Important from the Leno Star--Texas Annexed!

The United States Steamship Princeton arrived at Annapolis, Maryland, from Galveston, Texas, on the 5th instant, after a short passage of nine days bringing the important intelligence that the Texas Congress had agreed by an unanimous vote, to the Annexation Resolutions of our Congress, thus extending the "era of slavery," and reannexing to our country, all the rogues, rascals, outlaws, and murderers, who have escaped for many years past, to that hopeful retreat.

This movement on the part of the Texas Congress, seems to have been a great stretch of power, induced by some fears that the Convention which had been called by President Jones, to meet on the 4th of July, to act especially on the Annexation question, would not be as ready to jump into the interests of the speculators, and Texas is now proclaimed by the organ at Washington, as a part of the Union and its satellites through the country are ordered to throw up their caps and shout for Texas, Slavery and War.

The motto operandi on which annexation is proclaimed, was as follows:--On the 16th instant, President Jones submitted a message to Congress, referring to the treaty with Mexico, along with the resolution of annexation, passed by our late Congress. The following joint resolution, incorporating those by our Congress, was immediately introduced and passed by both branches of the Texas Assembly. [Pa. Telegraph.]

JOINT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, the government of the United States hath proposed the following terms, guarantees, and conditions, on which the people and territory of the Republic of Texas may be erected into a new State, to be called the State of Texas, and admitted as one of the States of the American Union, to wit:

(Here follow the resolutions of the United States Congress.) And whereas, by said terms, the consent of the existing government of Texas is required: Therefore,

Sec. 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Republic of Texas, in Congress assembled, That the government of Texas doth consent that the people and territory of the Republic of Texas may be erected into a new State, to be called the State of Texas, with a republican form of government to be adopted by the people of said republic, by deputies in convention assembled, in order that the same may be admitted as one of the States of the American Union; and said consent is given on the terms, guarantees and conditions set forth in the preamble to this joint resolution.

Sec. 2. Be it further resolved, That the proclamation of the President of the Republic of Texas, bearing date May 5th 1845, and the election of deputies to sit in convention at Austin on the 4th of July next, for the adoption of a constitution for the State of Texas, had in accordance therewith, hereby receive the consent of the existing government of Texas.

Sec. 3. Be it further resolved, That the President of Texas is hereby requested immediately to furnish the government of the United States, through their accredited minister near this government, with a copy of this joint resolution; also, to furnish the convention, at Austin on the 4th of July next, with a copy of the same; and the same shall take effect from and after its passage.

The above is a copy of the resolutions as they passed the two houses, and which will we suppose, receive the sanction of the President. They passed unanimously.

On the 18th inst. in the Senate, Mr. Greer, introduced a joint resolution offering "a nation's gratitude to Major General Andrew Jackson," which resolution was unanimously adopted.

On the same day Major Kaufman introduced a bill setting apart a portion of the public land--lying between the Arkansas and Red Rivers--for the payment of the national debt; read the first and second time, and referred to the Committee on the state of the Republic.

Mr. Kaufman's bill, "setting apart land for the payment of the public debt, &c.," was taken up, and read the second and third time, and passed.

The treaty with Mexico contained these conditions: 1. Mexico consents to acknowledge the independence of Texas. 2. Texas engages that she will stipulate in the treaty not to annex herself, or become subject to any country whatever. 3. Limits and other arrangements to be matters of agreement in the final treaty. 4. Texas to be willing to refer the disputed points with regard to territory, and other matters, to the arbitration of umpires.

Pathetic Glorification.

A Locofoco organ, in glorifying at the annexation of Texas, says: "the proud flag of the Union will stream o'er the citadels of Houston and Galveston, and unfold itself o'er the warehouses, factories, light-houses, forts and fortresses, of the States of Texas! Texas a nation no more, but a part or a portion of that Great Republic which is destined to awe the world! We can see o'er the fields, mountains and valleys of Texas, a million of delighted, happy people."

