I instituted an action for a large mount in the county of _____. The lit was brought upon a plain promistry note, which I was assured was founsary note, which I was assured was toun-ded upon good consideration, and I was curious to know what defence could be ded upon good consideration, and I was curious to know what defence could be set up. I was aware that I had to deal with a wiley adversary, and when I offered my note in evidence, and closed my case, I was more terrified than surprised when I heard him direct the Sheriff to call Mrs. Jackson. She appeared, and to my surprise I beheld a perfect beauty, possessing a sweet countenance—with exquisite form. I saw that my antagonist had formed the same judgment of human nature that I had, and that he was about to make the experiment of washing away the obligation of a note of hand by the tears of a female witness. I knew that nothing but a desperate effort could save my client, and her testimony must be excluded before she had time to cry.

I rose at once. "I perceive," said I, addressing the court, "that this lady bears the same name with the defendant; I therefore respectfully request that she be placed on the voir dire." This was done. "Will you be kind enough to say, madam, what relation you are to the defendant?"

"Sir," answered the lady, applying a beautiful embroidered handkerchief to done. "Will you be kind enough to say, madam, what relation you are to the defendant?"

"Sir," answered the lady, applying a beautiful embroidered handkerchief to her eyes, "I am his injured wife."

"Then, of course, your honor, the lady's testimony is inadmissable."

"Oh, very well," interrupted my adversary; "you wish to keep the truth from the jury, do you! Gentlemen of the jury, you see that technicalities are resorted to, to procure a verdict against my client. I hope you will appreciate it, gentlemen."

By this time the lady was a beautiful representation of Rachel of old; and one glance at the jury was sufficient to convince me that my case was ruined. I turned to my client—"You are gone, my friend," said I.

"Gone!" said I.

"Gone!" said he, "gone! my dear sir, don't give up my suit so cooly. I shall be made a beggar if I lose this case, and then what will become of my wife and poor daughters?"

"Oh, you have daughters, have you! Run and bring them my dear friend!—If they mine we must countermine.—Bring them, one and all!"

My client rushed out, and as he lived but next door, he almost instantly returned with a half dozen as pretty girls as could be found anywhere. My antagonist's face fell to zero.

"May it please your honor," I began, "I desire to offer some rebutting testimony."

"Rebutting testimony, C——? why your adversary has not heen remained.

"Rebutting testimony, C——? why your adversary has not been permitted to examine his witness. What have you to rebut?"

"A great deal, your honor. The witness has given some testimony. She

"A great deal, your honor. The witness has given some testimony. She called herself the "injured" wife of the defendant. Injured by whom? By my client? Injured how? By procuring this, the subject matter of the suit, from him. Now, sir, I wish to swear the afflicted daughters of the plaintiff, against the injured wife of the defendant."

ant."

Here my fair witnesses commenced weeping bitterly, while several of the jury looked on with evident commiseration. My triumph was complete; but I determined to pay off my legal friend is his own cain.

Idetermined to pay off my legal friend in his own coin.

"I do not seek, sir," continued I, "to take up the time of this court and jury, by administering the oath to all these witnesses. I am afraid their heart-rending description of this netarious transaction (of which be it remembered, they did not know a syllable) would unman us all; your honor and this intelligent jury would be tempted to inflict summary justice on the base wretch, who, with a heart like Caligula, and a spirit like Nero, could attempt to doom to a life of beggary, or shame, and perhaps of infamy, the offspring of my unhappy—nay, too credulous, too confiding cheat."

"Sir, in the spirit of liberal compro-chent."

"Sir, in the spirit of liberal compromise, I will swear but three of them."

This caused a burst of anguish from the daughters, and a corresponding and prolonged excitement of the jury. My legal friend soon saw that I had out generaled him, and so he said, "C——, stop your nonsense, and take your verdict!"

diet!"

Of course I did so; but to show my knowledge of jury nature, I will add that as the foreman passed me, he said, "I rejoice that you have gained your suit, but before you offered to swear those witnesses, your case was a very dark one!"

those Witnesses, your case was a very dark one!?"

[The A friend relates an occurrance, which fell under his own observation a few days ago, in Andover. A recent immigrant had applied for employment to a farmer, and being asked if he was acquainted with all sorts of farm labor, replied without hesitation in the affirmative. He was accordingly engaged, and the next morning sent to 'hold the plough,' with the son of his employer to drive. After the horse was tackled in the boy gave him a start; but hearing an exclamation behind, turned and beheld the son of the green isle, ploughing up the ground with his heels, which were firmly set, while he was straining every muscle to maintain his position, and crying out; 'stop! stop! how can I hould the plough, if you make the horse drag it away from me! —Salem Gazette.

