LINES.

BY ROBERT M'DIVITT.

Suggested on reading the following:—"I would to God I could shed one tear, said the tender mother, as she bent sorrowfully over the fair face of her once beautiful boy, now cold in death. This heart must break."

There are times when the fountain of grief is spent, When its streams can no longer flow; When the heart for its anguish can find no vent, And hush'd are the strains of woe.

There are times again when we cannot weep; Though the heart may be rent in twain; When the fountains of woe are pent up so deep, That they never can flow again.

It is then, that the crushed and broken heart, Weigh'd down by affliction's chain; Steer'd on through sorrow, by misery's chart, Must feel the error of pain.

Oh! the touching strains of that mother's grief! How replete with the sense of woe; When tears (which once came to her relief) Were no longer allow'd to flow!

When call'd from her last fond tie to part! When the shaft of death had sped, With unseeing aim to her fair child's heart, And number'd it with the dead!

But there is a charm that can yield relief, And dry all the tears of woe; It is there that the heart's recharged with grief, For comfort and solace must go!

There mourner, thy wail is forever hush'd— Thy tears are forever dried; There's a balm for thy woes in the fountain that gush'd From a Saviour's bleeding side!

Through this we may enter those realms of light, Prepared for the faithful on high; And mix with the seraphims cloth'd in white; Where pleasures can never die!

There are joys untold that await us there; When, (our sickness and sorrow o'er,) We have bid farewell to a world of care, For that happy and peaceful shore! Barreé Forge, Nov. 21, 1845.

A DEATH SCENE.—THE MURDERERS OF COL. DAVENPORT.

A late number of the Chicago News contains a detailed account of the execution of John and Aaron Long and Granville Young, convicted of the murder of Col. Davenport. It is stated that notwithstanding the weather was stormy, about 5000 men, women and children, gazed upon the appalling scene. John Long confessed the murder, but said he wished those present to receive, as the declaration of a dying man, his assertion that his brother Aaron and Granville Young were innocent of that crime.

Aaron Long and Granville Young then severally protested that they were innocent. When they had done, John Long again made a speech, detailing some events in his life, and called upon all to take warning by his fate. Up to 1840, he had never wronged a man, but in that year he was persuaded to engage in counterfeiting, and from that he was led to the commission of robbery and murder. A full confession of his acts and associates he said would implicate two hundred men in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and the Territory but he withheld the confession from some regard for their families.

After he had closed he returned to his seat, and after consulting the other prisoners, returned and stated that it was their dying request that their bodies be given to their friends and not to the physicians. Mr. Gatchell now stepped forward and offered up a short and appropriate prayer; after which Mr. Haney read a short psalm. The prisoners now severally shook hands with those on the scaffold, and with each other. Aaron Long, and Young, nearly overcome with emotion—John, quite calm and collected.—The Sheriff bound their arms, put the ropes round their necks, drew the caps over their faces, and led them forward upon the drop. Taking the axe, he severed the rope at one blow, and down went the drop, letting them fall a distance of four feet. But now remained a scene most revolting to behold and most horrible to describe. The middle rope broke, letting Aaron Long fall, striking his back upon the beam below, and lying insensible from the strangling caused by the rope before it broke. For a moment not a human being moved, all were horrified, and seemed riveted to their places. Soon however the officers descended and raised him up when he recovered his senses and was again led upon the gallows, suffering intensely, raising his hands and crying out—"The Lord have mercy on me! You are hanging an innocent man. And (pointing to his brother) there hangs my poor brother."

But, alas, he heeded him not. He was already gone beyond his sympathy—he was left alone to endure the dreadful sight of his brother's last agonies, and once more to pass through the dreadful scene—the rope—the platform—the axe!

I shall never forget the appearance of that man, as he sat upon the bench, a large bloody streak about his neck, his body trembling all over, while preparations were making for his final fall. But there was another act in this drama. As he was ascending the gallows, signs of an outbreak among the crowd, were evident. Some cried, "That's enough—let him go!"

while others gave expression to their horror. Just at this moment some cry was raised in a remote part of the crowd; no one knew what it was; some were frightened—one wing of the guard retreated towards the gallows—the tumult increased—a sudden panic seized the immense crowd, and they all fled precipitately from the place. If the earth under the gallows had opened, and Pluto himself had arisen from the infernal regions with his horses and chariot, it could not have caused greater consternation, or a more hasty flight. The guard were with difficulty kept in their places; the crowd returned, and soon all was quiet, every one ashamed of himself for having been frightened at nothing. One wagon was found upset, but it was supposed to be the effect, and not the cause of the panic. The wretched victim of the law was at length despatched, and the crowd dispersed.—Thus ended the first execution I ever witnessed, and God grant that it may be the last. W.

The Mexican indemnity, of which so much has been said since Mr. Shannon's return, it would appear Mexico has paid. According to the correspondence of our Government with its agents, the payment was made on the 27th August, 1844; whereas a copy of the receipt, certified by the United States Agent, bears date the 20th September, 1844. Mexico seems to have paid the indemnity in good faith, and the amount, though it never found its way to the United States' Treasury, must be paid therefrom to the claimants.—N. O. Tropic.

