CAUSE OF CHOLERA.—The London Morning Chronicle attaches great importance to a microscopical discovery of Dr. Brittan, lecturer on natomy and physiology, in the Bristol Medical School. In a series of investigations, undertaken in conjunction with Mr. J. G. Gwayne, he has observed the constant of the second structure of the constant of the second structure of the

INDIAN CORN IN ENGLAND.—The Lon-don Times gives a very flattering ac-count of air experiment—a successful one, if the Times is to be credited—re-cently made in England, on the practica-binity of advantageously cultivating maize in that land of wet, cold summers. The description of the plant as given in the Times is somewhat nevel. It says :—

The appearance of the plant is pe-"The appearance of the plant is pe-culiarly graceful-far more so, indeed, than that of any ordinary corn field.--The stems which run up perfectly straigth, are generally from four to five icet high, and are much thicker than the larger wheat shaw. They throw out from the root upwards a succession of flagike leaves the stem terminating in a little tuft, from which spring the ears of corn, sqmewhat irregularly clustered ; and, in this instance, apparently not heavy laden."

A HANDSOME INH RITANCE.—Judge JONES, in the Court of Common Pleas of Northhumton county, (Pa.) has set aside the will of Peter Miller, a wealthy old bachelor who died lately at Easton which was affirmed by the Supreme Court.— The entire estate therefore, amonating to nearly $400,000, with the exception of a few trilling legacies, which are valid under the will, goes to P. Miller, of Ohio the nephew and only heir at law of the deceased. The Easton White, says:— "The fortunate individual who comes into possession of so large an estate is about sixty years of age, and resides in Morgan county, Ohio, where he has wor-ked a farm as tegant for a long time.— He has a large family—a full baker's dozen of children, all poor."

But BY A SNARE.—A young man nam-ed George Keller, of Union township, Berks county, was bitten by a rattle-snake, a few days since, under these cir-cumstances: In endenvoring to kill the snake, it had nearly disappeared in the crevise of a rock, when he attempted to cut off its rattles, and, in doing so, was bit on the joint of the finger. With remarkable presence of mind, he imme-diately cut out the bitten part, and wound a string tightly round the finger to pre-vent the circulation of the poison through his system. The bandage was afterwards cut loose, and the hand and atm soon became enormously swollen ; but, by medical aid, he was afterwards cured. OHIO AND PENNSULVANIA RAUROAD.
