THE TURNPIKE ROAD TO DUTY.

A father once set out with his son on a visit to a neighboring village, that lay at a little distance from the place where they were, but instead of keeping the turnpike road, the father purposely entered on a common, here and there spread over with brambles and thorn-bushes, where he wandered backwards and forwards for some time. The son was very patient, but at last cried out, "Father, it is not at all likely that we shall get to the village so long as we wander among the thorn and bramble bushes." "If you think so," said the father, "we will leave the common directly," so once more he got into the turnpike road.

Not leave after he took his son into.

Not long after, he took his son into a large garden, where abundance of fruit and flowers grew. This pleased the boy very much, but, after a time, he once more cried out to his father, "I do not see that we are much nearer the village than we were before, and we shall never get there while we stop in this garden, that is certain."

"That being the case," said the father, "I twill be very foolish for us to idle away our time here any longer;" so getting again into the turnpike road, he went straight forward to the village.—On returning home again, the son began to keep straight along the turnpike road?"

"To tell you the truth, my boy," said the father, "I did it to teach you a lesson, and to point out the folly of seeking for a thing in a place whereit is not likely to be found. You have been quick enough to perceive this folly in my conduct; take care that you never let me see it in your conduct. As you proceed on your earthly pilgrimage the roses of pleasure will bloom on the right hand, and on the left will grow the thorns and the briers of discontent; linger not among either of them, but travel straight forward along the turnpike road of duty, and you will find that happiness, which otherwise you would look for in vain."

SMALL PARSONS.

SMALL PARSONS.

Our neighbor of the Journal tells a funny story about little ministers, although he says it does not follow, that because a minister is small in stature he is small in mind: yet, nevertheless, a little minister labors under some disadvantages. One of this small kind lately had a call to settle over a parish not a hundred miles from this city, and would have accepted the call, had it not been for the strenuous opposition of one of the deacons, who could not consent to his settlement, on account of his small stature. An Episcopal clergyman, of this class, was one Sabbath to preach where the pulpit was so high that he had a sort of temporary stool, propped up with bricks, which he mounted and commenced, announcing his text, which was from John 15, 17—and got as far as "A little while and ye shall not see me," when down went his stool, and the minister disappeared!

Now it so happened, that one of these same "little ministers" came to the chapel, once, at Harvard, to discourse on things divine. He was an exceedingly little fellow in stature, and of his mind we cannot dispose, but his voice was certainly small to the taber of a squeaking tin-trumpet. The risibles of the Sophs began to be seriously affected, when the gentleman made his appearance along with Ex-President Quincy, whom all knew to be a large man all round. A professor conducted the opening services, and as the "little man" moved about in the desk, many a jest and titter was uttered, under cover, at the expense of the reverend boy. When, therefore, he mounted the "temporary stool, propped up with brick," and announced his text from Matt. xxv. 27, "It is I, be not afraid!" the ludicrousness of the idea of being afraid of "such a little chap," together with his diminutive voice, was too much for the students and they burst into a roar of laughter, while more than one of the professors furtively united in the chorus.

CHINA AND QUEENSWARE,

iny, to their stock of CHINA AND QUEENSWARE,
Which we have no hesitation in saying is the largest in the United States, and which, in the greater part, is made for, and imported by ourselves.

Any person having used Queensware or China for a number of years, will notice the general deterioration in the quality—this is owing to the great ly reduced prices. In some of the manufactories where a good name has been established, and pride taken in their character, no such inferiority is observed—from such houses have we constantly endeavored to make our stock, and we are determined to sell our wares as low as any quality, whether equal or inferior, can be sold in the U.S.

There is a prejudice against Chesnut Street, raised from a false notion of higher prices. Our rents on this street are lower than on any other business street, and nothing else could possibly make a difference. But no house can succeed here that does not keep the best qualities of goods and this does not suit all—hence the prejudice.

We have every kind of Ware, from common Painted Teas, Edged Plates, Mocha, Granite Printed, Flowing Blue, &c. &c. to the finest China and Glass.

We are anxious to extend our business, and take every proper means of doing so—but not making personal application to strangers here, we have no other means of doing it, than by the aid of our old friends, by advertising, and by the quality and prices of our goods.

Hisensible Perspiration

Is the great Evacuation for the impuristics of the body. Life cannot be sustained without it. It is thrown off from the blood and other juices of the body, and disposes by this means of nearly all the impurities within us. The language of scripture, "in the blood is the life."—

If it ever becomes impure it may be traced directly to the stoppage of the "insensible perspiration." Thus we see all that is necessary when the blood is stagnant or infected, is to open the pores and it relieves itself from all impurity instantly. Its own heat and vitality are sufficient, without one particle of medicine, except to open the pores upon the surface. Thus we see sed to the first the first state of the profession, I have see sed to the profession. The Thompsonian, for instance, steams; the Hydropathist shrouds in wet blankets; the Homoeopathist deals, out infinitissimals; the Ailopathist bleeds and doses us with mercury, and the blustering Quack gorges us with pills.

I have had physicians, learned in the profession, I have had ministers of the Gospel, Judges of the Bench, Aldermen and Lawyers, gentlemen of the highest erudition, and multitudes of the poor, use it in every variety of way, and there has been but one voice—noe united, universal voice—saying, "M'Allister your Ointment is good."

Consumption.—It can hardly be credited that a salve can have any effect upon the lungs, scated as they are within the system. But if placed upon the chest, it penetrates directly to the lungs, separates the poisonous particles that are consuming them, and expels them from the system. I need not say that it is curing persons of Consumption continually, although we are told that it is foolishness. I care not what is said, so long as I can cure several thousand persons annually.

Headache.—The salve has cured persons of the Headache of 12 year's standing, and who had it regularly every week, so that vomiting offen took place.