THE BIBLE.

A Nation must be truly blessed, if it were governed by no other laws than those of this blessed book: it is so complete a system, that nothing can be added to it or taken from it; it contains every thing needful to be known or done; it affords a copy for a king, and a rule for a subject; it gives instruction and counsel to a senate; authority and direction to a magistrate; it cautions a witness, requires an impartial verdict of a jury, and furnishes the judge with his sentence: it sets the husband as lord of the household, and the wife as mistress of the table; tells him how to rule, and her how to manage. It entails honor to parents, and enjoins obedience upon children; it prescribes and limits the sway of the sovereign; the rule of the ruler, and authority of the master; commands the subjects to honor, and the servants to obey; and promises the blessing and protection of its Author to all that walk by its rules. It gives directions for weddings and for burials; it promises food and raiment, and limits the use of both; it points out a faithful and eternal guardian to the departing husband and father; tells him with whom to leave his fatherless children, and in whom his widow is to trust; and promises a father to the former, and a husband to the latter. It teaches a man how he ought to set his house in order, and how to make his will; it appoints a dowry for the wife, and entails the right of the first born; and shows how the younger branches shall be left. It defends the rights of all, and reveals vengeance to the defrauder, over-reacher, and oppressor. It is the first book, the best book, and the oldest book in the world. It contains the choicest matter, gives the best instruction, and affords the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that ever were revealed. It contains the best laws and profoundest mysteries that ever were penned. It brings the best of tidings, and affords the best of comfort to the enquiring and disconsolate. It exhibits life and immortality, and shows the way to everlasting glory. It is a brief recital of all that is past, and a certain prediction of all that is to come. It settles all matters in debate, resolves all doubts, and eases the mind and conscience of all their scruples. It reveals the only living and true God, and shews the way to him; and sets aside all other gods, and describes the vanity of them, and of all that trust in them. In short, it is a book of laws, to show right and wrong; a book of wisdom that condemns all folly, and makes the foolish wise; a book of truth, that detects all lies and confutes all error; and a book of life that shows the way from everlasting death. It is the most compendious book in all the world; the most authentic and entertaining history that ever was published; it contains the most early antiquities, strange events, wonderful occurrences, heroic deeds, unparalleled wars. It describes the celestial, terrestrial and infernal worlds; and the origin of the angelic myriads, human tribes, and infernal legions. It will instruct the most skillful mechanic, and the finest artist; it will teach the best rhetorician, and exercise every power of the most expert arithmetician; it puzzles the wisest anatomist, and exercises the nicest critic. It corrects the vain philosopher, and guides the wise astronomer; it exposes the subtle sophist, and makes diviners mad. It is a complete code of laws, a perfect body of divinity, an unequalled narrative; a book of lives, a book of travels, and a book of voyages. It is the best covenant that ever was agreed on, the best deed that ever was sealed, the best evidence that ever was produced, the best will that ever was made, and the best testament that ever was signed. To understand it, is to be wise indeed; to be ignorant of it, is to be destitute of wisdom. It is the king's best copy, the magistrate's best rule, the housewife's best guide, the servant's best directory, and the young man's best companion. It is the school boy's spelling-book, and the learned man's master-piece; it contains a choice grammar for a novice, and a profound treatise for a sage; it is the ignorant man's dictionary, and the wise man's directory. It affords knowledge of witty inventions for the ingenious, and dark sayings for the grave; and it is its own interpreter. It encourages the wise, the warrior, the racer and the overcomer; and promises an eternal reward to the conqueror. And that which crowns all is, that the Author is "without partiality and without hypocrisy—in whom is no variableness nor shadow of turning."—[Selected.]

WEEKLY NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER.

This paper, being made up of such portion of the contents of the National Intelligencer proper as can be compressed within the compass of a single newspaper, continues to be issued and mailed to subscribers every Saturday at Ten Dollars a year, payable in advance in all cases—no account being opened with subscribers to the weekly paper.

To bring this paper yet more neatly within the reach of such as desire to take by the year a cheap paper from the seat of the General Government, a reduction will be made in the price of it where a number of copies are ordered and paid for by any one person.

For Ten Dollars six copies will be sent. For Twenty Dollars thirteen copies, and for each sum of Ten Dollars, above Twenty, eight copies will be forwarded. So that a remittance of Fifteen Dollars will command thirty-seven copies.

Publishers of papers throughout the several States and Territories who will give a single insertion to this advertisement (with this note annexed) and send one of their papers to this office with the advertisement marked therein, shall receive the Weekly National Intelligencer for one year free of charge.

Buried Alive.

The Apalachicola Advertiser says that a family, with whom the editor is intimate desired his attendance at the removal of the remains of one of its deceased members.—Prompted by curiosity, the lid of the coffin was removed, when, to the utter astonishment of all present, the corpse was found with its face downwards, and in the manner indicating a complete change in the position of the body. Added to this, as far as the hands could have reached, the lining of the coffin was torn, and wound into a knot; and a considerable quantity of hair was strewn at the feet. All these circumstances, together with the sudden and singular manner of his (supposed) demise, left scarcely a shadow of doubt that here was another instance of a too precipitate haste in consigning to the grave the body of those supposed to be dead.

