuyzen and Markle, would have satisfied the most sceptical that their whole hearts were engaged, once more, in the same good cause which triumphed so gloriously in 1840, and which will, this time, prostrate Locofocism so low, that like Milton's Lucifer, "It ne'er will rise again." VIATOR.

Pennsylvania Whig Members of Congress.

The National Forum gives the following offhanded sketch of the Whig members of Congress from this state:

Well may Pennsylvania be proud of her Whig delegation. The 1st District has in Mr. MORRIS, the best representative she ever elected, always attentive to her local interests and urging her claims with impassioned eloquence. Our City Representative, Joseph R. Ingersoll, needs not our eulogy, when every Philadelphian is so justly proud of him. Judge JENKS of the 6th and Mr. McLEAVINE of the 7th Districts, are among the most active working men of the House, filling situations on important Committees, and models of attention to business. JEREMIAH BROWN, of Lancaster, is worthy of the "Old Guard," and the Old Guard has often shown how she estimates him;—without being a speaker and educated as a hard working man he possesses shrewdness and a practical knowledge of the world, often worth more than the lore of books. Mr. POLLOCK, of the 13th District, though but recently elected, has already distinguished himself by a speech on the Tariff. Mr. Ramsey of the 14th District, is the youngest man in the House, and gives evidence, that indefatigable industry and a determination to succeed are the best heritage to be desired in our land. Dr. Nes, of the 15th District, is a quiet, unostentatious gentleman deeply solicitous to please his constituents, which he has, we believe succeeded in doing, although he was elected as an independent candidate. Gen. JAMES LAVIN, of the 17th District, is a most estimable gentleman, who will, we predict, in 1847, be elected Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. No one is more thoroughly conversant with the interests of our State or more active in advancing them. Mr. SREWART of the 18th District, has proved himself one of the most skillful debaters in the House, and his advocacy of our principles is marked by great research and laborious investigation. JOHN DICKEY, of the 20th District formerly Canal Commissioner under Gov. Ritner, is, we think, equaled only by John Quincy Adams, in the regularity of his attendance in the House; he seldom occupies much time, but is extremely vigilant in watching all the bills which are called up, and submits them to rigid scrutiny; as a debater, he is ready and dexterous. Mr. DARRACH, of the 13th dist., possesses an intimate knowledge of the wants of his Allegheny constituency, is a gentleman of eminent legal attainments, a good speaker and attentive representative. Mr. C. M. READ, of the 23d District, has held an arduous position on the Committee on Commerce, which has succeeded in the difficult task of pleasing all parties. M. R. has never, we believe, addressed the House, except on such bills as came from his Committees, or in which his constituency were directly interested—he is a most valuable member. Mr. BUFFINGTON, of the 24th District, enjoys an enviable reputation for all the amenities of life, is of the legal profession, the most popular man in his district, and as worthy a one as holds a seat in the present Congress.

About the time the frost comes, the Whigs will prepare for a frolic at Polk-burying.

Terrific Conflagration in New Orleans.

NEARLY 300 HOUSES BURNT

Advices received yesterday from New Orleans, State that on the night of the 18th, a fire broke out in a carpenter's shop at the corner of Jackson and Poydras streets, which soon communicated to some adjoining frame buildings, and aided by a brisk wind, the flames progressed and increased with alarming and irresistible fury.—The supply of water and engines was entirely inadequate to check the progress of the destructive element especially as the conflagration occurred in a quarter of the city almost exclusively occupied with frame buildings. At one period, a line of devouring flames of several hundred feet in length, and of considerable height, advanced or rather rushed furiously forward. Terror and consternation prevailed. Families fled from their dwellings by hundreds, leaving all their effects behind them, and many who on the previous day were happily and comfortably circumstanced, were in a moment rendered homeless, homeless and entirely destitute. Indeed, many deemed themselves singularly fortunate in having escaped with their lives. The devouring progress of the conflagration was arrested, rather from the exhaustion of fuel than from any cause.—Several whole squares were reduced to ashes—and nearly three hundred houses were destroyed.—The neighboring streets present a melancholy spectacle of weeping and ruined families.—It is feared that a few lives must have been lost, but the confusion naturally attendant on so extensive a calamity, prevents the knowledge and publication of minor details. This is by far the greatest conflagration that has ever taken place in New Orleans. The loss of property is immense, but at the latest accounts, no accurate estimate had been formed.

"A WHIG HOAX."

The Locofocos in this vicinity were thunderstruck with the nomination of Polk. When the news was first received by the passengers in the morning train of Cars from Philadelphia, on Thursday, they would not believe it, but pronounced it "A WHIG HOAX." When subsequently intelligence confirmed the first news, they were overwhelmed, and appear ever since crushed by the blow.—Cass men, Buchanan men, Van Buren men—all—all were disaffected. Some said it was an insult to the party and the people. Instead of satisfying all, it is a nomination which satisfies none. The friends of the other candidates before the Convention, feel that they have been badly treated. We heard several saying that the Whigs would now walk over the course—that Van Buren would have been a load to carry in Pennsylvania, but a Southern Free-Trade would break the party down completely. We think so too.—Pa. Telegraph.

Who is James K. Polk?

Our Locofoco brethren are making this inquiry at every corner. It is a hard question to answer, but we will endeavor to shed some light upon one so obscure.—He is a poking sort of a chap, living in Tennessee, and was formerly Speaker of the House, or Representatives. He is a slaveholder—a duellist—and the whipped Locofoco Candidate for Governor in that State at the last election. In capacity, he ranks not quite up to John Tyler, and goes dead against the Tariff and Protection, and the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands. Of course, he is bound to be beaten in Pennsylvania, by 10,000 majority, at least!—Telegraph
