

SCRIBBLINGS AND SCISSORINGS.

LIGHTNING.—During the severe storm with which this vicinity was visited on Saturday evening last, a building at the lower end of town was struck by the lightning, and some of the inmates slightly injured. The fluid passed down the chimney.

PHILADELPHIA.—The Daily Chronicle, in alluding to the revival of business in Philadelphia, says "that it is a prevalent opinion among the merchants, that a tolerable fair business will be done before the close of the season."

The same paper further states that there are at present many heavy stocks of goods in our city, and as great a variety as at any previous season, which the merchants will sell out upon as reasonable and accommodating terms as can be obtained in any city in the Union.

CAUGHT.—Alexander L. Wilson, the young man who made an attempt on the life of his sister, (an account of which appeared in the Journal last week,) has been apprehended. After an investigation of the matter, he was held to bail in the sum of $2,500, to take his trial for an attempt at murder.

At a meeting of the turbulent spirits of Mercer county, Ohio, a few days since, resolutions were passed expelling the blacks from that neighborhood, and from the threats promulgated, fears are entertained of an armed mob.

HOW TO KILL BEDBUGS.—Apply camphine on the place infested with them, as you would varnish. After the second application, you will be troubled only by a few stragglers.—Pittsburg American.

We insert the above with pleasure, for we have an earnest desire to give currency to everything which will tend in the least to ameliorate the condition of poor human nature. We have never tried the remedy ourselves, but have little doubt of its efficacy. Our plan is to catch the vermin between our forefinger and thumb, and thus despatch them by squeezing.

"How will your county go this year?" asked a zealous politician of a citizen of Berks county. "Well, I can't tell much," replied the honest Dutchman; "de man vot tells us how to vote has not been round."

Fashionable female education is said to be teaching a young lady to talk French, walk Spanish, faint gracefully, and dance the Polka.

We are happy to state that that fashion has not yet reached this vicinity.

THE RULING PASSION.—WYATT, the murderer, was executed at Auburn, on the 17th ultimo. On being informed that he must be hung, he acted perfectly frantic, remarking that it was hard to be hung for killing such a poor, miserable creature as Gordon, and was sorry he had not killed two or three of the keepers, then he would have been satisfied.

NOT TRUE.—It has been stated that the citizens of Matamoros would not allow the Catholic Priests sent there by the Government to officiate in their churches. This is disproved by the Revue of that place, and says that service has been performed several times by the army chaplains, Catholic and Protestant.

STEAMER PRINCETON.—An officer of the navy, in writing about the skirmish in which the Princeton was recently engaged, says:—"The Princeton is called by the Mexicans the 'Yankee Devil,' and is considered as being endowed with a sort of ubiquity from her being every where, at least where they don't want her. This watering party of ours will hardly diminish their respect for her—certainly not for her shell and ball practice."

If some men knew with what contempt they are looked upon by the community at large, they would never obtrude themselves in public places, or throw out their opinions with such evident self-approbation.

TO PUT DOWN WINTER APPLES.—Pick them carefully; put them down in barrels or boxes in dried oak saw-dust. When put up in this way, they will keep good for years. Try it.

JOE HAYNES was "wide awake" at the last advice.—Phila. Chronicle. And pray who is "Joe Haynes?" Is he any relation to Joe Bowers?

AN ODD FELLOW.—One who pays the printer regularly.

LOOK OUT.—Counterfeit $50 notes on the Miners' Bank of Pottsville are in circulation.

STILL ANOTHER.—Wise, the Aeronaut, made another successful ascension from West Chester on last Saturday week.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A YOUNG OFFICER.—Drowned in the Gulf of Mexico, July 26th, by the capsizing of one of the boats of the United States steamer Mississippi, Midshipman Wingate Pillsbury, of Maine.

WE NEVER KNEW a man disposed to scorn the humble who was not himself a fair object of scorn for the humble.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.—The official returns of the Indiana election, as stated in the State Sentinel, gives the following result:

[From the North American.]

The Democracy.—Where and what is it? Where shall we search for the indivisible Democracy? Whether we regard the principles, measures or men of that party it is impossible to imagine a test by which we can discover them. Moore described the divided and opposite opinions of Burke at different periods of his life, as the fragments of a dismembered continent—each peopled with its own inhabitants; the party might be better described as the pieces of a wreck—each spar and timber crowded with a hungry and frightened crew. We should be pleased to determine which branch of the party is the legitimate party; but "We do here perceive a divided duty." In 1844 Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Dallas, the Pennsylvanian, in short all the democracy were for the tariff of 1842—clamorously, nay, ferociously—for their banners said: "we defy the Whigs to repeal it!" They spoke in its favor, until oratory was black in the face; praised it, until its duties, as in duty bound, blushed at the flattery; and pledged and swore and promised until the father of that family that are not known as truths, began himself, to believe that they must be in earnest. And the party saw it, that it was good.

