

The Russians in Turkey.
The peace of Europe hangs by a thread as fine as that which suspended the sword of Damocles; and the will of a single man is to decide the question whether all Christendom shall be once more plunged in blood. The Emperor of Russia, with a cruelty and insolence of power worthy of the Nebuchadnezzars of antiquity, proposes to the Sultan the alternative of the basest submission to the most inhuman commands, or the weight of an Autocratic vengeance, which really aims at his dethronement and the seizure of his dominions. England and France, startled at the danger, threaten a coalition and joint intervention for the protection of Turkey; to which they are equally pledged by their interests and their honor. If they persist—and how can they now falter!—nothing can prevent a war but the sudden retreat of Nicholas from all his pretensions and menaces—an abandonment of all his demands—a falsification of his pledge and character—an entire reversal of acts and policy, and a surrender of pride and will, tantamount to the transformation of the hero into a harlequin, a great soldier and Emperor into a sneaking Parolles and king of school-boys. The question is, will Nicholas now retreat? Most of the foreign papers proclaim the conviction that the surest means of preserving peace—that is, of course, by deterring the Emperor from making war on Turkey. As for ourselves, we entertain no such hope, but believe that things have now reached that pass—being precisely the pass, too, to which Russia has long labored to bring them—in which a Turkish war is inevitable, followed or accompanied by a general European war, if France and England should not tamely resolve to stand neuter.

It is not probable that the remonstrance of the two latter powers will have the slightest effect in deterring, or even temporarily checking the progress of the Czar. He cannot retreat or pause without making what the world—and, which is worse than the world his own subjects—will consider a confession of cowardice and powerlessness too humiliating, and too injurious, to be thought of for a moment—without entirely losing the advantages & prestige consequent upon his late Hungarian triumphs. His hour, moreover has come; it is the great moment of opportunity, expected and toiled for during a half century of Russian ambition. His armies are all ready—the Hungarian campaign has placed them on or near the Turkish frontier, whence a moment's signal will precipitate them across the Danube and Balkan, on the high road to Constantinople. Austria, heretofore his greatest obstacle is now his slave and instrument, bound to promote his plans and assist his defence. With such preparations and such an auxiliary he can drive the Grand Seigneur across the Bosphorus, and sweep him even out of Asia Minor, before France and England could make any effective resistance; and if he is before them on the scene of conflict, they can not so much as approach his path of conquest. He would perhaps garrison the Dardanelles before a combined fleet could enter the Hellespont; and if the sea route be closed he is impregnable by land. The bondage of Austria compels the obsequiousness of Prussia,—to say nothing of the personal interests of Frederick William and the hopes of the nobility, which would attach them to Russia in any great conflict with democratic France; and with Austria and Prussia the rest of the German states would have to follow.—It may be questioned whether the combinations which Russia can now form against France and England, are not more than sufficient to prevent their making a serious impression any where except in Italy, and perhaps Bavaria; but, at all events, they can prevent the progress, and the peril, of French and British armies.

The moment for successful opposition to Russian ambition was thrown away when Nicholas was permitted to march his armies into Hungary. Intervention then would have been effectual; it would have saved both Hungary and Turkey. But wisdom and courage and an honest purpose were then wanting both in France and England. The two free countries of Europe preferred to witness the butchery of Hungarian freedom by the Czar who never should have been allowed to march a soldier over his frontier; and now they have their reward. The Czar has gained his purpose and a position in which their opposition will be fruitless, and their attack more perilous to them than to him. He can afford now to be as bold as he wishes to be; as bad as his interests impel him to be; he can laugh at these two governments—insult them (he has insulted Louis Napoleon already)—defy them—disregard their coalition—and reply to their remonstrances with contempt and menace. He is on the eve—or that is, at least the appearance of things—of becoming the master of Europe.

The great question in our judgment is not whether Russia will persevere and France and England back their remonstrance with arms; but whether they will intervene with courage and energy, and whether—that being supposed to be the case—Turkey can maintain herself and keep the Russians in play long enough to allow the intervention to be of any solid advantage which it can scarcely be without the despatch of powerful navies and numerous military reinforcements to Constantinople, and the whole line of the Bosphorus and Hellespont.

The question may now be asked, whether Europe is not upon the eve of witnessing the verification of the memorable prediction of Napoleon? Europe is, certainly, not "republican." Is she about to be "Cossack."—North America.

APPLETON'S GREAT CENTRAL
CHEAP BOOK STORE,
164 Chesnut Street,
Corner of Seventh, Swann's Buildings,
PHILADELPHIA.

