WHIG STATE CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Whig State Central Committee, held at Harrisburg on Tuesday the 4th instant, it was resolved that the Delegates to the late Whig State Convention be requested to assemble in Philadelphia on the NINETEENTH DAY OF JUNE next, at 9 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the Death of Hon. Richard Coulter. cancy occasioned by the Death of HorRichard Coulter.

We call attention to the proceedings of the Broadtop Railroad meeting held in this place on last Friday evening—and to the solumns for a the North Branch Extension, place on last Friday evening—and to the notice in our advertising columns for a meeting of the Commissioners on the 10th June next, in Huntingdon. The names of all the Commissioners named in the act of incorporation are appended to the call, and it is hoped they will all be in attendance on the day mentioned. An organized and vigorous effort will insure the success of

The Washington Correspondent of the North American says—

It is as fixed as the decrees of fate, that Winfield Scott will be nominated for President by the Whig National Convention at Bultimore, and will be elected in November next by a vote North, and South, and East, and West, that will astound even his most sanguine supporters. In less than six months this prediction will be fulfilled or falsified. In the fullness of faith I abide the result; and if our Democratic friends are skeptical on this subject, and will name any candidate on their side in opposition, they can have the chance of improving their fortunes by certifying their confidence.

The Appropriations for the Public Works of the State.

Among the last acts of the Legislature was the passage of the General Appropriation Bill. From this bill, a tolerably fair idea may be formed as to the cost of keeping up and prosecuting the public works for the coming year. We give the items exactly as they appear in the bill:

Paym't of interest on the fund-ed debt which was incurred in building our State roads and canals,

Here is a grand total of four millions six hundred and fifty-two thousand and nine dollars to be raised during the present fiscal year for the public works of Pennsylvania. At the end of the year the account will stand thus:

To me made up, $2,852,009

To me made up, $2,852,009

Tax payers of Pennsylvania! The above is the amount of the bill which you will have to foot, in the public improvement line, for the year of grace, 1852. For the glorious privilege of owning and managing railroads and canals, and keeping in office, countenance and power, a whole army of robbers and defaulters, you will have to raise this year, by loan or otherwise, (in addition to your other taxes) the enormous sum of two millions eight hundred and fifty-two thousand and nine dollars.—Pleasant, isn't it? Don't you think it high time to assume the management of your own affairs, and to elect to office only such men as are known to be opposed to the designs of the public plunderers and known to be in favor of the unconditional sale of the public works.—Lycoming Dem.

Prospects of Gen. scott.

A Washington Correspondent of the Ne York Journal of Commerce says that the friends of General Scott are not at all dis-couraged as to his nomination, by the position taken by the Southern Whigs. They claim four votes for him from the Kentucky delegation, and four from Virginia. They allow Fillmore and Webster only three votes in the whole New York delegation, and not twenty altogether, from all the non-slaveholding States.

The friends of Gen. Scott, in the present state of circumstances, claim one hundred and sixty votes from the non-slaveholding States; three votes from Delaware; four from Kentucky; and four from Virginia;—making 177 votes, leaving Mr. Fillmore and Webster in a minority of 119. This they state as the result of the first ballot; and they go on to claim the ultimate as-sent of all or nearly all the Northern Whig delegates from the non-slaveholding States. [Reading Journal.