In 1846, but two years after—"nay not so much—not two," the same men, the heads and tails of Democracy, coolly cut the throat of the tariff, and sprinkle its blood upon the altar of free-trade.—Now, we are anxious to learn which in the era of Pennsylvania democracy—that of '44 or '46, or both, and what is to come next, for it seems to us wondrously like

"The moon—the inconstant moon—that monthly changes."

But this sort of democracy is not only different from itself at different times; it differs equally at the same time. In '46 the Democracy of the State by their representatives in the State Assembly and by their delegates in Congress with one crazy exception declared that democracy consists in supporting the Tariff of '42.

Yet, at the same time, Messrs. Dallas and Buchanan and the persons, purses and presses under their control, denounce all democrats who support the tariff of '42, as traitors.

Now which side is right, and where and what is Democracy? If Messrs. Dallas and Buchanan be right, then are all the democracy of Congress and the legislature, and some score thousands more, vile traitors, Whigs &c. If the congressional and legislative representatives and the thousands are right, then are those eminent, consistent, and faithful statesmen and their independent and disinterested followers all traitors—a supposition from which every Pennsylvanian will start with horror. Now, Under which King Bozonian? Speak, or die.

HENRY CLAY.

The following correspondence shows how deeply seated in the affections of Americans is Henry Clay—how identified he is with whatever is connected with the good of the nation and the promotion of home industry:

PHILADELPHIA, June 26, 1846.

Dear Sir.—Will you allow us to request your acceptance of the accompanying Hat and Box made by us expressly for you, to guard that head which has so long and so nobly advocated the protection of American manufactures.

We are, sir, with sincere regard, your friends, O. B. & CO.

ASHLAND, August 17, 1846.

Gentlemen.—I have received your kind letter, with the beautiful Hat, and Box which contains it, which you have done me the favor to present to me.—Accept my grateful acknowledgements for them.

The fine Hat fits my head as exactly as if it had been used, instead of the customary block, in making the Hat; and it will ever be my pride to have it covered by hats of American manufacture.

The box cannot be excelled in elegance, and I hope long to retain it.

I sincerely hope that your business may continue to flourish in spite of all unfavorable events, and that you may long live to enjoy, in health and happiness, plentiful fruits of your industry and skill.

I am, with great respect, your friend and obdt servt, H. CLAY.

OLIVER BROOKS & Co., S. W. cor. Third and Walnut streets Philadelphia.

A VERY LONG NOSE.—A gentleman having put out a candle by accident one night, ordered his waiting man (who was a simple being) to light it again in the kitchen, adding—"But take care, Ja,es, that you do not hit yourself against anything in the dark."

Mindful of the caution, James stretched out both arms at full length before him, but unluckily, a door stood half open, passed between his hands and struck him a woeful blow upon the nose. "Golly gracious!" muttered he, when he recovered his senses a little. "I always heard that I had a very long nose, but I vow I never have thought that it was longer than my arm, by thunder!"

AN UNGALLANT EDITOR.—An editor of some paper in New York very ungallantly says that he knows a lady who was twenty years of age ten years ago, and at the present time she is only twenty three!

Among the graduates of Dartmouth College this year, is a blind young man from the South Boston Institution.

FROM MEXICO.

LATEST FROM MEXICO.

The New Orleans Commercial Times furnishes some additional news received by the brig P. Soull. Papers from Havana up to the 8th, and Vera Cruz up to the 1st ult., were received:

The most important information by this arrival is the pronouncement of the city and Garrison of Vera Cruz, on the 31st ult., in favor of Santa Anna, who, as soon as the news reached him at Havana, embarked on board the steamer Montezuma, (now under British colors,) and sailed on the night of the 8th ult. for Vera Cruz.

Gen. Arevalo, who commanded one of the brigades, ordered to put down the insurrection at Guadaluajara, has been wounded, and is since dead.

A resolution of Congress, conferring certain powers on the President, ad interim, authorizes him to issue letters of marque, which are to be sent to foreign countries, by the Government and its agents, according to a regulation published by the Chief Magistrate.

By news received from Mexico, dated 29th July, the following is the list of the new administration: Finance, Don Antonio Garaz; War, Don Ignora Villamil; Director of Engineers, Foreign Relations, either Don Luis Gordon, or Don Luis G. Cuevas; and for Justice and Public Instruction, Don F. Ramirez, a lawyer.

Gen. Bravo, it is stated, is in favor of centralization, as most in harmony with the necessities of the country. Gen. Mozo, in the city, or Gen. Rod. de Cela, in the Castle, Gen. Pacheco would put down the affair at Guadaluajara, and if he were found insufficient, Paredes is marching towards that place.