ETIQUETTE.—Western people go to the death on etiquette. You can't tell a man here that he lies, as you can down East, without fighting. A few days ago, a man was telling two of his neighbors, in my hearing, a pretty large story.

Says I, "Stranger, that's a whapper."—I Says he, "lay there, stranger!" and in a twinkling of an eye, I found myself in the ditch, a quadruped, the worse of tear and wear. Upon another occasion, as a says I to a man I never saw before, as a woman passed him, "That isn't a specimen of your Western women, is it?"—I says he, "you are afraid of the fever and ague; stranger, arn't you?" "Very much," says I. "Well," replied he, that lady is my wife, and if you don't apologize in two minutes, by the honor of a gentleman, I swear that these two pistols, (which he held cocked in his hand,) shall cure you of the disorder entirely—so don't fear, stranger!" So I knelt down and apologised. I admire the Western country much; but curse me if I can stand so much etiquette, it atways takes me so unawares." ETIQUETTE .- Western people go to the eath on etiquette. You can't tell a

CHINA & QUEENSWARE HOUSE,

THE subscribers, successors to S. Tyn-DALE, would call the attention of the Merchants and Residents of Huntingdon and viciintry, to their stock of CHINA AND QUEENSWARE, Which we have no hesitation in saying is the largest in the United States, and which, in the greater part, is made for, and imported by ourselves. Any person having used Queensware or China for a number of years, will notice the general deterioration in the quality—this is owing to the greatry reduced prices. In some of the manufactories, where a good name has been established, and pride taken in their character, no such inferiority is observed—from such houses have we constantly endeavored to make our stock, and we are determined to sell our wares as low as any quality, whether equal or inferior, can be sold in the U.S.

There is a prejudice against Cheanut Street, raised from a false notion of higher prices. Our rents on this street are lower than on any other business street, and nothing else could possibly make a difference. But no house can succeed here that does not keep the best qualities of goods, and this does not keep the best qualities of goods, and this does not suit all—hence the prejudice. We have every kind of Ware, from common Painted Teas, Edged Plates, Mocha, Granite, Printed, Flowing Blue, &c. &c. to the finest China and Glass.

We are anxious to extend our business, and take every proper weans of doing so—but not making personal application to strangers here, we have no other means of doing it, than by the aid of our old friends, by advertising, and by the quality and prices of our goods.

M'ALLISTER'S ALL HEALING OINTMENT.

M'ALLISTER'S

ALL-HEALING OINTMENT.

Insensible Perspiration

Is the great Evacuation for the impurities of the body. Life cannot be sustained without it. It is thrown off from the blood and other juices of the body, and disposes by this means of nearly all the impurities within us. The language of scripture, "in the blood is the life."—

If it ever becomes impure it may be traced directly to the stoppage of the "insensible perspiration." Thus we see all that is necessary when the blood is stagnant or infected, is to open the pores and it relieves itself from all impurity instantly. Its own heat and vitality are sufficient, without one particle of medicine, except to open the pores upon the surface. Thus we see the folly of taking so much internal remedies.—
All practitioners, however, direct their efforts to restore the insensible perspiration. The Thompsonian, for instance, steams; the Hydropathist shrouds in wet blankets; the Homocopathist dealsy out infinitissimals; the Ailopathist bleeds and doses us with mercury, and the blustering Quack gorges us with pills.

I have had physicians, learned in the profession, I have had ministers of the Gospel, Judges of the Bench, Aldermen and Lawyers, gentlemen of the highest erudition, and multitudes of the poor, use it in every variety of way, and there has been but one voice—one united, universal voice—saying, "M'Allister your Ointment is good."

Consenption.—It can hardly be credited that a salve can have any effect upon the lungs, seated as they are within the system. But if placed upon the chest, it penetrates directly to the lungs, separates the poisonous particles that are consuming them, and expels them from the system. I need not say that it is curing persons of Consumption continually, although we are told that it is foolishness. I care not what is said, so long as I can cure several thousand persons of the Headache of 12 year's standing, and who had it regularly every week, as that vomiting often took place.

RHEUMATISM.—Almost every case cured with this ointment.

FEVERS.—In all cases of fever, the difficulty lies in the pores being locked up so that the heat and perspiration cannot pass off. If the least moisture could be started, the crisis has passed and the danger is over. The all-healing ointment will in all cases of fevers almost instantly unlock the skin and brings forth the perspiration.

We have cured cases of Scald Head that defied every thing known, as well as the ability of fifteen or twenty doctors.—

One man told us he had spent $500 on his children without any benefit, when a few boxes of the ointment cured them.

CORNS.—Occasional use of the ointment will always keep corns from growing. People need never be troubled with them if they will use it.

As a family medicine, no man can measure its value.
