Nine children were bitten seriously; the clothing and boots of women and men were snapped at; and several dogs, a cat, and other nimals were attacked by it, and more or less in-jured. As soon as it became generally known that the rabid animal was at large, the citizens turned out with guns, plistols, and clube, and gave clusse to it in good earnesi; and innally succeeded in killing it. All the persons bitten took medi-cine to prevent the fatal effects which would un-turally result; and time will determine whether it is effectual.
