Austria and Hungary.

It is difficult to decide intelligibly the military operations of the contending armies, as all the accounts from Vienna to the 21st ult. are exceedingly confused and contradictory. It is admitted on all hands, however, that the treacherous Ban of Crotia, Jellachich, has been completely defeated by the Mayars, under Bem. It appears that Bem crossed the France canal at the head of 50,000 men, took the encampment of the croats by storm, and after a series of conflicts, which lasted four days, compelled the Imperialists to raise the seige of Peterwardein and to evacuate the Baiska. The troops of the Ban, dispirited by the defeat, and diminished by sickness, can make no head against those who have marched to the South, and the imperialists fear that he will enter Servia and Vonia. The Ban has been driven over the Danube into Servia, and the Servian chief Knickanim has been forced to leave his position at Litz. Gen, Haynu has gone, with the third division to the support of the Ban. Bem has entered Tyomber, amidst the acclamations of the people at the head of 100,000 men.

CORPLETE POSSESSION OF THE SOUTH OF HUNGARY.—From Bulletin by Prince Paskiewitch, published in the Weiner Zeitung, we have his version of a sharp action which occurred on the 17th, at or near Weitzen, between Gen. Georgey and the Austrian Generals Sass and Ramberg. The bulletin states that on the 15th the Hungarian army marched egainst Waitzen, which was then occupied by the Russian right, which according to former orders, fell back as the enemy advanced. At night Gen. Georgey had occupied a strong position before Waitzen. His army was estimated at 44,000 men, with 120 pieces of artillery. He was at once attacked by the advanced guard of the Russians under Gen. Sass, but his powerful artillery foiled all attempts that were made to disloige him. The canonade on either side was very severe, and the Hungarian cavalry executed several violent charges upon the Russians on the post.

On the 16th the main body of the Russian army was brought up, and on the 17th the Russians attacked Waitzen, and notwithstanding a desperate resistence, the Hungarians were compelled to evacuate the town, with the loss of two standards, two cannon, and 500 prisoners. In the course of the pursuit it was found that only the rear guard of the Hungarians had been engaged, and their main army had marched to the North. Gen. Rudiger, with his cavalry, was despatched in pursuit.

This is the substance of the bulletin, which a correspondent of the London Times qualifies, by stating that it should be read with very great distrust, or be looked upon as the production of very disastrous news.

From private accounts it will appear that Sass had abandoned Waitzen on the 15th, and lisastrous news. m private accounts it will appear that ad abandoned Waitzen on the 15th, and From private accounts it will appear that is had abandoned Waitzon on the 15th, and it General Georgey marched along the left had of the river, and took up a strong position ar Waitzen. At this junction Gen. Dembin-Ze army of 40,000 nean, which had been slow-edging away from the mining district, came wan upon Gen. Sais, who was compelled to treat to the Duna Kelph, midway between alizen and Pesth. The Austrian General Ramberg hearing at sth of the defeat of the Russians, left that y and hastened to their support, and succeeding stopping the progress of Dembinski's arriv, while he eventually fell back upon Waitn. The body of the Russian army meanwhile up from Rambus, and its strength was brought.

zen. The body of the Russian army meanwhile came from Rambus, and its strength was brought to bear upon the Hungarian flank and rear, by which means on the 17th inst, a great battle took place, which ended in the defent of Dembinski's army, while Georgey had taken his troops to the North and not to Comorn, as, was generally believed. It is thought Gen. Georgey will turn off to the east and march to Kay. The Austrian Commander-in-chief had advanced with his main army to Pesth, leaving the main division in the Island of Hulin, and the division of Gen. Grabbe and Schlick, are on either side of the Danübe, to lay siege to the fortress of Comorn.

England.

A very large and most enthusiastic meeting has been holden in London tavern, to express public sympathy with the efforts being made by the Hungarians for the achievment of their independence, and to urge upon the English ministry the recognition of the de facto government.

ans for the achievment of their independence, and to urge upon the English ministry the recognition of the de factor government.

It is mentioned as a significant fact, that a Quaker moved the first resolution which would go to prove that the friends of Hungary are appreciated extremely, when they overcome in a member of the Peace Society something like an abhorrence of war. This feeling was strikingly certified by the meeting, when come of the speakers, instead of mining expressions of sympathy, boldly proposed to aid the Hungarians by the taking up of arms against Austria. The whole hassemblage, packed together to suffocation, rose as one man, and never, to use the well remembered expressing of Byron, was the "yell of war" in London tavern shouted more vehemently. The petition agreed to by the meeting has been laid before Parliament, and elicited an interesting debate upon the affairs of Hungary. Lord Palmerston demonstrated the improbability of the Government interfering, except by using the belligerents for their own interests.

Sardinia.

The Sardinians, with, perhaps, a view to favor the Hungarians, have been detaining from day to day the execution of the treaty of peace with Austria, whereby a large body of the Austrian forces have been compelled to remain in Lombardy, whilst they might be advantageously employed in Hungary. Bruce Schwarzenberg has sent into Sardinia a peremptory demand to sign the treaty of peace in four days, or otherwise the war will be renewed.

