Facts for Mechanics.
St. Paul was a mechanic; a tent-maer. Our Saviour was a mechanic; a arpenter. The great Architect of the niverse, in the mechanism of the heavens and the earth, with its productions, animate and manimate, displays a power and skill which human hands and human wisdom may attempt to imitate but which they can never equal of approach.

Next to farmers, mechanics are the most numerous and the important class of the community. Whatever promotes their interests, of course promotes the interests of the public. They, like farmers, have great facilities and great inducements to become men of science and of sound knowledge. Every mechanic, in every operation, by these into and of sound knowledge. Every mechanic, in every operation, brings into use some principle of science, which principle it is of course, his interest, and his convenience to understand.

Every apprentice boy, no matter how assiduous or how rigorous his employment, if he spends a few minutes daily in useful reading and other modes of improvement, is certain to be a man of inture influence and respectability. That apprentice who seeks most assiduously the interests of his employer, prémotes most effectually his own interest; as character is the best capital a young man can have for the commencement of business.

man can have for the commencement of business.

Mechanics, like farmers, make safe and enlightened statesman. They are well educated for legislators, and for other offices, because they are educated in schools of experience. Who can be better qualified to make laws for aiding the operations of business, than those eagaged in these operations?

In 1923, a few farmers and mechanics in a small village in Massachusetts organized a society entitled the "Mill-bury branch of the American Lyceum," its object the mutual improvement of its members, and the "diffusion of knowledge over the globe." From that humble, but dignified and republican origin, has arisen the general institution of lyceums, now in operation in almost every section of both centinents, and in many of the islands in the Atlantic and Pacific.

It is evident that farmers and mechanics through the country generally should enlist in earnest in the great work of SELF-EDUCATION, they might reform and perpetuate our republican institutions, and hand down pure Chriatian republicanism to posterity. Without that step it is equally evident that though the American republic may retain its name, republicanism, especially in America, will soon be known only among the things that were.

ESCAPE OF JOHN DILLON.—We find in the London Times the following narative the manner in which Mr John Dillon, for whose apprehension £300 was offerd by the government, effected his escape. Previous to his flight to America, he spent several days in the town of Galway, habited as a elergyman of the Church or Rome, awaiting the departure of a vessel bound to New York. One day however, while quietly perambulating the streets, he preceived, by an earnest stare from a passer by, that he was recognized by a party whose nequentanceship he considered would be more dangerous than serviceable at so critical a period. Taking the alarm, he took a boat on the instant and set sail for the adjacent island of Arran, where he met shelter and protection at the house of an old friend. He was not many minutes located here when a war steamer was descried bearing down with all speed towards the island. In this emergency, all now seemed lost, but the ingenuity of his host interposed, and by a clever rusche succeeded in baffling his pursuers. Two boats were got ready, manned by crews of the harby fishermen who dwell in those parts—one a light rowing boat, the other a swift lugger. Into the former Dillon jumped, and was rowed with all speed towards the steamer, while according to directions the lugger, with all her sails set, and with highly favourable gale put out to sea, as if flying before the steamer, which immediately gave chase, never once heeding the boat with its passengers, which passed close to her bows, and which gained the port of Galway whithout causing any observation. In two days afterwards he was on the Atlantic.

Vegetable Universat Pills,
The only known Medicine that at the same time purges, purifies and strengthens the system.

London, July 7, 1846.

DR. LE ROY'S Pills are a new medicine which has just appeared, and is fast toking the places of all others of the same class. These pills are composed of many ingredients, but he two principal ones are Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry, so united that they act together; the one, through it admixture with other substances, purifying and purging, while the other is strengthening the system. Thus those pills are at the same time tonic and opining; a desideratum long and eagerly sought for by medical men, but never before discovered. In other words they do the work of two medicines, and do it much better than any two we know of; for they remove nothing from the system but the impurities; so that while they purge they strengthen; and hence they cause no debilitation, and are followed by no re-action. Dr. Le Roy's pills have a wonderfulindleunce on the blood; they not only purify without weakening it, but they remove all noxious particles from the chyle before it is converted into fluid, and thus make impure blood an autter impossibility. As there is no debilitation, so there is no nausea or sickness attending the operations of this most excellent of medicines which never strains or tortures the digestive functions, but causes them to work in a perfectly natural manner; and hence persons taking them do not become pale and emaciated, but the contrary; for while it is the property of the Sarsaparilla, united as it is with other ingredients, to remove all that is foreign and impure, it is equally the property of the Wild Cherry to retain all that is natural and sound; and hence a robust state of health is the certain result of their united operations.
