The menagerie was in town. A rate occurrence was an exhibition of the wild beasts, lions, tigers, polar bears and icheumons, in Baltimore, at the early days of which we are writing, yet early days of which we are writing, yet they came occasionally, and this time were visited by old Nat Wheatley, a jolly weather-beaten boat-man, well known in Baltimore as an inveterate joker, who never let any one get to the windward of him. He was furthermore a stutterer of the first class.

This, ladies and gentlemen, this, I say is the Afrikin Lion. A noble beast he is, ladies and gentlemen, is called the King of the Forest, I have often heard that he makes nothing of devouring young creatures, of every descrip-tion, when at home in the woods. Certion, when at home in the woods. Certing it is, that no other beast can whip Nat in reply.

At this critical moment, by dint of the critical moment, and the critical moment are critical moment.

"I duz," said the man of lions and tigers.

"What w-will you b-b-bet 1 c-cant fetch a critter what'll whip him?"
"I am't a bettin' man at all. But 1 don't object to taking a small bet to that

"I'll b-het I can fetch something, that will whip him. What s-say you to a h-hundred d-d-dollars?"

Now there were several merchants in the crowd who knew Wheatley well, and were fully convinced that if the bet was made, he was sure of winning. So he had no difficulty in finding "back-ers," one of whom told him he would give him ten gallons of rum if he won. The menagerie man glanced at his lion. There he crouched in his cage, his shaggy mane bristling, and his tail sweeping, the picture of grandeur and majesty.— The bribe was tempting and he felt as-

The money was planked up, and the next night was designated for the terrible conflict. The news was spread over Baltimore, and at an early hour the boxes of the spacious theatre were filled

-the pit being cleared for the affray. Expectation was on tip toe, and it was with great impatience that the crowd awaited the arrival of Wheatley. He at length entered, bearing a large bag or sack on his shoulders, which, as he let it fall on the floor, was observed to contain some remarkably hard and heavy substance. The keeper looked on with indignation.

"Where's your animal?" he enqui-

"Th-th-there," said Nat, pointing "Th-th-there," said Nat, pointing with his finger at the bag.
"Well, what is it!" asked the man with increasing astonishment.
"Th-th-that, I-l-ladies and gentlemen, said Nat, gesticulating like the showman, is a wh-wh-whimbamper!'

"A whimbamper?" echoed the keeper. "That's certainly a new feature in zoology and anatomy. A whimbamper! well let him out, and clear the ring, or Suspense. Lions are beasts, and this suspense. Lions are beasts, and this one was not long in discovering the turtle which lay on the floor, a huge innamate mass. The hon soon brought his nose in close proximity to it, which the his terrific jaws on the lion's nostrils, Nat visited the menagerie. As he corrected, the showman was stirring up the around the circle, growled, roared, and lashed himself, but the snapper hung on, seeming to enjoy the ride vastly.

"G-go it whimbamper!" cried Wheatly from the boxes.

The scene was rich. The showman was no less enraged than the lion.—
Drawing a pistol, he threatened Nat that if he did not take his turtle off he would shoot him.
"Ta-take him off yourself!" shouted loosing a portion of his nose, the lion shook his dangerous foe from him, and clearing the space between himself and the cage with a bound, he slunk quietly in, to chew the cud of his defeat and

It was a fair fight, all declaring that It was a lair light, all declaring that the "whimbamper" was the victor. The next morning he carried his turtle to market and sold him. So this valiant champion, after conquering the king of beasts, served to make a dinner for Baltimore epicures.

Dr. Gro. D. Green: —Dear Sir—I feel it not only a pleacute, but a duty, to make known to you and to the public, (if you desire it; the survising effects of the "Oxygenated Bitters," in relieving me from that most discouraging disorder, Dyspepsia. I have been afflicted by about seventeen years with the usual attender symptoms, viz: constipation of the howels, headache, pain in the chest, flatulence acidity of the stomach, and severe nauses; and for months at a time not the least particle of moisture would appear on the surface of the chest or limbs, and most of the time I was extremely bilious. I have used various remedies, have been strict in my diet, have been dosed with calomet and emetics day after day by physicians, but all to no good purpose. Hearing of the wonderful effects of the "Oxygenated Bitters," in the cure of Dyspepsia, I procured some as a last resort, have used four bottles of the medici e, and find the bad symptoms all removed, and myself once more in the enjoyment of health. None but the Dyspeptic sufferer, who has felt all the horrors of the discesse, can at all appreciate he value of the medicine. I must sincerely hope that all will make trial of the medicine, and with me be able to rejoice in the return of health.

Winnsor, Vi. Aug. 8, 1846.

Dean Sin:—It gives me great pleasure to inform you that the "Oxygenated Bitters," with which you furnished my wife, has wrought a cure in her case. About two years since, my wife was violently attacked with neuralgia in the face, through the chest, in the wrists and ankles. So violent was the disease, added to a general derangement of the female system, that her strength was completely prostrated, her flesh wasted, and she rendered miserable indeed. I feel grateful for the restoration of her health, and in duty bound to give publicity to the above facts, that others similarly afflicted may know where to seek for cure. Truly your friend.

In all my attendance upon our courts I never went to bed in Northampton in twenty years buttwice, and then was compelled to get up. Now I lie in bed without difficulty, and sleep soundly. I took the "Chaygenated Bitters," according to divertions. The violent symptoms immediately aba ed, and perseverance in the nae of the remedy has removed all its troubtesome consequences. The value of such a remedy is incalculable, and I hope its virtues may be widely diffused and its beneficent agency extensively employed." IMPORTANT CHANGE

MRS. SUSAN HAMPSON,
TAKES this method of informing her old customers and the public generally that she has leased the large and commodious house on Allegheny street, Huntingdon, Pa., known as

"MANSION HOUSE,"

occupied for several years by Mrs. E. Clarke, and lately by John Marks, as a public house.—
She will be found there on and after the 1st of April, 1849, prepared to accommodate all who may favor her with a call in a mainer that cannot be surpassed by any other house in the county.

LECTURE SPATESTATES will always be furnished with the very best that the market will afford. In short, nothing will be left undene that will in any way add to the comfort of her customers, as she is determined not to be beat.

The location of the "Mansion House" is decidedly the best in the borough; the rooms are large, will be well furnished, and made comfortable in every particular.

Regular boarders will be accommodated at moderate prices.

lic generally, that they have established at the place above mentioned, a BOARD-ING SCHOOL for the education of young men.

The course of instruction comprises, in addition to the usual branches of a common English education: Philosophy, Mathematics, and the Latin and Greek languages. The location is distinguished for its healthfulness and the moral and religious character of the surrounding community. Every attention will be paid to the health and morals of the pupils as well as to their mental training and advancement in scientific knowledge, and every facility will be afforded for their personal comfort and convenience. The year is divided into two sessions of five months each; the winter session commencing on the 1st of November, and the Summer session commencing on the 23rd of April.

Terms per Session:—For Orthegraphy, Reading and Writing, $5. A. dhmetic, Geography, Grammar, Philosophy, History and composition, $8.—Mathematics, Greek and Latin languages, $1.2. Boarding, exclusive of fuel and light, $1.25 per week. Instruction given in French and German, at an additional charge. The subscribers, encouraged by the liberal patronage which they have already received, would repeat, that they are determined to spare no effort in making the Institution one that will commend itself to all parents who desire to give their sons a thorough preparatory education, without exposing them to the contaminating and immoral influences that exist in more populous communities.