This sudden step has agitated the French and English cabinets, and complicates the -pending dispute. The King of Sardinia in his difficulty has, it is said appealed to the President of the country state of the people in all Europe, we can expect no foreign assistance, as the people that sympathize with us are kept down by their rulers, and gaze only in damb siling the country of the people in all Europe, we can expect no foreign assistance, as the people that sympathize with us are kept down by their rulers, and gaze only in damb siling the p

Baden.—The French goverment have received a telegraph despatch, dated Baden on the afternoon of the 23d, annoncing the surrender of the fortress of Rastady on that day.

The Prince of Prussia had entered Rastadt at the head of two regiments.

Under the military rule of Gen. Oudinott, order and general tranquility prevails at Rome. All public acts, are rendered in the name of the Pope. His Holiness still continues at Gaeta, but beyond the fact that he will remain there until the accouchment of the Queen of Naples, nothing seems known. It is said he will afterwards proceed to Rome in the full possession of both temporal and spiritual authority, and that the priesthood around him having learned nothing from him regarding their past misfortunes, resolutely refuse all concessions to the popular party.

It is not stated how the French army is to be paid, but it is reported that Russia has agreed to lend his Holiness 10, 000,000, without interest, the principal to be paid at the rate of half a milion annually.

The American Consul at Rome had not resumed his functions since the outrage committed on his place and family by the French soldiers. The Consul after strongly protesting against the indignity withdrew.

Garabaldi was at Owieta on the 17th, and levied a tribute of 2000 pounds on the inhabitants, after which he took up a position in the neighborhood of Ficola.

The people were collecting in different parts of the country and forming bands of armed men, with the design of joining Garibaldi.

Kossuth's Appeal to the Hungarian People.

Kossuth's Appeal to the Hungarian

Kossuth's Appeal to the Hungarian People.

The following is the substance of Kossuth's last appeal to the Hungarian peoble furnished by our Frankfort correspondent. It will give some idea of the character the war is likely to assume:

Our Fatherland is in danger! Citizens! to arms! to arms!

If we thought ourselves able by ordinary means to save the country, we would not cry out it is in danger. If we were at the head of a cowardly, childish nation, ready rather to fall than defend itself, we would not order the alarm bells to ring though the whole land.—But as we know that the people of our country are a manly race, resolved to defend themselves to the last against. Godless oppression, we lay all unworthy concealment of our position aside, and call out openly, that the country is in danger! Because we know that the people are able to defend themselves and the country, we lay oqen the danger in all its magnitude, calling upon every citizen in the name of God's country, too look it in the face, and seize arms too meet it.

We will neither flatter nor discourage, but we declare openly that unless the whole nation rise up to defend itself to the last drop of its blood, all the noble blood already shed is in vair, and our country will fall, the Russian knout then ruling over an enslaved people, on the ground, where the ashes of our ancestors repose.

We therefore, here, in fulfilment of our date control of the property of the purchase to all the male.

France to arrange the existing difficulties with Austria. There is a report from Paris, said to be formed on a telegraph despatch to the French government, that the Sardinians have finals have finals accepted the terms imposed by Austria. The report, however, is hot fully credited.

Venice,—The prolonged resistance of Venice says the Times, whose glorious defence against an overwhelming force has added another page of imperiashable splendor to her history—has shown the world that the ancient city of Italy has not departed forever.

France.

The committee on the question of the prorogation of the Asserbidy, recommended that it should adjourn from the 13th of Aug to the 30th of Sept. and that the meantime a Court of 25 should be constituted to be chosen by ballot.

Scrious divisions exist in the ranks of a majority of the Legislative Asserbly, and the Legitamists have determined to recede from the ranks of the Bonapartists, and form a separate party. The articles which have of late appeared in the Legitamists' organs show, it is said a tendency to separate factions on the part of the Duc d'Bordeaux, and would seem to be a token of the existence of an extensively organized legitimatist conspiracy.

Baden.—The French goverment have received a telegraph despatch, dated Baden on the afternoon of the 23d, annually the state of the continual ringing of bells; every land the declared from the ranks of the anticles which the continual ringing of bells; every land the declared from the ranks of the continual ringing of bells; every land the country, to rise up the continual ringing of bells; every land the country, to rise up the continual ringing of bells; every land the country, and made to receive a telegraph despatch, dated Baden on the afternoon of the 23d, and the preparation be made to receive a telegraph despatch, dated Baden on the afternoon of the 23d, and the repeated by the continual ringing of bells; every land the provided the fact that he will remain the end of two regiments.

One great effort only is necessary, and the country is forever saved.

We have indeed an army, which numbers about 200,000 determined men, but the struggle is no longar one between two hostile camps; it is the struggle of tyranny against freedom, of barbarism against all free nations. Therefore must all the people seize arms and support the army, that thus united the victory of freedom for Europe may be won. Fly then united with the army to arms, every citizen of the land, and the victory is sure!