A communication had been made from the city of Washington, by the British Minister, intimating to the Mexican government that it could expect no aid from England.

The Government had forwarded all the disposable troops in and about Chihuahua and Zacatecas to New Mexico, for its defence.

Gen. Mejia has transferred his headquarters to Monterey. The troops under the command of the President, Paredes, are on their march to that town; they will first stifle the insurrection at Guadaluajara, which is on their route.

The last brigade of troops, 2,000 strong, quitted the city of Mexico on the 28th July, with several pieces of artillery. They are represented to be, like those which preceded them, perfectly equipped. This division amounts in all to 7,000 men, which, with 2,000 or 3,000 in Guadaluajara, when united with those with Mejia at Monterey, will represent a disposable force of from 12,000 to 15,000, all under the personal command of Paredes. Col. Don Juan Cano accompanies the President, as Chief of the Corps of Engineers. The departure of Paredes was positively fixed for the 31st ult; his detention was caused solely by his anxiety to see his troops perfectly equipped and supplied.

A militia corps of 1,500 men had been organized in the city of Mexico. Some troops had arrived at Tampico, to reinforce the garrison.

A Row Among the Volunteers.

The following letter, says the U. S. Gazette, from the camp of the Baltimore volunteers, on the Rio Grande, details a state of affairs that we should believe to be unfounded, were it not that several letters of a similar purport have also been received in this city. The parties mentioned are, we believe, nearly all Baltimoreans:

CAMP BELKNAP, Aug. 2, 1846.

Our battalion is joined to one from Ohio, which forms a regiment, and this in connection with two other regiments from Ohio, comprises a brigade. There are also regiments from Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee, quartered at this same camp, which is situated on a high bluff of land, from which we can see thousands of tents, and hear the drums beating the reveille.

Yesterday Lafayette Hands, Andrew Metteer, and some of our boys went over to Barita, and returned in rather high spirits. As we were returning home, some one gave Andrew Metteer a catfish, which Col. Mitchell, of Ohio, who is Colonel of the whole brigade, claimed as his own, and ordered three of his men to take it from him. On the men seizing him, in compliance with the orders of their commander, Metteer drew a dagger and stabbed two of them. Col. Mitchell then rushed on Metteer with drawn sword, and inflicted several severe gashes on his head, from the effects of which he fell as if dead. Lafayette Hands then seized the Colonel, wrested his sword from him, and chased him with it for some distance around the camp, until another sword was handed him, when they had a regular sword fight, lasting some minutes, until the Colonel's sword broke, and he again ran, finally escaping to his own quarters. He then gave immediate orders for his men to turn out, armed with ball cartridge, when our captain gave similar orders, and marched the Chesapeake down to meet them.

When we arrived, Captain Stuart, who, in the absence of Colonel Watson, is commanding officer, ordered out the battalion, and we were all full of fight, and I verily believe that our 600 Baltimoreans could have whipped the whole 2,500 Ohioans. Dan Wells had taken dead aim at the Colonel, and would have blown him sky high, had it not been for Charles Ehrman, who struck his musket. The Colonel then claimed the command of the whole brigade, and ordered us to our camp, which order we were compelled to obey.

Col. Watson was at Barita, where we immediately sent after him, and on his arrival he started for the camp of Colonel Mitchell, to demand an explanation of his conduct. On his arrival there, however, he was told that the Colonel had started for Matamoros to report to Gen. Taylor, but Col. Watson, is now after him, and I do not know how the spree will end.

[From the Baltimore Argus.]

Later from the Army.

A gallant officer of the United States Army has favored us with a letter, from which we make the following extract.

CAMARGO, (Mexico,) July 31, 1846.

"Information that I rely upon is, that General Mejia, with the remnant of Arista's army, 4,000 strong, is at Cadercita, a town 30 miles east of Monterey. This town has a garrison of near 1,000 men, (regulars,) a population of 15,000. Gen. Paredes was at San Louis de Potosi on the 15th instant, on his way to Monterey, with 8,000 regular troops; he has also called on Nuevo Leon for 8,000 active militia; from the department of Tamaulipas he expects 3,000 more; making his entire force, when he reaches Monterey on the 15th or 20th proximo, near 25,000. General Taylor is straining every nerve to get there before him but cannot now possibly do so until the 5th or 10th of September; so Paredes has the advantage of numbers, and of naturally a strong rocky position. Parades will have forty pieces of cannon—we will have about twenty four; and you may expect (as our army will not be over 10,000) to hear of the most obstinate fight and bloodiest doings ever done up in America or in the world, about the 15th of September. With us it will be neck or nothing—the former, something to eat and houses to live in, perhaps peace; the latter, death and a continuation of the war—such is our prospect."
