BY LAST EVENING'S MAIL. Eight day's Later From THE RIO GRANDE.

From the New Orleans Picavune, May 30.

From the New Orleans Picayune, May 30.

The steamship Galveston arrived last evening from Brasos Santiago, which place she left on the 27th inst. She brings a confirmation of the news brought by the Telegraph. Gen. Taylor has obtained peaceable possession of Matamoras. The Mexican army left a large amount of amunition in the city, which is of course, a valuable acquisition to our army.

The Mexicans destroyed an immense quantity of their amunition by filling up the wells and throwing other portions into the river.

General Taylor gave most positive orders to his men not to take the slightest article without giving a fair equivalent.

The citizens were told by Gen. Taylor to continue their haisness operations, but prohibited them from a fair equivalent.

The citizens were told by Gen. Taylor to continue their business operations, but prohibited them from selling liquor to any of the army.

Commodore Connor, with most of his squadron, had left for Pensacola, to refit and reinforce before making an attack upon Vera Cruz. He intends taking with him three or four line of battle ships.

On her passage to the seat of war, the Galveston was the scene of a terrible murder, a man named Robert Mitchell, of the McKelvy Guards, having stabbed William Malloy. The deceased was buried at see, Capt. Waddell reading the funeral service. The murderer was immediately put in irons, and placed in close custody on their arrival at Point Isabel.

Gen. Taylor very soon after taking possession of Matamoras, despatched two companies of horse to follow the Mexican army. They accordinly followed them about fifty miles, but never approached nearer than six hours travel.

neser than six hours travel.

The Mexican army had retreated to Camargo, about 200 miles from Matamoras, it is supposed for reinforcements.—A party of Col. Twigg's Regiment of Dragoons, under the command of Capts. May, Arnold, and Carr, arrived at Point Isabel on the 25th inst., for the purpose of recruiting their horses.

Horrible Tragedy.

We find, says the U. S. Gazette, in the New Orleans Tropic, the following particulars of a most horrible tragedy, said to have taken place at the Mammoth Cave, (Ky.) We give it as we find it, remarking that notwitostanding the assurance of the authenticity of the deteils, it is most probable that it would have been heard of sooner in this city than by way of New Orleans, The following are particulars Orleans. The following are particulars as stated:

"A Mr. Bell, who was the lessee of the Mammoth Cave Hotel had agreed to sublet it to another person, whose name we have been unable to learn, and received a thousand dollars in advance. At about the time the money was paid, a gentlemen arrived at the Hotel, and wished accommodation for himself and family. Bell persuaded the new lessee, to receive them, & as room was scarce, Bell agreed to share the bed of the stranger—whose daughter with the daughter of the new lessee—occupied the room in which Mr. Bell usually slept. This change was unknown to the new lessee, who had it seems conceived the borrid plan of murdering Bell that night, and recovering the money. At midnight the entered Bell's room with three accomplices, whose faces were disguised by being blackened, and murdered both the young lady and his own daughter! But the tragedy did not end here. The strange gentleman hearing a noise, came to the door of his room with a revolving pistol in his hand, and seeing four men apparently negroes coming from his daughter's room, shot three of them dead! The lounth fell on his knees, crying out that he was a white man, and begging for mercy, which was granted, and he confessed the whole. He was immediately committed to prison. We are assured that these lacts are in the main, correct, and that the greatest excitement prevailed about O wnesburg. whole. He was immediately committed to prison. We are assured that these facts are in the main, correct, and that the greatest excitement prevailed about Ownesburg, where the story received implicit recent from the channel through which it came. We shall probably recive further particulars soon."

OT How puny and contemptible do political tricksters appear, when contrasted with such men as Major Ringgold! how heartless the demagogue who would unnecessarily involve his country in war, in which brave hearts must bleed, and the truly patriotic men become victims. Where are the reckless, politicians of Congress who would war for "the whole of Oregon or none;" and who prate about handling England as a "helpless infant?" Are they now seen, sword in hand, assisting to repel an inferior foe from our soil, and courting honor at the cannon's mouth? No—they brag, but do not perform: they kindle the flame, and thrust others forward to extinguish it, they talk bravely of deeds of arms but are careful to keep out of the 'way of harm to themselves; they raise the whirlwind, but avoid the storm. We would direct such men to the tomb of Major Ringgold, to learn a lesson of particlism and of duty.—Lancaster Examiner.

The Washingtonn correspondent of the Balti-

The Washingtonn correspondent of the Baltimore American says:—Several members of Congress are off or making ready to be off for "the wars" sgainst Mexico. Mr. Baker, the Whig member from Illinois, left some days since, it is said, for the purpose of raising a regiment of men for the service in Mexico. Mr. Simms, of Mo., and Mr. Yell, of Arkansas, it is also said, have left or are about leaving on the same mission.

The Boston Courier stafes that Edward Webster, son of the distinguished Senator, is raising a company of volunteers to march to the Rio Grande

DEATH OF THE SECRETARY OF LEGATION, AT LONDON.—Private letters of the highest authority, state, says the New York True Sun, that Mr. Gansevoort Melville died in London about the last of April. His disease was an affection of the main artery of the throat. His sicknese was protracted and painful. Mr. Melville was a native of Lansinburgh, N. Y., and a descendent of General Gansevoort. He studied and practised law in New York, and was a ready off-handed speaker. During the last Presslential contest, he devoted more time in traviling through the country, and addressing public meetings, than almost any other individual.
