HUNTINGDON ACADEMY.

The winter session of this institution, will commence on the 30th inst., and it will be very desirable that all the pupils intended to enter the Academy, be in attendance at the commencement of the session. The pupils must necessarily encounter many disadvantages by entering after the session is once commenced. It is hoped therefore that parents will give attention to this matter, and send their children at the opening of the session.

It may not be out of place here to state, as the Academy has but lately been placed under the superintendence of the present instructor, that the advantages for obtaining a useful and solid education are equal to those of any other institution of the kind. All those branches, that are necessary to prepare persons for practical life, and for entering colleges are taught in the Academy. The teacher also offers himself that general satisfaction will be given, judiciously made during the session that just closed, and from the approbation which the mode of instruction in the Academy has received. References to any extent can be given if required.

Parents who are under the necessity of sending their children from home to have educated, would do well by placing them in this Institution. Every thing will be done to promote the comfort, and improvement of those that are placed under the care of the Superintendent. Particular attention will be given to their habits, whilst a religious influence will be continually exerted upon them. Then the expenses are so small in comparison to those of many other institutions of the kind, that every one must see the advantages to be gained, by placing their children in this Institution. The Trustees have divided the year into two sessions, consisting of twenty-two weeks each. Pupils however can be admitted at any time with a proportionate charge.

The terms per session are as follows:—

Tuition, for Latin and Greek languages, including all other branches, $10.00

Tuition, for the higher branches of Mathematics, Algebra, Geometry, Surveying, &c., $8.00

Tuition, for the common branches, English Grammar, &c., $6.00

Boarding and lodging can be had in the Academy for $1.50 per week. The situation of the Academy is an exceedingly eligible and healthy one. Any further particulars can be had by reference to the principal.

EO. W. WILLIARD, Principal.
