

POETRY.

"To charm the languid hours of solitude
Heed invite her to the Muse's lore."

I wish he would decide.

I wish he would decide, mamma,
I wish he would decide;
I've been a bridesmaid twenty times
When shall I be a bride!

Ho takes me to the play, mamma,
He brings me pretty books,
He woos me with his eyes, mamma,
Such speechless things he looks!

I throw out many hints, mamma,
I speak of other beaux,
I talk about domestic life,
And sing, "They don't propose."

Autumn's sighing, Shedding lightness
Meaning, dying, Like the brightness
Clouds are flying, With rare treasures

While their shadows, Now bright pleasure's
Over the meadows, Sparkling measures
Walk the widows, With rare treasures
Deeked in weeds, Overflow!

Red leaves trailing, With this gladness!
Fall unfeeling, Comes what sadness!
Dropping, falling, Oh, what madness!
From the wood, Oh, what wo!

That unpliant, Even merit
Stands defiant, May inherit
Like a giant, Some bare garret,
Dropping blood, Or the ground;

Winds are swelling, Or a worse ill,
Round our dwelling, Beg a morsel,
All day telling, At some door-ail,
Of their wo, Like a hound!

And at vesper, Storms are trailing,
Frosts grow crisper, Winds are wailing,
As they whisper, Howling, ralling
Of the snow, At each door.

From th' unseen land, 'Midst this trailing,
Frozen inland, Howling, ralling,
Down the Greenland, List the wailing,
Winter glides, Of the poor!

A REMARKABLE PSYCHOLOGICAL PHENOMENON.—A correspondent of the New York Observer (a clergyman) gives the following account of an involuntary preacher, a lady of his congregation, as curious a case as any to be found in Denby's "Philosophy of Mystery."

Not very remote from Cadiz, Ohio, lives a Mrs. B., a member of the Presbyterian Church in good standing. This lady for years past has involuntarily and unconsciously delivered a religious discourse from one to three hours duration, regularly on every Sabbath at about the usual hour of the morning service.

She generally appears somewhat unwell and oppressed on the morning preceding these exercises; near the time of commencing her discourse she appears swooning away, from which she appears to recover in some degree, still frothing at the mouth, pale and deeply exercised; she reclines upon her couch, and regularly addresses an audience of from two to five hundred persons.

After she closes she appears to faint away with exhaustion—but is soon restored to her ordinary health and spirits. Then she is totally unconscious of what she has done or said, and can only remember what occurred up to the time when she seemed to pass under the control of this strange affection.

Her discourse is a pious, fervent strain of exhortation, often methodical and varied, and not remarkable for repetition. She is a decided Calvinist, and is some times severe in her animadversions upon the sins of the day.

The correspondent goes on to account for the effort on physiological principles, suggesting that the religious reading of the lady and her devout meditations, to which she inclined in her ordinary health, furnish her with the materials for her Sabbath discourses, and that these things are brought up while laboring under a cataleptic affection. But why these affections should be on the Sabbath and not on any other day—why they should be every other Sabbath, and not every third Sabbath—and why they should be about eleven o'clock in the morning, and not at six or nine or some other hour of the twenty four are difficulties that he leaves others to explain. An analogous case is that of Rachel Baker, who was wont to discourse in like manner, some twenty-five years ago.—Public Ledger.

Detraction. Man is prone to slander as the sparks fly upward. How he feasts upon the faults of others! Be unfortunate, be unable to pay your just debts, and what do your creditors think of you? In their view you are a human monster—a cheat—a villain—a scoundrel, double-doubled. Let your name be mentioned in their presence, and a filigree appears to be let loose. 'Tis not as it should be—but thus is man, untempered by religion.

What are another's faults to me? I've not a venture's bill, To pick at every flaw I see, And make it wider still. It is enough for me to know I've follies of my own; And on my heart the care bestow, And let my friends alone.

TO SENSIBLE CITIZENS.—We know from what we see and feel, that the animal body is, in its organs and functions, subject to derangement, inducing pain, and tending to its destruction. In this disordered state, we observe nature providing for the re-establishment of order, by exciting some salutary evacuation of the morbid matter, or by some other operation, which escapes our imperfect senses and researches. In some cases she brings on a crisis by the bowels, in others by sweating, &c. &c.

No experience has taught us that there are certain substances, by which, applied to the living body, internally or externally, we can sell at will produce the same evacuations, and thus do in a short time, what nature could do but slowly, and do effectually what she might not have strength to accomplish. When then we have seen a disease cured by a certain natural evacuation, should that disease occur again, we may count upon curing it by the use of such substances, as we know bring about the same evacuation, which we had before observed to cure a similar disease.

It is in consequence of the power which the Brandreth Pills exert upon the whole system, that makes them so universally beneficial. It is by their use they impart to the body, the power to expel disease without leaving any evil off effect.

As a general medicine, Brandreth's Pills are, it is believed by the Proprietor, superior to every other offered to the public. Dr. Brandreth's Pills are for sale by the following Agents in his county.

Wm Stewart, Huntingdon. M'Farlane, Garber, & Co., Hallidaysburg. A. & N. Cresswell, Petersburg. Moore & Sworer, Alexandria. Hartman & Smith, Union Hill. Thomas M. Owen, Birmingham. A. Patterson, Williamsburg. Blair and Madden, Madden's Mills.
