Journal for the Campaign! PATRIOTS READ!

Believing that hundreds of patriotic individuals, in this county, who are generally averse to mixing in the din of party politics, nevertheless, at this time, anxious to learn more of the public and private history of the peoples' favorite, Gen. WINFIELD Scott—to familiarize themselves more fully with all the interesting, soul-stirring incidents in the life and character of the great hero-statesman—the most renowned military leader in the world, and scarcely less distinguished for the sagacity and sucless distinguished for the sagacty and see cess of his civil diplomacy—we propose to devote a large portion of the "Journal" to reminescences of his life and actions, both reminescences of his life and actions, both as the leader of our armies and the agent of our government—all drawn from authentic history, public documents, and other reliable sources—and to furnish our paper to new subscribers from this time till the first of December, at the following low rates, viz :
