The editor of the Yankee Blade, says it is curious how many thousand things there are, which it won't do to do upon this cozy planet of ours, whereupon we cat, sleep, and get our dinners. For instance—
It won't do to plunge into a law suit, relying wholly on the justice of your cause, and not equipped beforehand with a brimming purse.

and not equipped beforehand with a brimming purse.

If won't do to tweak a man's nose, or tell him he lies, unless you are perfectly satisfied he has not spunk enough to resent it by blowing your brains out, or (if you have no brains) erack your skull.

It won't do, when snow drifts are piled up mountains high, and sleighs are eternally upseting, to ride out with a beautiful, lively, fasinating girl, and not expect to get smashed with her.

It won't do to crack jokes on old maids, in the presence of unmarried ladies who have passed the age of forty.

It won't do to imagine a legislature, fed at the public crib, will sit but six weeks, when two-thirds of the members have not the capacity to earn a decent living at home.

It won't do for a man to fancy a lady's

It won't do to be desperately enamored of a pretty face till you have seen it at the breakfast table.

It won't do to be so devoted to a tenderhearted wife as to comply implicitly with her request when she asks you, "Now, tumble over the cradle, and break your neck, my dear, won't you?"

It won't do totake hold of a hair-trigger pistol during a fit of the blnes.

It won't do for a politician to imagine himself elected to the Gubernatorial chair, while "the back counties remain to be heard from."

It won't do to pop the question more than a dozen time after a lady has said "No!"

It won't do to talk of cabbage when tailors are standing by, nor of wooden nutmegs and white oak hams, when there are Connecticut yankees about.

It won't do to go barefoot in winter to get rid of trouble from corns.

Dr. Wall, once at a dinner table very unwisely persisted in playing with a cork, in such a manner as displayed a hand long divorced from soap and water. One guest expressed his surprise to another, and in too loud a whisper, exclaimed, "Heavens, what a dirty hand!"

The Dr. overheard, and turning sharply round, said, "Sir, I'll bet you a guinea there's a dirtier one in company."
"Done," replied the first, sure of winning. The guineas were staked, and the Doctor showed his other hand. He was judged to have won, without a dissenting voice.