KNOWING the wants of the community, the Proprietor of this establishment has fitted up a store in the most elegant manner, having due regard to the comfort of his customers, so that every stranger visiting his Book Store, may feel entirely at home.

HIS IMMENSE STOCK of Books is classified according to the various Departments of Literature, so that visitors can find the books they are in search of for themselves. Buying his stock for the most part at the AUCTION SALES, and being connected with one of the LARGEST PUBLISHING HOUSES in this country, besides publishing largely himself, enables him to sell ALL BOOKS at than any other house of a similar character on this continent. His facilities for the IMPORTATION of Books from Europe are unsurpassed, having a branch of his Establishment in London, where orders of private gentlemen are carefully executed and forwarded to this Country by every STEAMER and PACKET.

LOWER PRICES

A CATALOGUE
of Books with the prices attached is issued quarterly, containing Lists of New Additions made to his large collection, which are in all cases for sale at the LOWEST PRICES, or, from 25 to 75 per cent. below Publishers' Prices. Thus in buying even a few books, quite a considerable amount is saved.

As a still further INDUCEMENT to strangers visiting the city, every one who purchases One Dollar's worth of Books, will receive a copy of the STRANGER IN PHILADELPHIA, an elegant 18mo volume, the price of which is 25 cents.

The limits of this advertisement are too confined to enumerate the prices of any of the Books, or to give even a faint idea of the immense advantages to be derived from purchasing at the Great Central Cheap Book Store, but let all who are in search of Books send for a Catalogue, and buy the Books they are in want of, and when visiting the city, give Appleton one call, and you will be sure to call again.

STATIONARY
in all its branches, furnished at the Lowest Prices. The Initials of those purchasing Letter and Note Paper, neatly stamped in the corner without charge.
Orders for any article may be sent by mail, addressed to the Proprietor, and the directions in all cases will be fully carried out, with great punctuality and despatch.

Orders for Catalogues should be prepaid.

FEVER & AGUE
Chill Fever, Dumb Ague, Intermittent & Remittent Fevers, & all the various forms of Bilious Diseases
SPEEDILY & THOROUGHLY CURED
By Dr. Osgood's India Cholagogue

This excellent compound, which never fails in the cure of Fever and Ague, is for sale by the proprietor's agents, T. READ & SON, Huntingdon; L. G. KESSLER, Mill Creek.

WHAT IS THE MATTER with me, Doctor! What is the cause of this sallow complexion, jaundiced eye, depression of spirits, pain in the side and shoulder, weariness of body, bitter taste in the mouth? Such is the inquiry, and such the symptoms of many a sufferer! It is the liver which is diseased, and the Cholagogue is the remedy always successful in curing it. Try it, and judge for yourself. For sale by above named agents.

BETTER DIE THAN LIVE, if I am to be tortured from day to day with this horrible Ague, exclaims the poor sufferer whose life has become a burden from the racking paroxysms of an intermitting, and whose confidence in human aid is destroyed by the failure of remedies to produce the promised relief. Such has been the situation of thousands who are now rejoicing in all the blessings of health from the use of Dr. Osgood's India Cholagogue. In no instance does it fail to effect a speedy and permanent cure. For sale by above named agents.
"How few who think aright among the thinking few,
How many never think, but only think they do."

THE SENTIMENT IMPLIED in the above exclamation is no subject more fully exemplified than on that of health. But few give it a single thought, and fewer still reflect upon it with the observation and good sense which matters of minor consequence receive. As observation teaches the fact that Dr. Osgood's India Cholagogue is a never failing remedy in Fever and Ague, good sense would surely indicate its prompt and immediate use. For sale by the above named agents.

ALEXANDRIA FOUNDRY.

THE subscriber respectfully announces to the public that he is prepared to do work of all kinds connected with the Foundry business, in the best manner, and on the most reasonable terms.
He has constantly on hand wagon boxes, ploughs and plough castings, hollow ware, and stoves of various kinds and sizes. The cooking stoves which he manufactures are inferior to none in the country, and are warranted to perform the various operations of cooking and baking in a manner equal to any, and superior to most. He has these stoves calculated for either wood or coal. He has lately procured patterns for wood and parlor stoves, which for beauty and excellence cannot be excelled. Also, stoves for offices, shops, &c., such as egg stoves, cannon stoves, and others. He invites persons desirous of purchasing to give him a call, as he is determined to sell as good an article and at as low prices as can be obtained at any other place.

LIFE INSURANCE.
The Girard Life Insurance Annuity and Trust Company of Philadelphia.
Office No. 159 Chestnut Street.
Capital $300,000.
CHARTER PERPETUAL.