It is an universal weakness amongst Locofoco editors to have their vision entirely blinded or enlarged as by a powerful microscope when investigating any political question, but the writer of the above has exceeded all that have gone before him in this way. He must have been in a state of clairvoyance to see "citadels, forts and fortresses" where there are a few hundred inhabitants sheltered for the most part by the roughest kind of log hovels; "a million of delighted happy people," in a country where blacks, whites and strangers do not exceed 70,000!--where neither the population nor the whole territory is equal to Lancaster county, by thousands in number or millions in wealth.

But there is a strong possibility, may almost certainly be the robbery of Texas as well end in a war, and the organs of the party that concocted and have carried out the iniquity must prepare the people for the expenditure of millions and the sacrifice of the lives of thousands, to "enlarge the area" of slavery and secure a Southern anti-tariff preponderance in the councils of the Union. By this kind of bombast they expect to fasten upon the eyes of the people who bleed and pay for it, scales that will prevent their seeing and revolting from the moral wrong, injustice and crime committed by plunging this country into a war with Mexico, to despoil her of territory while not one fourth of what we have is settled.--Pa. Tel.

From Europe--Arrival of the Acadia--Fifteen Days Later.

The Acadia arrived at her wharf in East Boston, on the 2nd inst.

The Acadia has made her passage in 15 days and a half. She has been detained somewhat by ice and head winds, yet she has made her voyage in grand time.

There has been an extensive demand for Cotton during the last week; the sales having reached the respectable quantity of 45,870 bales.

The Corn Laws have been again discussed. The debate was somewhat soporific, as all debates are which lead to no practical result.

The bill for erecting the Roman Catholic Colleges in Ireland is still before the House of Commons.

The Morning Herald denies the Morning Post's statement that the French steam ship's out numbers that of England and says, that the former contains 113 vessels of 20,000 horse power, that of the latter 140 vessels of 24,500 coast power.

The news from China comes down to the end of March. The Emperor is said to have received some favorable notice of Christianity, and was disposed to tolerate it.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S PALE COSTUME.--This much talked of fete took place at Buckingham Palace on Friday night, the 6th ult. The costume illustrated George the Second's time. The exact period chosen was the ten years from 1740 to 1750. The company numbered about 1200; comprising the Dutchess of Nemours among them; the chief of the British aristocracy; the diplomatic persons, and principal foreigners in town.

IRELAND.

Fresh information has arrived in Dublin of another affray between the military and the Leitrim peasantry, in which the latter have suffered the loss of six killed, and a great many wounded. A reinforcement of military have been sent forward by express, and much apprehension existed that martial law will have to be proclaimed.

RUSSIA.

In letters from St. Petersburg, it is stated that the Emperor intended to advance near to, if not to the actual scene of war in Caucasus. The disasters that have befallen the Russian armies in that country have been so terrible, that even if victory should crown their present efforts, (which is doubtful,) they will not have much to boast of.

The preparations in Russia for the summer campaign in the Caucasus, this year are said to be immense; 150,000 men are to be employed. Two ukases for recruiting the army have been published.

Terrible Atrocities in Assyria.--The following details have come to hand through a private quarter, of the atrocities that have recently taken place in Syria:

"A civil war, and one of extermination reigns at this moment in the mountain between the Druses and the Christians, and during the last fifteen days the horrors we have seen perpetrated around us are dreadful.

"On every side the sounds of battle are heard and nothing is seen but fire and flame! houses, villages and churches, and convents, being reciprocally a prey to the flames: At the moment I write (May 17) we have before us the appalling spectacle of no less than eleven villages and a number of Maronite churches and convents in flames, and what is worse, when the Christians are victorious, they enter the Druse villages, putting to the edge of the sword, men, women, and children; the Druses following the example when they are victorious.

"All the silk worms of both parties, the sole support of the Syrian population have been burned: The convents of the Maronites and Catholics have been burned, and the bodies of their priests, after death, have been burned by the Druses. Every horror is practised on their enemies.

"At this moment, with the help of our glasses, we see unfortunate fugitive Christians--women and children, to the number of 6 or 7000, on the coast."
