Another Earthquake.

We copy from the New Orleans Bee the following account of another earthquake in the city of Mexico, on the 10th ult., three days after the for-

Mexico, on the 10th ult, three days after the former one:

Another Earthquake.—Our readers doubtless remember the details we published a few days since, of a frightful destructive earthquake which was experienced at Mexico on the 7th of April. We have now to add a reputition of this awful disaster in the Capitol on the 10th of April.

An examination of the papers has failed to enable us to discover many details of the amount of ruin and desolation occasioned by this convulsion, but from the fact that the journals unite in describing its effects as terrific, we presume the destruction must have been great. The Diario of the 11th states that the earthquake occurred about 10 o'clock A. M., said lasted forty seconds; that it overthrew many new buildings, and many others that had escaped the former visitation; that most of the inhabitants, stricken with terror, left their houses, and took refuge in the open field and public squares, passing the night without shelter and in the utmost consternation.

The "Veracruzano" of the 14th April, states that they are the state for the 12th states that the earthquake of the 10th completed the destruction of the cupola of Santa Teresa and increased the damage done to the churches of Saita Domingo and San Francisco. But for the shortness of its duration, the entire city would have been laid in ruins. Mexico did not stiffer alone. The shock was felt in a number of tolwns and villages within a radius of several hith dred miles.

At Puebla, the earthquake was experienced on At Puebla, the earthquake was experienced on the 7th, about 4 o'clock, P. M., but its effects were comparatively slight. Several churches were injured, and many private edifices were greatly danaged; though none were absolutely destroyed. At Acuarthio and Toluca the effects of the shock were more considerable. At Gusdalojaro, Morelia and Vera Cruz, the earthquake was experienced both on the 7th and 10th, but on neither occasion was very scrious.

JUVENILE COURAGE .-- We lately met with an account of an incident, which occurred in the town which he could so easily have done. This petition, and the observations with which Mr. Ferrand introduced it, occasioned a misture of merriment and indignation in the House; in the former alone of which the Premier himself seemed to share. Indeed, I think the House would have refused to receive the petition, and thus, a la Graham, have raised it into an importance it did not intrinsically possess, but for the expressed wish of Sir R. Feel that it should be received."

DIED-On the 2nd inst., in Trough Valley, Huntingdon county, the Rev. RICHARD PROUDFOOT, in the 76th year of his age. Communicated.

The subject of the above notice was the senio minister of the Cenire Baptist Association, who for 46 years sustained the character of an "ambassador of Jesus Christ;" the greater part of which time he officiated in the capacity of a pastor. And by his untiring zeal, exemplary practice, and ardent piety, in connexion with other christian virtues, he was endeared by his flock, whom he had the honor to serve in gospel bonds, and a numerous circle of friends who still survive-

"Mourning the loss Of the aged veteran of the cross."

He was perhaps among the early settlers of Cam-bria county, where a son and an aged afflicted companion still live to suffer the bereavement of Providence in the demise of a kind father, and an affectionate husband. As a man he was universally respected, so far as his acquaintance extended. As a preacher he was mild, tender and affectionate in his address. He made no pretensions at oratory by flashes of rhetoric, tories, attitudes and gestures, which (in some respects) are incompatible with the which (in some respects) are companied as a companied of the gospel. But his preaching savored so much of the good things "of the kingdom" that it never could be said of him "the has taken away the said of him the has taken away the said of him to the said of him to the has lain I. Neft's Adm'rs it never could be said of him "he has taken away my Saviour, and I know not where he has lain him." His devotedness of spirit--thorough acquaintance with the depravity of the human mindand the indispensible necessity of Divine sovreignty in conversion, made his appeals irresistible and spirit-stirring. Some in glory, perhaps, and others on their way, are witnesses of this fact. Many a mountain top has resounded with his voice on the Sabbath day, telling the story of the babe of Beth-lehem, and the victim of the cross; while the loud hallelujah has re-echoed from heaven-born spirits, brought into the kingdom through his instrumentality; so that his eloquence must have been the spontaneous effusion of a mind filled with the love of God; breathed out in accents of mercy, consoling the pious, and warning the impious. But he "rests from his labors, and his works do follow him;" and it will doubtless be a gratification to his numerous friends that have access to your valuable "Journal," to learn that his last moments were peaceful, and that he had an easy struggle with the the voice of Providence by saying, peaceful be thy rest, thou sufferer, in the bosom of thy God!