CONTINUE to make Insurances on Lives on the most favorable terms, receive and execute Trusts and receive deposits on interest.
The Capital being paid up and invested, together with accumulated premium fund, affords a perfect security to the insured. The premium may be paid in yearly, half yearly, or quarterly payments.
The Company add a BONUS at stated periods to the insurances for life. This plan of insurance is the most approved of, and is more generally in use, than any other in Great Britain, (where the subject is best understood by the people, and where they have had the longest experience) as appears from the fact, that out of 117 Life Insurance Companies there, of all kinds, 87 are on this plan.

The first BONUS was appropriated in December 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the sum insured under the oldest policies; to 8.3-4 per cent., 7.1-2 per cent., &c. &c. on others, in proportion to the time of standing, making an addition of $100; $87.50; $75, &c. &c. to every 1,000, originally insured, which is an average of more than 50 per cent. on the premiums paid, and without increasing the annual payment of the company.

The operation of the BONUS will be seen by the following examples from the Life Insurance Register of the Company, thus:

Policy.	Insured.	Bonus or Addition	Amt. of prof. and bonus payable at the party's decease.
No. 58	$1,000	$100.00	$1,100.00
" 88	2,500	250.00	2,750.00
" 205	4,000	400.00	4,400.00
" 276	2,000	175.00	2,175.00
" 333	5,000	437.50	5,437.50

Pamphlets containing the table of rates, and explanations of the subject; forms of application and further information can be had at the office, gratis, in person or by letter, addressed to the President or Actuary.

GREEN'S OXYGENATED
BITTERS, FOR THE CURE OF
DYSPEPSIA, GENEAL DEBILITY,
&c., &c., &c.

This medicine is an excellent tonic. It imparts health and vigor to the digestive organs and thus strengthens the whole system. Hence it is just the thing for Spring, when many need something strengthening. Let every one read the following cases, and if you have one or more symptoms like those mentioned, don't fail to try this invaluable medicine.

Severe Case of Dyspepsia.
From R. P. STOW, Esq., Asst. Clerk U. S. House Representatives.

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 15, 1846.
Dr. Geo. B. GREEN:—Dear Sir—I feel it not only a pleasure, but a duty, to make known to you and to the public, (if you desire it,) the surprising effects of the "Oxygenated Bitters," in relieving me from that most discouraging disorder, Dyspepsia. I have been afflicted for about seventeen years with the usual attendant symptoms, viz: corruption of the bowels, headache, pain in the chest, flatulence, acidity of the stomach, and severe nausea; and for months at a time not the least particle of moisture would appear on the surface of the chest or limbs, and most of the time I was extremely bilious. I have used various remedies, have been strict in my diet, have been doctored with calomel and emetics day after day by physicians, but all to no good purpose. Hearing of the wonderful effects of the "Oxygenated Bitters," in the cure of Dyspepsia; I procured some as a last resort. I have used four bottles of the medicine, and find the bad symptoms all removed, and myself once more in the enjoyment of health. None but the Dyspeptic sufferer, who has felt all the horrors of the disease, can at all appreciate the value of the medicine. I most sincerely hope that all will make trial of the medicine, and with me be able to rejoice in the return of health.

Lady Cured of Neuralgia.
From Rev. THOMAS KIDDER, of Vermont.

WINNSBOR, Vt., Aug. 8, 1846.
DEAR SIR:—It gives me great pleasure to inform you that the "Oxygenated Bitters," with which you furnished my wife, has wrought a cure in her case. About two years since, my wife was violently attacked with neuralgia in the face, throbbing in the chest, in the wrists and ankles. So violent was the disease, added to a general derangement of the female system, that her strength was completely prostrated, her flesh wasted, and she rendered miserable indeed. I feel grateful for the restoration of her health, and in duty bound to give publicity to the above facts, that others similarly afflicted may know where to seek for cure. Truly your friend,
THOMAS KIDDER.

From Hon. MYRON LAWRENCE, of Mass.

"For some twenty years I had suffered severely from humoral Asthma. I was compelled to sit up one-third of the night, and the rest of the time my sleep was interrupted by violent fits of coughing and great difficulty of breathing. In all my attendance upon our courts I never went to bed in Northampton in twenty years but twice, and then was compelled to get up. Now I lie in bed without difficulty, and sleep soundly. I took the "Oxygenated Bitters," according to directions. The violent symptoms immediately abated, and perseverance in the use of the remedy has removed all its troublesome consequences. The value of such a remedy is incalculable, and I hope its virtues may be widely diffused and its beneficial agency extensively employed."
GREEN & PATERSON, General Agents, No. 26, South Sixth St., Philadelphia.
