

MURDER.

SOUTHBIDGE, MASS. Oct. 24.

A dreadful murder was committed in this town yesterday by Milton W. Streeter, upon the person of his wife, Mrs. Elvira Streeter. He had before threatened her life, and she had just instituted a complaint against him, which had resulted in his being put under bonds. He entered his house and enquired for his shirts. He was told by his wife that they were up stairs on the top of a clothes basket; he said however that he could not find them and ordered her to look for them. She accordingly went to do so, and had no sooner reached the head of the stairs than she was heard to scream, and on the persons who were in the house rushing to the spot she was found with her throat cut from ear to ear. She came down stairs, passed out of doors and died upon the door step. Streeter then attempted to take his own life, with the same razor, but failed, and is now in custody. Both of them were young. Streeter's crime may serve to illustrate the danger of cherishing a revengeful disposition. He was in the common habit of threatening to kill people, and had that very day wished he had a rope around the neck of a neighbor. He had been brought up without religious cultivation.—N. Y. Recorder.

An Infamous Son.

In one of our English papers by the last mail we find a statement to the following effect, which we think only finds its parallel in the unnatural children of King Lear.—In the Taunton county Court, Mr. Comb applied for the discharge of an insolvent, named George Day, an old man upwards of 70 years of age, who had been imprisoned eight years at the suit of his son, Frederick Day. The old man stated that some years ago he had signed off the whole of his property, of the value of about £1000, to his children, and having given a note in hand for £50, to Frederick, which he failed to meet at the proper time, he was proceeded against, notwithstanding that he had lent several sums to the son, amounting in the whole to nearly £50, but of which no account had been kept. The result was that the unfortunate old man was thrown into prison, where he remained eight years. His Honor the Judge, immediately ordered the insolvent discharge, observing that he ought to have had it eight years ago.

Broadfall Railroad accident—Loss of Life.

A collision occurred last night on the Boston and Lynn Railroad, which was attended with a terrible sacrifice of life. An extra train had left Lynn about midnight, bringing your reporter among the passengers. After proceeding some distance on the road, met the Marblehead train coming down. Before the engines could be reversed they came together, and in the next instant a most dreadful scene was presented. The forward cars were literally annihilated and the passengers and baggage strewn all around. Unfortunately, six persons, whose names our reporter could not ascertain at the time, were killed on the spot, many others were badly wounded, some it is feared fatally and others slightly. It is not ascertained where the collision should rest.

Central Railroad.

Many inquiries are being made in relation to the completion of this road. The following extract from the report of Mr. Thompson, the Chief Engineer, gives a succinct statement in relation to its progress and completion:—

"The progress to this time renders it certain that the road from Harrisburg to Lewistown will be in active operation in May next, when you will begin to reap the fruits of your enterprise. In December following, it will be ready to Huntington, at which point it will take a large share of western trade and travel. In May following it will open to Hollidaysburg, and in connection with the Portage, there will be a continuous line of Railway extending from Philadelphia, two hundred and eighty-seven miles, out of three hundred and fifty, carrying, in conjunction with the canal, the whole of your trade in summer, and affording the cheapest winter conveyance between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

PARTY COLLISION.—We had last night a sample—though fortunately not a very serious one—of the bitterness of party spirit which in other places during the campaign, has raged so high as to disturb the public peace and in one instance lead to a brutal murder. There was a collision between Whigs and Democrats during the passage of a Whig procession through State street, in which blows were exchanged and bruises inflicted. One man, a Whig, had his knee pan broken in the disgraceful affray. The Democrats, it is said, aided by a gang of Irish boys, were the aggressors, but it is difficult to get at the truth in the matter.—Bost. Trav.

FAT COW.—A few days since a butcher, at Preston, slaughtered a fat cow and found in her paunch a pair of buckles, a half penny, a clock pinion, two nails, a button, and several other metal articles, which seemed in no wise to have injured the animal's health or digestion.—Cin Times.