It is said of the eccentric John Randolph that a political opponent who wished to draw him into a quarrel, one day boldly met him on the sidewalk, in the city of Washington, with the remark, "do not turn out for every vile scoundrel I meet."

"But I always do," said Randolph, and acting the action to the word, he turned one side and passed on.

Congressional Intelligencer.

The Proprietors of the National Intelligencer, in order to meet the wishes of those whose circumstances or inclination do not allow them to subscribe even to our weekly paper during the whole year, have determined to issue, during the session of Congress, a weekly sheet styled "The Congressional Intelligencer," to be devoted exclusively to the publication, as far as its limits will permit, of the proceedings of both Houses of Congress, and Official Reports and Documents connected therewith, including a complete official copy of all the Acts passed during the session.

To bring the price within the means of every man who can read, the charge for this paper will be for the FIRST session of each Congress, One Dollar, and the SECOND session of each Congress half a Dollar.

The price of the "Congressional Intelligencer," to be issued on each Wednesday during the approaching Session of Congress, will therefore be One Dollar paid in advance.

To enlarge upon the value, to those who take no newspaper from Washington, of this publication, containing an impartial but necessarily abbreviated account of the Proceedings in Congress; including an authentic official copy of the laws passed during the session, would be needless. The man who takes no such paper ought to take note, if he does not prefer remaining ignorant of that most nearly concerns his own destiny, and of that his posterity forever.

When six copies are ordered and paid for by any one person, a deduction of one-sixth will be made from the price: that is to say, a remittance of Five Dollars will command six copies of the Congressional Intelligencer for the next Session. A remittance of Ten Dollars will secure thirteen copies; and for Fifteen Dollars remitted will be forwarded.

Payment in advance in all cases is indispensable.

Hathaway's Patent Cooking Stove.

RIGHT SIDE UP!!

I WOULD respectfully inform the public, that I shall continue as heretofore, to act as Agent for the sale and delivery of the justly celebrated Hathaway Cooking Stove, manufactured by A. B. Long & Co., who have at a heavy expense secured the exclusive right of Patentee of Huntingdon and other counties.

No bombastic eulogy is deemed essential to add to the already acquired celebrity of this stove. It is necessary, however, to observe that the high reputation this stove has gained by practical use, has induced the manufacturers of other and inferior articles, to borrow (not to use a harsher term) the name of HATHAWAY, and prefix it to an "Improved," in order to make their inferior trash go off as genuine, and thereby impose upon the public. I myself, sell the only REAL HATHAWAY stove that is or can be sold in this county, and would therefore admonish the public against the imposition above alluded to. I am happy in being able to say, confidently, that during the last three or four years, in which I have been constantly dealing in and putting up these stoves, I have found them to give universal and unbounded satisfaction. Any communication in relation to stoves addressed to me at Lewistown, Mifflin county, (my place of residence) will meet with the earliest possible attention.

A few good sound horses will be taken in exchange for stoves.

JAMES A. PEIRCE, Lewistown, Mifflin Co., Nov. 19, 1845.

ISAAC FISHER, ATTORNEY AT LAW.—Has removed to Huntingdon, with the intention of making it the place of his future residence, and will attend to such legal business as may be entrusted to him. Dec. 20, 1845.

Wanted.

D. BUOY, THE SUBST, THE BEST, AND THE ONLY REMEDY.

All the newspapers are full of patent remedies for coughs, colds, consumption and various other diseases which flesh is heir to, proceeding from a sore feet; but all experience teaches that a ounce of preventive is better than a pound of cure, and having the means of furnishing the former article on short notice. Therefore

Charles S. Black respectfully informs the good citizens of the borough of Huntingdon, and the public generally, that he still continues the business, at his old stand in Allegheny st., one door west of William Stewart's Store, in the borough of Huntingdon, where he has lately received a large assortment of new and fashionable coats, on which he guarantees to finish his work not only according to the latest styles, but in a workmanlike manner, and according to order.

He employs none but the best and most experienced workmen, and by strict attention to business and punctuality in promises, he hopes to deserve and receive a liberal share of custom.

WANTED—AN APPRENTICE to the above business—a boy of 16 or 17 years of age will be preferred, and find a good situation if application be made soon.

REWARD.

A pair of kip Boots and a quid of Tobacco

Ran away from the subscriber, some weeks ago, an indentured apprentice to the Shoemaking business, named SAMUEL CANARUM, in the 19th years of his age, 5 feet and some inches high, and stout built. He took with him a dark frock coat with silk collar, half worn; dark gray cassinet pants; double-breasted silk velvet vest; 1 buff summer vest, an old low-crowned black hat, and a pair of Monroe shoes. He is of German descent, stoop shouldered and down-cast look and is a great tobacco chewer. DAVID MILLER, Huntingdon, Oct. 29, 1845.
